TRUMAN SAYS U.S. MUST ACT AT ONCE ON DEVELOPMENT OF GREAT VALLEYS

(Pictures in Everyday Magazine.)

By ERNEST B. VACCARO

GILBERTSVILLE, Ky., Oct. 10 (AP) — President Truman told cheering thousands here today the United States must proceed immediately with the development of all its great river valleys to provide electricity and "wage war against flood and drouth."

Truman spoke from a platform at the base of the $115,000,000 Tennessee Valley Authority Gilbertsville dam after a 35-mile automobile trip from the Paducah airport on which he was applauded by thousands of Kentuckians lining the route. School children waved flags and their elders saluted the Chief Executive with fluttering handkerchiefs or shouted "Helloes." Early this afternoon the President left in his plane for Washington.

TVA "Common Sense."

In dedicating the huge new dam Truman called TVA "just plain common sense" and added:

"The valleys of America await their full development. The time has come—now that materials and manpower are more plentiful—to press forward. The days of the pioneer are not dead. The development of our natural resources calls for men of courage, of vision, of endurance, just as in the pioneering days of old."

The President said the policy of regional decentralization under which the Tennessee river has been harnessed for power, flood control, navigation and other purposes "ought to be followed in the other river valleys as regional agencies are created and set to work."

At the same time, he said "details of administration and control" may "have to be different" in the development of other valleys.

Commenting to reporters in advance of his address, the President said he had not retreated one step from his advocacy of a chain of regional TVAs as proposed by the late President Roosevelt and which Truman indorsed in a speech at New Orleans last year.

He said the decision he would leave with the people was largely the question of the emphasis to be placed on flood control, power, irrigation or navigation in the development of the Tennessee Valley.

He is stanchly in favor of federal authority to supervise develment of the valley, he said.

U.S. AND BRITAIN PLEDGED TO MAKE SECURITY WORK

America Is in United Nations Task 'All the Way and to Stay,' Stettinius Says—'Atomic War Suicide'—Attlee.

By ALEX SINGLETON

LONDON, Oct. 10 (AP)—British Prime Minister Attlee and Edward R. Stettinius Jr. of the United States dedicated their nations today to making the United Nations' World Security Organization work.

There is no alternative, Attlee said, for "atomic energy has been liberated and that fact makes war merely a form of suicide for mankind."

Stettinius, former Secretary of State who is chief American delegate to the United Nations' Council, asserted "this time the United States is in it—all the way in it—and in it to stay."

Their addresses were prepared for a demonstration of the United Nations' organization.

Saying he spoke for all parties, Attlee set forth Britain's policy thus:

"It is the firm intention of His Majesty's government to make the success of the United Nations the primary objective of their foreign policy."

"We have come to a period in our history, Attlee added, "when mankind must either set up an institution of this kind or face consequences so appalling that the mind shrinks even from contemplating them. . . .

"If war is to be avoided, there must be in the world something to do in the future what war has often done in the past—to make great decisions between the nations. There must be a means by which different countries can learn to work together for the benefit of all.

Stettinius said "the problems of collective security and of economic and social reconstruction that confront us will not wait—expedients and halfway measures might have serious consequences.

"In the field of security," he continued, "we need to begin on the task of providing the security council with the force it needs to maintain peace. The first step is to establish the military staff committee of the five permanent members of the security council."

Admitting that there were still isolationists in the United States, he asserted that Britain had them,

ALLIED COUNCIL IN REICH APPROVES LAW ENDING ALL NAZI ORGANIZATIONS

BERLIN, Oct. 10 (AP)

THE Allied Control Council approved a law today ending and liquidating all Nazi organizations of every form. The text of the law, embodying a number of measures taken previously, will be published Friday.

British Field Marshal Sir Bernard L. Montgomery was absent from the meeting. He was reported recovering after an airplane accident. Soviet Marshal Georgi K. Zhukov also was absent because of a severe throat infection which was reported improved.

DARNAND, VICHY CHIEF OF MILITIA, EXECUTED

He Cries 'Vive la France' as as Firing Squad Prepares to Shoot.

PARIS, Oct. 10 (AP)—A firing squad of 12 French soldiers executed Joseph Darnand, former chief of the Vichy militia, at Fort de Chatillon this morning.

Darnand was convicted of treason on Oct. 3 by the same court which yesterday pronounced sentence of death on his superior, Pierre Laval.

A Dominican priest, Darnand's lawyer, a doctor and two magistrates were in the group which witnessed the execution. Just before the shots were fired Darnand cried out:

"Vive la France! Farewell, my militiamen."

WAR CRIMES JUDGES DECIDE ON NUERNBERG PROCEDURE

BERLIN, Oct. 10 (AP)—Trial judges of the international war crimes tribunal today formalized the details for procedure in the forthcoming trial at Nuernberg of 24 principal Nazi leaders.

At the same time French, American and British prosecutors met to discuss plans for releasing the text of the bulky indictments, for publication. The Russian prosecutor was absent, however, delaying the next step.

Members of the staff of Justice Robert H. Jackson, United States member of the prosecution, said there would be at least a 24-hour lapse between the filling of the indictment and its release for publication in Moscow, London, Paris and Washington.

Rats Ate Records, but Tax Agents Found Tavern Man Owed $35,000

Rats chewed up records of a St. Louis tavern keeper's business, the tavern man told internal revenue agents when they sought to check up on his federal income tax payments of about $4000 for the years 1942-43-44. He showed them a handful of torn and mutilated papers, and said the amount he had returned and paid was his best estimate of what he owed.

The agents got records from the wholesale firms with which the man had dealt. The result was a claim of $35,000 additional income tax, and $2000 interest, due for the three-year period, Collector James P. Finnegan made known today.

In St. Louis county, the collector said, the checkers have assessed additional taxes of at least $6000 each against several grocery proprietors for the same three-year period, and the grocers have paid the amounts demanded. The examination of their returns is part of the drive being made here and throughout the United States for the collection of delinquent taxes, due in part from persons who have sought to conceal profits of black market operations.

QUINN ROAD BILL PASSED; DONNELLY VETO IS LIKELY

House Adopts Measure to Lodge Control of Highway Building With Rural Areas.

By CURTIS A. BETTS
State Political Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 10—In an almost frantic haste to put control of the State Highway Department definitely in the rural areas of the state and build little-used local roads at the expense of the congested statewide highway system, the House late yesterday passed the Quinn bill with an emergency clause which is virtually certain to result in a veto of the bill by Gov. Donnelly.

The Governor established a precedent for a veto in a message to the House several months ago, in which he said that one of the principal reasons for his refusal to approve a bill setting up a new state park board was that the attempt to declare an emergency was "false on its face." The Quinn bill emergency clause is practically a duplicate of that in the park board bill.

The Quinn bill proposed to substitute for the present four-member state highway commission a new commission of 10 members, one appointed from each of the present 10 administrative divisions of the highway department.

Basis of Opposition.

From the time of its introduction, it was opposed by organizations which have been foremost in promoting good roads in the state. The opposition was based principally on the ground that it would sectionalize the department; that it would result in logrolling among the commissioners, each striving to obtain as much money as possible for his own district, and that the result would be a long delay in reconstruction badly needed on the statewide system.

An additional anticipated effect would be to prevent St. Louis, Kansas City and other larger cities, from which the larger part of highway revenues are derived, from participating in their expenditure. Until the new Constitution was adopted construction of city streets with state funds was prohibited. Now, however, the commission is authorized to grant aid in building city streets which are used as a part of the state highway system.

Despite opposition by sena-

U.S. Invites Nine Other Nations to Meeting Oct. 23—Byrnes Says U.S. General Will Stay as Allied Chief.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10 (AP)—The United States has called a meeting of a proposed Far Eastern Advisory Commission for Oct. 23 in Washington, but intends to make no change in Gen. Douglas MacArthur's post as Allied Supreme Commander in Japan.

Secretary of State Byrnes announced the meeting today, saying that invitations had gone out to nine other governments and that India may be included at Britain's suggestion.

Simultaneously, Byrnes confirmed that Russia had suggested that the creation of the advisory commission be preceded by establishment of a control council for Japan. (London reports previously described this proposed body as a four-power council representing the United States, Britain, Russia and China.)

Such a step would mean either replacing or lowering MacArthur from his present position. Byrnes, making it clear that he personally does not favor this Russian proposition, said there is no intention of altering MacArthur's status.

Proposed By U. S.

Nations invited to the advisory commission meeting here are Russia, Britain, China, France, Canada, Australia, The Netherlands, New Zealand and the Philippines.

Britain has suggested that India be included. The United States, agreeing for itself, has passed the suggestion on to Russia and China.

The advisory commission was proposed by the United States on Aug. 21, a week after Japan surrendered. The Chinese Government accepted Aug. 31, Russia Sept. 7 and Britain, after requesting some changes, accepted Sept. 27.

Byrnes gave these dates to show, he said, that he had not proposed anything new about Japan at the recent foreign ministers' meeting at London. The Big Four of the Pacific war approved inclusion of the other six countries in the advisory council and they were so notified on Oct. 6. Yesterday, Byrnes said, the United States sent identical telegrams for the commission to meet Oct. 23.

In preparation for its own role, Byrnes named as the American representative Maj. Gen. Frank R. McCoy, retired Army officer, who is president of the Foreign Policy Association.

British Changes.

Byrnes said the commission would have been in action weeks ago if Britain had made earlier agreement on the proposal. He reported that the two things Britain gained from its objections was first the probability of member-

M'ARTHUR BRIDGE NO LONGER FREE TO SERVICE MEN'S CARS

The war is over now, and servicemen who have been enjoying toll-free use of MacArthur Bridge must now pay the regulation charge of 10 cents per automobile, Comptroller Louis Nolte announced today.

Tolls for service men had been waived under terms of a city ordinance, but Nolte asked City Counselor George L. Stemmler for an opinion as to whether this privilege extended indefinitely or was limited to the duration of hostilities. The ruling was that it applied only for the duration.

This decision is not popular with men in uniform, and collectors on the bridge have received vehement protests since the toll-free privilege was ended last Monday. But in no case has any soldier been denied use of the bridge, it was pointed out, collectors being instructed for the time being to pass those who objected to payment. The added income is expected to be about $3000 a month.

STALIN LEAVES MOSCOW FOR VACATION AND REST

Hasn't Had Respite Since Before War; No Indication as to Where He Has Gone.

MOSCOW, Oct. 10 (AP) — The Kremlin announced today that Generalissimo Joseph Stalin, who has not had a respite from the duties of his office since before the war, has left Moscow for a vacation and a rest.

The announcement, which was printed on the front pages of all Soviet newspapers, said Stalin left the capital yesterday but did not say where he had gone nor how long he would be away

MARSHALL WARNS 'PREPARE OR PERISH' IN ATOMIC AGE; 'TERRIFYING' NEW WEAPONS

GENERAL URGES YEAR'S TRAINING FOR ALL WHO MAY HAVE TO FIGHT

U. S. Chief of Staff Wants Permanent Peacetime Citizen Army; Intense Scientific Research.

By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10 (AP)—Gen. George C. Marshall lifted the lid last night on an arsenal of "terrifying" new weapons. He warned an America entering the atomic age that it must "prepare or perish."

To cope with the menace of scientific mass destruction and to "enforce our will for peace with strength," the Army Chief of Staff urged:

1. Intense scientific research and development.

2. A permanent peacetime citizen-army, trained and ready to take up arms, but "not a large standing army subject to the behest of a group of schemers."

Gen. Marshall proposed a year's "unbroken" training, as opposed to brief periods spread over several years, for "all men who might some day have to fight for their nation."

In his biennial report to Secretary of War Patterson, Gen. Marshall said that the atomic bomb is not alone among the scientific advances "that make the possibilities of the future so terrifying."

Arsenal of Modern Weapons.

Because "it is so important that the people of the United States realize the possibilities of the future," Marshall said, he had asked Gen. H. H. Arnold, chief of the Army Air Forces, to estimate the capabilities of modern weapons.

Here are some of the hitherto highly secret developments Gen. Arnold reported:

"We can direct rockets to targets by electronic devices and new instruments which guide them accurately to sources of heat, light, and magnetism. Drawn by their own fuses, such rockets will streak unerringly to the heart of big factories, attracted by the heat of the furnaces. They are so sensitive that in the space of a large room they aim themselves toward a man who enters, in reaction to the heat of his body."

Within the next few years there will be produced jet-propelled bombers with speeds of 500 to 600 miles an hour, flying to targets 1500 miles distant at altitudes above 40,000 feet.

Development of even greater bombers, to operate in the stratosphere at supersonic speeds faster than sound and carrying bomb loads of more than 100,000 pounds already is certain.

"These aircraft will have sufficient range to attack any spot on the earth and return to a friendly base," Gen Arnold reported.

"At this very moment we are making a single bomb weighing 45,000 pounds to keep pace with the bomber, already under construction, which will carry such a load. Air ordnance engineers have blue-printed a bomb weighing 100,000 pounds."

Improvement of our jet fighters "may well produce within the next five years an aircraft capable of the speed of sound and of reaching targets 2000 miles away at altitudes above 50,000 feet.

"With the continued development of weapons and techniques now known to us, the cities of New York, Pittsburgh, Detroit, Chicago, or San Francisco may be subject to annihilation from other continents in a matter of hours."

Discovery of the secret of atomic power, said Gen. Marshall, "can be man's greatest benefit" or "it can destroy him." Then he added:

"It is against the latter terrible possibility that this nation must prepare or perish.

Everyone on Earth Affected.

"Atomic power will affect the peaceful life of every individual on earth. And it will at the same

JAPAN'S POLITICAL PRISONERS FREED; U.S. ORDER LIMITS NATION'S IMPORTS

Communists Welcoming Liberated Captives Turn Backs on Imperial Palace — Rival Workers' Group Assails Reds.

TOKYO, Oct. 10 (AP)—Japanese, parading with red banners and Korean independence flags, jammed traffic in front of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters today, celebrating the release of political prisoners, including some Communists.

The parade crowd was small—only about 600—but the marchers formed after an all-day meeting of the Japanese Communist party and they turned their backs on the Imperial palace, just cross the street from MacArthur's headquarters.

Parade leader was Inosuke Makanishi, long-imprisoned hero of the Tokyo Communists. The crowd shouted frequent "Banzais" in appreciation for the American order for release of the prisoners, who had been held in four Japanese jails.

Urge Abolition of Throne.

The Communists demand abolition of the Imperial throne and turning their backs to the palace was in defiance of custom which requires passersby to bow toward the Emperor's quarters.

Directly opposing the Communist program was a new organization, the National Federation of Toilers, which pledged itself to the defense of the Imperial house and assailed the Reds.

Gen. MacArthur meanwhile issued a new directive to the Japanese Government restricting Japanese imports to those commodities which are vital to the minimum standard of living in Japan, and which cannot be produced in the country. He also ordered that all imported goods be paid for in cash or Japanese-made goods.

Check-Up on Assets.

High-placed Japanese said the Americans issued a directive yesterday ordering a full report on all Japanese assets in foreign countries. This, they said, was another Allied effort to obtain information on all Nipponese monetary reserves and it also may determine whether Japanese war lords and industrial leaders had opened bank accounts abroad.

The Japanese navy's chief paymaster, V. Adm. Ushinosuke Yamamoto, disclosed that the navy's impounded fortune of several million dollars was acquired from conquered nations and from the Japanese people themselves and was paid for abroad in now-worthless military currency and at home in promissory notes which never were redeemed.

Crowd Cheers Freed Captives.

Sixteen liberated prisoners walked through the big wooden gate in Fuchu prison's massive stone wall to be hoisted immediately to the shoulders of the cheering crowd.

The crowd listened quietly while Communist Kyuichi Tokuda urged overthrow of the imperial system.

STATE LIQUOR TAX INCOME UP 23 PCT. SO FAR THIS YEAR

By BOYD F. CARROLL
Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 10—Increased liquor consumption in Missouri and a rise in the number of licensed liquor dealers are responsible for an increase of $1,079,710, or 23 per cent, in liquor taxes and fees collected by the state in the first nine months of 1945, compared to a like period last year, State Liquor Control Supervisor Edmund Burke said today.

Collections of license fees and liquor, beer and wine taxes totaled $5,758,356 up to last Sept. 30, compared to $4,678,645 for the first nine months of last year.

Liquor and wine taxes totaled $3,695,672, a gain of $934,406 over 1944. The 10,405 liquor, wine and beer dealers licensed this year, a gain of 766, paid $1,079,413 in state fees, an increase of $127,237 over last year.

Beer taxes totaled $983,270, a net gain of $18,067, or 1.87 per cent over the tax paid on 5 per cent and 3.2 beer in the like period of 1944.

UMW, OPERATORS FAIL TO AGREE ON MINE PEACE PLAN

Will Meet With Schwellenbach Again on Agreement to Negotiate on Foremen.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10 (AP)—Soft coal operators and president John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers failed at a three-hour conference today to reach agreement on a compromise plan to end strikes affecting 186,800 miners.

They did agree, however, to renew their talks with Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach at a session later this afternoon.

Prior to the morning meeting, Schwellenbach reported that the two sides were "not far apart." Neither representatives of the UMW nor the operators would comment as they left the conference room.

Schwellenbach sought to settle differences which arose over wording of the peace proposal to negotiate the dispute over recognition of a foremen's union affiliated with Lewis's United Mine Workers.

Lewis had objected to making a letter from Schwellenbach, interpreting the agreement, a part of the pact itself. The operators wanted Schwellenbach's interpretation included to protect their position in opposing unionization of the foremen, they said.

The 20-day strike over refusal of the operators to recognize the United Mine Workers' foremen's union has 749 mines shut down in six states. Soft coal production is down nearly a million tons a day.

Lewis initially made the proposal to end the strike if the operators would negotiate on the recognition issue. But the operators countered with a condition: Their willingness to negotiate shouldn't be taken as any retreat from their stand that foremen and supervisors should not be unionized be-

GENERAL MISSING IN CRASH OF B-29 AT SEA ON OCT. 7

Five Others Lost, Two Killed and Three Rescued, War Department Announces.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10 (AP)—Brig. Gen. Joe L. Loutzenheiser, assistant chief of staff for plans for the Eighth Air Force, and five other airmen are missing, two are dead and three have been rescued at sea from a Superfortress that crashed into the ocean, 400 miles off Guam Oct. 7, the War Department announced today.

The Superfortress took off from Okinawa on Oct. 7. A radio message said engine trouble developed and two engines caught fire. The crew parachuted into the ocean.

Other planes immediately started a search, rescued the three and located the bodies of the dead.

A native of Canton, O., Gen. Loutzenheiser served as a private and sergeant in World War I, then was appointed to the United States Military Academy.

Before going to the Pacific last summer he served as chief of the operational plans division of the office of the assistant chief of air staff for plans in Washington.

GEISHA HOUSES AT TOKYO CLOSE BY GEN. MAC ARTHUR

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 10 (AP) — Guthrey Janssen, National Broadcasting Co. correspondent, reported from Tokyo today that Gen. Douglas MacArthur had decreed the closing of 211 geisha houses and 391 other entertainment spots in and around Tokyo and added:

"The reason, according to a Japanese source, is that one American soldier recently was blinded by drinking methyl alcohol."

Town to Test Ultra-Violet Rays In Control of Colds and Influenza

PLEASANTVILLE, N. Y., Oct. 10 (AP)—Use of ultra-violet ray irradiation in schools, churches and theaters for control of air-borne diseases such as colds and influenza will be tested here in a three-year experiment, Dr. William A. Holla, Westchester county health commissioner, announced yesterday.

Dr. Holla said the test—the first to be applied to an entire community—would begin Jan. 1. Ultra violet ray lamps will be installed in Pleasantville's three schools, eight churches and one movie theater.

The experiment also is aimed at such diseases as mumps, measles and some types of pneumonia, Dr. Holla said. Mount Kisco, N. Y., a village seven miles from here and comparable in school population, will be kept under observation, for comparison.

Besides the county health department, sponsors of the project are the Milbank Memorial Fund, the School of Medicine of the University of Pennsylvania, and the General Electric Co.

'ATOMIC POWER CAN BE MAN'S GREATEST BENEFIT OR DESTROY HIM'

U.S. Won Secret by Narrow Margin; Nazis So Close to Success Allies Speeded the Invasion of Europe

Chief of Staff Analyzes Axis Blunders; Enemy Powers Did Not Act Together in Their Aggressions, but Allies Did and Won.

Gen. Marshall added significantly that the secret of atomic explosion "will not be ours exclusively indefinitely." (President Truman in his message on atomic power sent to Congress last week said scientists agreed that the theory is widely known, that foreign research will come abreast of us in time, and he urged international renunciation of the use of atomic bombs.)

Marshall commented that "the tremendous military advantage of this terrifying weapon fell to us through a combination of good luck, good management and prodigious effort. The harnessing of atomic power should give Americans confidence in their destiny, but at the same time we must be extremely careful not to fall victim to overconfidence."

Close Race With the Nazis.

How close was the race with the Nazis for this secret was indicated in a discussion by Marshall of the reasons for the Allied invasion of the European continent. One reason was to shorten the war by facilitating the advance of Russian forces from the east, said the general. The other he described this way:

"At the same time German technological advances such as in the development of atomic explosives made it imperative that we attack before these terrible weapons could be turned against us."

There was no mention in Marshall's report of a corresponding technological menace by Japan.

Indeed, he made a point of the fact that there was little real contact between the Germans and the Japanese, expressing himself this way:

Evaluations of the Enemy.

He presented evaluations by the War Department general staff of the German, Italian and Japanese objectives. They reported that:

Italy's declaration of war was contrary to an agreement with Germany; Mussolini's action in attacking Greece and Egypt forced the Germans into the Balkan and African campaigns, resulting in over-extension of the German lines.

There is no evidence of "close strategic co-ordination between Germany and Japan. The German general staff recognized that Japan was bound by the neutrality pact with Russia but hoped that the Japanese would tie down strong British and American land, sea and air forces in the Far East.

"In the absence of any evidence so far to the contrary, it is believed that Japan also acted unilaterally and not in accordance with a unified strategic plan."

The report nominally embraced the period July 1, 1943, to June 30, 1945, but Marshall expanded it to include Aug. 10 when Japan sued for peace.

Thin Spread of Survival.

Looking back to the black days of 1942 when Axis expansion was in its flood tide, Marshall said:

"In those hours Germany and Japan came so close to complete domination of the world that we do not yet realize how thin the thread of Allied survival had been stretched."

He asserted that "in good conscience this nation can take little credit for its part in staving off disaster in those critical days. It is certain that the refusal of the British and Russian peoples to accept what appeared to be inevitable defeat was the great factor in the salvage of our civilization."

Of almost equal importance was the failure of the enemy to make the most of the situation.

Marshall said that interrogation of Axis high commanders showed the original three members of the Axis—Germany, Italy and Japan—acted individually in directing their own aggressions.

Steps in Germany's Downfall.

"Here," Marshall commented, "were three criminal nations eager for loot and seeking greedily to advance their own self-interest by war, yet unable to agree on a strategic over-all plan for accomplishing a common objective."

Marshall listed these steps in Germany's military downfall:

(1) Failure to invade England after Dunkerque;

(2) Failure of the 1941 campaign against Moscow which led Hitler to remove his commander-in-chief, General Von Brauschitsch — "the turning point in the war";

(3) Failure of the Stalingrad seige, another Hitler idea;

(4) Failure of the Ardennes counterattack last winter—also a Hitler mistake and his last on the grand scale.

The general said that the Japanese strategic plan included invasion of the Hawaiian islands and the Aleutians, subjecting the Northwest United States to aerial bombardment, raiding west coast aviation industries and then seizing critical areas.

The plan failed at the start, he said, when the enemy did not land troops on Hawaii to deny the United States the launching point for the American advance across the Pacific.

It was plain, in Marshall's meticulous tracing of conferences and campaigns relating to the European and Pacific wars, that the Allies used the lack of unified strategy by the Axis to defeat the enemies separately.

Italy was driven from the war and the European invasion mounted while Japan was held at bay in the Pacfic. Then came Japan's turn — intensified air bombardment, closing in of land and atomic bomb dropped on Hiroshima on Aug. 6, Soviet entry into the war two days later, another atom bomb on Nagasaki on Aug. 9. Next day, Aug. 10, brought a request for surrender terms.

Marshall's report presented details of the plans for invading Japan, made unnecessary by the capitulation. They were two-fold, one designated by the operation code name "Olympic," the other "Coronet." They would have worked as follows:

OLYMPIC — A three-pronged assault on southern Kyushu in the fall of this year (Marshall said in recent testimony before Congress that the target date was Nov. 1). The invading force would have been the Sixth Army, consisting of the First and Eleventh Army Corps and the Fifth Marine amphibious Corps. The three groups would have landed at Miyazaki, Ariaka Wan and on beaches west of Kagoshima, all on the south and southeastern corners of Kyushu. A diversionary feint of Shikoku, at the southern end of the main island of Honshu, would have been carried out by the Ninth Corps.

CORONET—Scheduled for the early spring of 1946 and carried out by the Eighth and Tenth armies, made up of nine infantry, two armored and three marine divisions. The immediate target was the Tokyo plain of Eastern Honshu. They were to have been followed ashore by the First Army, made up of 10 infantry divisions. The plan was to destroy the Japanese army on Honshu, occupy the Tokyo-Yokohama area, then fan out for a cleanup of the remaining enemy islands.

In his discussion of technological attainments, Marshall said that the necessity for continuous research "is now clear to all and it should not be too difficult to obtain the necessary appropriations for this purpose during peacetime."

"Dangerous Attractive Doctrine."

There is, however, always much reluctance to spend funds for improvement of war-making instruments, "particularly where there is no peacetime usefulness in the product," he commented.

The General foresaw the growth of a "highly dangerous and attractive doctrine"—"that to protect itself this nation need only to rely on its machine power; that it will need no manpower." Such a doctrine, said he, "will be closely akin to the the doctrine of negative defense which destroyed France." He asserted:

"The only effective defense a nation can now maintain is the power of attack. And that power cannot be in machinery alone. There must be men to man the machines. And there must be men to come to close grips with the enemy and tear his operating bases and his productive establishment away from him before the war can end."

It was on this statement that Marshall predicated his case for a national defense system composed of a trained reserve of citizen soldiers and a compact regular army comprised largely of a strategic force, "heavy in air power."

Only Safety in Strength.

But before detailing his views on this point, Marshall presented what he said was his own conception of "what is required to prevent another international catastrophe." His philosophy was this:

"We have tried since the birth of our nation to promote our love of peace by a display of weakness. This course has failed us utterly, cost us millions of lives and billions of treasure. The reasons are quite understandable. The world does not seriously regard the desire of the weak. Weakness presents too great a temptation to the strong, particularly to the bully, who schemes for wealth and power . . .

"We have ignored the hard realities of world affairs. We have been purely idealistic.

"We must start, I think, with a correction of the tragic misunderstanding that a security policy is a war policy. . . .

"In order to establish an international system for preventing wars, peace-loving peoples of the world are demonstrating an eagerness to send their representatives to such conferences as those at Dumbarton Oaks and San Francisco with the fervent hope that they may find a practical solution.

Yet, until it is proved that such a solution has been found to prevent wars, a rich nation which lays down its arms as we have done after every war in our history, will court disaster. The existence of the complex and fearful instruments of destruction now available make this a simple truth which is, in my opinion, undebatable."

Marshall observed that the techniques of war have brought the United States, its homes and factories into the front line of world conflict and then commented:

"It no longer appears practical to continue what we once conceived as hemispheric defense as a satisfactory basis for our security."

The hemispheric defense policy developed in the years immediately preceding American entry into World War II and was implemented by the construction of a chain of huge United States military, naval and air bases through the Caribbean and the eastern coast of South America.

In discussing a system by which the nations can remain strong without bankrupting itself on military expenditures, Marshall emphasized the need for universal military training.

Such a system would make it possible to fill immediately, in time of emergency, the ranks of the navy, the army, the national guard and the organized reserve. The armed forces thus would be ready for almost immediate deployment to counter initial hostile moves.

"By this method," said Marshall, "we would establish, for generations to come, a national military policy: (1) which is entirely within the financial capabilities of our peacetime economy and is absolutely democratic in its nature, and (2) which places the military world and therefore the political world on notice that this vast power, linked to our tremendous resources, wealth, and production, is immediately available. There can be no question that all the nations of the world will respect our views accordingly, creating at least a probability of peace on earth and good will among men rather than disaster upon disaster in a tormented world."

"Time of Decision Urgent."

"The time of our decision on the question of universal military training is urgent," he said. "The officials of the state department have been strongly of the opinion that a decision in this matter prior to the final peace negotiations would greatly strengthen the hand of the United States in securing the acceptance of a genuine organization to handle international differences."

Marshall emphasized that universal military training was not universal military service.

He proposed that trainees have "an unbroken period" of one year instruction. They would be in an organization separate from combat organizations, maintained for training purposes only. Once trained, they would be freed of further connection with the Army unless they chose to join the National Guard, an organized reserve unit or the regular Army.

But "when the nation is in jeopardy they could be called, by a committee of local neighbors, in order of priority and under such conditions as directed at that time by the Congress."

Role of National Guard.

The general rated the national guard as of first importance in the citizen-army. He said it must be ready to take its place in the first line of defense and not be dependent on a year or more of training. The essential requirement for such a system is universal training from which to draw volunteers for the guards.

The second important component of the citizen-army, said Gen. Marshall, is the organized reserve which creates "a pool of well-trained men and officers."

The ROTC should be enlarged and strengthened, established on a higher level "comparable to the academic levels of college education in which the young men of ROTC are engaged," Marshall said. This would be possible, he added, if the student had participated in universal military training, which would mean he would enter ROTC as far advanced as his predecessors were after two and a half years of the original three-year course.

Four Major Functions of Army.

Marshall set forth four major functions of the regular army in peacetime:

It should be partially deployed in the Pacific and Caribbean, ready to protect the nation against a sudden hostile thrust. ("It is obvious," he wrote, "that another war would start with a lightning attack to take us unaware. The pace of the attack would be at supersonic speeds of rocket weapons closely followed by a striking force which would seek to exploit the initial and critical advantage. We must be sufficiently prepared against such a threat to hold the enemy at a distance until we can rapidly mobilize our strength.")

It should provide security reasons for outlying bases. ("We quickly lost the Philippines, Guam and Wake islands at the beginning of this war.")

It should furnish the overhead, the higher headquarters to "keep the machine and the plans up to date for whatever national emergency we may face in the future."

It should "provide the knowledge, the expert personnel, and the installations for training the citizen-soldier."

Plans for Invading Japan

Map details American plans for the invasion of Japan as outlined in Gen. George C. Marshall's report. The plans, designated by code names, were two-fold: The Olympic operation, scheduled for the fall of 1945, involved a three-pronged assault on southern Kyushu, with landings at Miyazaki, Ariaka Bay and near Kagoshima and a diversionary feint off Shikoku. The Coronet operation, scheduled for the spring of 1946, called for an assault on the Tokyo plain of eastern Honshu, the aim being to destroy the Japanese army on that island, occupy the Tokyo-Yokohama area and then to fan out for a cleanup of the remaining islands.

HIGHLIGHTS OF REPORT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10 (AP).

HERE are some salient sentences from the biennial report of Gen. George C. Marshall:

This discovery (atomic power) of American scientists can be man's greatest benefit. And it can destroy him. It is against the latter terrible possibility that this nation must prepare or perish.

The developments of the war have been so incredible that wildest imagination will not project us far from the target in estimating the future.

IT will be said that to protect itself this nation need only rely on its machine power, that it will not need manpower. This doctrine will be closely akin to the doctrine of negative defense which destroyed France. . . . The only effective defense a nation can now maintain is the power of attack. And that power cannot be in machinery alone. There must be men to man the machines.

This nation's destiny clearly lies in a sound, permanent security policy. In the War Department's proposal there are two essentials: (1) Intense scientific research and development; (2) A permanent peacetime citizen army.

All Americans can, in the next generations, prepare themselves to serve their country in maintaining the peace or against the tragic hour when peace is broken, if such a misfortune again overtakes us. This is what is meant by universal military training. It is not universal military service—the actual induction of men into combat forces. Such forces would be composed during peacetime of volunteers. The trainees would be in a separate organization maintained for training purposes only.

An unbroken period of one year's training appears essential to the success of a sound security plan based on the concept of a citizen army.

The regular army must be comprised largely of a strategic force, heavy in air power, partially deployed in the Pacific and the Caribbean ready to protect the nation against a sudden hostile thrust and immediately available for emergency action wherever required.

THE security of the United States of America was saved by sea distance, by allies and by the errors of a prepared enemy. . . . We may elect again to depend on others, but if we do we will be carrying the treasure and freedom of this great nation in a paper bag.

We have ignored the hard realities of world affairs. We have been purely idealistic. We must start, I think, with a correction of the tragic misunderstanding that a security policy is a war policy.

We can be certain that the next war, if there is one, will be even more total than this one.

HOW U. S. PLANNED TO INVADE JAPAN IN TWO LANDINGS

First Wave Was to Hit on Kyushu About Nov. 1, Second Near Tokyo Four Months Later.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10 (AP)—The invasion plan for the Japanese homeland (which never had to be used) called for an all-American effort with one force going ashore on Kyushu about Nov. 1 and another landing in the dooryard of Tokyo about four months later.

Details of the double-barreled strategy, code-designated as "Operation Olympic" and "Operation Coronet," were disclosed in the biennial report of Gen. George C. Marshall.

He wrote that "these were our plans for final victory in World War II should Japan fight to a last-ditch national suicide."

The report, taken together with available information on troop strength, indicated that the plan was to attack the homeland with numerically inferior forces. This had been the plan for virtually all other operations in the Pacific, reliance being placed on superior firepower by land forces and support from naval gunfire and aviation.

2,000,000 Jap Defenders.

Marshall said that the Japanese had husbanded an army of 2,000,000 men to defend the homeland. He did not give the American strength in manpower, but discussed it in terms of divisions. On the basis of 15,000 men to an infantry or marine division, with smaller numbers for armored, airborne and cavalry divisions, somewhat more than 500,000 men were accounted for. Units attached to divisions for special purposes and service and engineering forces would about equal the total of the divisional strength, bringing the total forces used in the two operations above 1,000,000 men.

This force, of course, would not have included the thousands of naval personnel manning the supporting fleets and transports nor the air forces participating in the operations.

Marshall's accounting of the divisions to go ashore in Japan mentioned none other than American Army and Marine forces, indicating that although the British may have had plans for naval support of the invasion there were no arrangements for British or other Allied participation in the actual landing operations.

Two Operations.

Marshall said that Gen. Douglas MacArthur, in co-operation with Adm. Chester Nimitz, was preparing, when surrender came, to execute two plans for the invasion of Japan:

"The first, known as Operation Olympic, provided for a three-pronged assault on southern Kyushu in the fall of 1945 (Marshall previously had mentioned Nov. 1 as the date) by the Sixth United States Army, consisting of the First and Eleventh Army Corps and the Fifth Marine Amphibious corps. The three groups were to land in the order named at Miyazaki, Ariaka Wan, and on the beaches west of Kagoshima to isolate the southernmost Japanese island and destroy the defending forces there. Preceding the main assault were to be preliminary operations in Koshiki Retto and a diversionary feint off Shikoku by the Ninth Corps.

"The second phase of the Japanese operation, Operation Coronet, was to be carried out in the early spring of 1946. (An attached chart bore the notation "to follow Olympic at about four-month interval.") The Eighth and Tenth Armies, consisting of nine infantry divisions, two armored divisions and three Marine divisions were to assault the Kanto or Tokyo plain of eastern Honshu.

First Army for Cleanup.

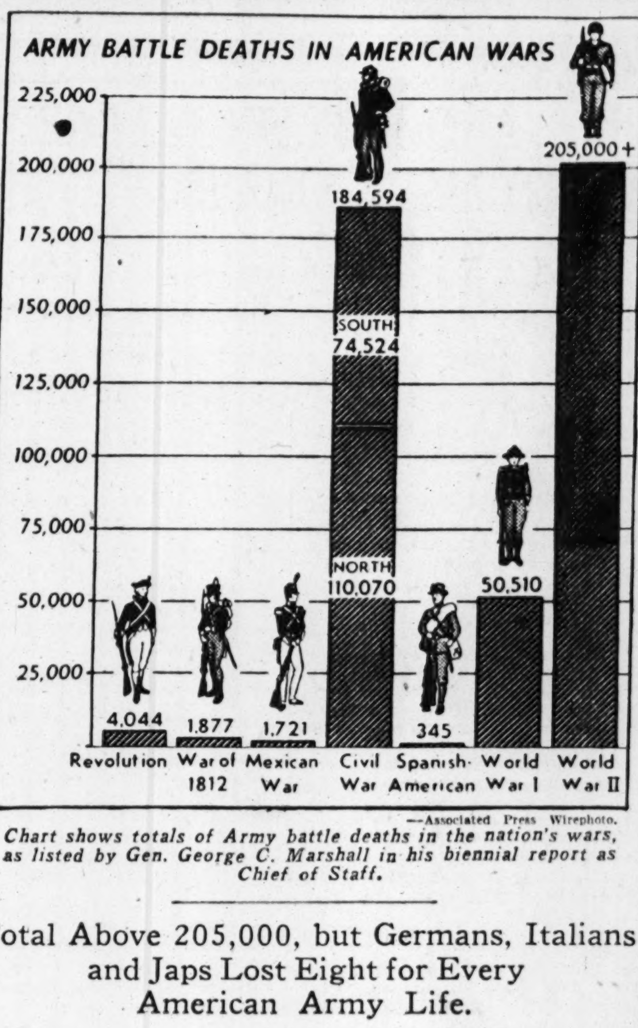
"These two veteran Pacific armies were to be followed ashore by the First Army, which had spearheaded our victory in Europe and was now to be redeployed for the final battle of the Pacific. In this attack the First Army would have contained 10 infantry divisions. The three armies had the mission of destroying the Japanese army on the main home island and to occupy the Tokyo-Yokohoma area.

"On Kyushu we would have held a one-corps reserve of three infantry divisions and one airborne. From here the plan was to fan out to the north and clean up the remainder of the Japanese islands. Supporting the cleanup would ultimately have been an air garrison equivalent to 50 groups."

Marshall said these were the plans for invasion "but we had other plans which we anticipated might bring a much speedier end to the war"—the atomic bomb.

Of this Marshall said: "The results are well known."

MORE U. S. SOLDIERS KILLED THAN IN FIVE EARLIER WARS



—Associated Press Wirephoto.

Total Above 205,000, but Germans, Italians and Japs Lost Eight for Every American Army Life.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10 (AP)—American Army deaths in battle in World War II are four times those of World War I. In fact, more Americans died than in five earlier wars combined—the Revolution, War of 1812, Mexican War, Civil War (including both Union and Confederate deaths), and Spanish-American. In these five wars 192,581 Americans lost their lives; the World War I figure was 50,510; the World War II figure is 205,000 plus.

Gen. George C. Marshall made the comparison last night in his chief of staff's report "so that there can be no misunderstanding of the enormous cost of this conflict, for which we were so completely unprepared."

"This war," he said, "has been the most costly of any in which the nation has been engaged."

He spoke of lives lost and physical miseries involved, rather than money. "There is no pay scale high enough to buy the services of a single soldier during even a few minutes of the agony of combat," he said.

Yet, the great toll of American lives is far less than the toll of the enemy. About eight Germans, Italians and Japanese died for every American killed in battle, Marshall said, adding there were 1,592,600 enemy battle dead.

The report gave no estimate the number of killed for the other Allies. Russia's announcements have been lumped into a general category of killed, wounded and missing, making it difficult to arrive at any total of killed for the Allied powers.

His figures dealt with the Army alone. Combined Army and Navy deaths are about 260,000. And combined American casualties, including dead, wounded, missing and prisoners, exceed 1,070,000.

While battlefield deaths soared, deaths in the Army from other causes dropped to new low due, Marshall said, to stellar work of the Army Medical Corps and new medicines and preventives.

AXIS MADE MANY BLUNDERS, LACK OF UNITY WAS WORST

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9 (AP)—Hitler, Hirohito and Mussolini made many stupid blunders, but their worst, by far, was complete failure to frame a joint strategy. That boner, while the Allies did just the opposite and pooled their resources in a common fight against the enemy, cost the Axis the war, Gen. George C. Marshall, Army Chief of Staff, said last night.

"Here were three criminal nations eager for loot and seeking greedily to advance their own self-interest by war, yet unable to agree on a strategic over-all plan for accomplishing a common objective," Gen. Marshall said in his war report.

Each enemy nation fumbled frequently in other ways, but dissension and non-co-operation among themselves, Gen. Marshall said, "may well have been decisive factors of this world struggle at its most critical moments."

Italy's Mistake.

One evidence of this was Italy's entering the war against Germany's wishes. Mussolini wanted to make land grabs "under the cloak of German military success."

Another was failure of Germany and Japan to drive toward a junction in central Asia.

"But to Japan," Gen. Marshall said, "this objective was secondary to looting the Far East while there was no real force to stop her.

"Not only were the European partners of the Axis unable to co-ordinate their plans and resources and agree within their own nations how best to proceed, but the eastern partner, Japan, was working in even greater discord."

Other Blunders.

Here are some of the other ways Gen. Marshall said the foe helped the Allies win:

1. GERMANY: Hitler's insistence on placing his own judgment, based on his experience as an army corporal, ahead of the military counsel of his skilled generals.

2. ITALY: Mussolini's puny attacks on Greece and Egypt, forcing Germany to over-extend its armies into the Balkan and African campaigns in attempts to save Mussolini.

3. JAPAN: Failure to follow up the Pearl Harbor attack with an invasion of Hawaii. Capture of Oahu and its important bases would have denied this nation its staging area from which to launch operations in the western Pacific.

Japan erred, too, in figuring the Pacific peoples it overran would welcome and work for the Mikado. Instead, the so-called greater east Asia co-prosperity sphere fizzled.

Too Smart for His Britches.

Of the three Axis leaders, Gen. Marshall laid the greatest number of mistakes to Hitler. He said in effect Hitler was too smart for his britches. He said it in this way:

A. Hitler's panzers roared through France in a blitz his generals had disapproved. What happened? Hitler was too far ahead of himself. By then, the German air force and Navy were too weak to try to cross the Channel to invade England.

B. Then Hitler "made the fatal decision to invade Soviet Russia." Again the panzers went too fast for, standing at the gates of Moscow, they encountered a terrific snowstorm whereas "the German high command had neither envisioned nor planned for a winter campaign."

C. At this critical point Hitler relieved the German army commander in chief, Gen. Von Brauschitsch. "It was the turning point of the war," Gen. Marshall commented.

D. "Disregarding the military lessons of history, Hitler, instead of attacking the Soviet armies massed in the north, personally planned and directed a campaign of which the immediate objectives were to deprive the Soviet union of her vital industries and raw materials by cutting the Volga at Stalingrad and seizing the Caucasian oil fields," said the General. — It was another boner.

E. Failure to garrison North Africa solidly, even though Marshal Kesselring foresaw the landings there and asked Hitler and Goering for additional troops.

F. Hitler's frantic switching of commanders on the western front once the Allies invaded France.

All these mistakes, Gen. Marshall maintained, spelled defeat for their authors as surely as the hard blows finally driven home by the co-ordinated Allied armies.

CHINESE RED LEADER'S DEATH ACCIDENT, NOT ASSASSINATION

CHUNGKING, Oct. 10 (AP)—Li Shao-shih, Communist party secretary general in Chungking, was not assassinated, but was accidentally killed by a Chinese corporal, Lt. Gen. Chang Chen, commander of the Chungking gendarmerie, reported today.

Chang said investigation disclosed that Cpl. Tien Kai-fo fired when Li's chauffeur ignored an order to halt after his automobile severely injured a Chinese soldier.

The chauffeur disappeared after taking Li to the hospital and is being sought by police.

By JAMES J. STREBIG
Associated Press Aviation Editor

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10 (AP)—The tremendous reliance placed on American airpower in the toughest phases of the war is emphasized by Gen. George C. Marshall's report to the Secretary of War.

The chief of staff cited that the air forces were assigned to:

1. Hold the enemy.
2. Clear a path for Allied surface forces.
3. Supply ground units.
4. Carry out strategic bombing.

He quoted Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower to emphasize the importance of co-ordination of air, ground and sea forces. In a critical phase in the invasion of Italy, Eisenhower advised his chief:

"In the present situation our great hope is the Air Force. They are working flat out and assuming, which I do, that our hold on southern Italy will finally be solidified. We are going to prove once again that the greatest value of any of the three services is ordinarily realized only when it is utilized in close co-ordination with the other two."

Marshall said that building up airpower in the Italian campaign required 300,000 tons of shipping in the most critical months, and the buildup of the ground forces "was considerably delayed."

Describing the heavy bombing of German communications in May, 1944, Marshall said:

"The effects of this phase of the air assault were enormous, for transportation and communications are the life arteries of a modern industrial state engaged in total war."

"Transfer of German fighters from the east to the west to meet the Allied bombing threat," the chief of staff said, "was an important factor in enabling the Soviet air arm to maintain superiority on their front."

The invasion coast of Normandy was "effectively isolated" by bombing, Marshall said, and "this air preparation was a decisive factor in the success of 'overlord' (code name for the operation)."

"The crushing power of the air attack and its paralyzing effect on the enemy's movement blasted the way for rapid penetration of German lines (in Gen. Omar N. Bradley's drive to the Meuse river)," Marshall said.

When the weather cleared in the Ardennes break-through by the Nazis, Marshall said, it "permitted our overwhelming tactical air forces to strike terrific blows at the German armor and supply columns."

In the critical week ended last March 22, he said, United States aircraft made 14,430 heavy bomber attacks, 7262 medium bomber attacks and 29,981 fighter sorties.

Marshall did not attempt to detail the air war in the Pacific, where except for the well known story of Twentieth Air Force B-29s the largest part of the air fighting was by Navy and Marine units.

CODE NAMES HELPED KEEP STRATEGIC PLANS SECRET FROM THE FOE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10 (AP)

CODE names helped cloak the great strategic plans of the Allies in secrecy. They came to light last night in the biennial report of Gen. George C. Marshall, woven into his accounting of the campaigns in Africa, Europe, Asia and the Pacific.

One of them was "operation sledgehammer," an attack that never came off, a plan for a diversionary assault on the French coast in 1942 or early 1943. It was intended for use as a desperate measure to relieve German pressure on the Russian front.

Then there was "operation roundup," the designation for the first plan, in 1943, for a cross-channel invasion of Europe. That eventually became "operation overlord" of 1944, with the landing in Normandy.

Here are some of the other code names for operations: Torch—the North African landings; Husky—the invasion of Sicily; Avalanche—the landings on the mainland of Italy; Anvil—Southern France; Grapeshot—the cleanup campaign in northern Italy; Capital—the Allied recapture of Burma; Galvanic—the Gilbert Islands campaign; Flintlock—the Marshall Islands; Forager—The Marianas; Olympic—the planned invasion of Kyushu, southernmost of the Japanese home islands; and Coronet—the projected invasion of the main island of Honshu.

The various conferences held by the chiefs of state of the great Allied powers had their code designations, too. "Trident" was the meeting of President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and the combined chiefs of staff of the two nations at Washington in May, 1943. "Quadrant" was the first Quebec conference of the president and prime minister, "Octagon" the second. "Sextant" was the Cairo conference and "Argonaut" the Yalta meeting.

OPINION IN FRANCE SPLIT SHARPLY ON DEATH SENTENCE FOR PIERRE LAVAL

Trial Procedure Assailed as Parody on Justice by Rightist Press — His Attorney Will Ask for New Hearing.

By RICHARD L. STOKES
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

PARIS, Oct. 10 (By Radio)—French public opinion is sharply divided this morning over the death sentence pronounced late yesterday against Pierre Laval by the high court of justice. On one side there is satisfaction with the verdict, generally considered to have been richly deserved. On the other there is regret and shame over the manner in which the judgment was reached.

It was a condemnation said to be without precedent in French jurisprudence—the sentence was delivered in the absence not only of attorneys and witnesses for the defense, but also of the accused himself.

Today the erstwhile first minister of Vichy is lodged in the cells of the condemned in the former Gestapo prison at Fresnes. It is almost certain that after a brief interval a firing squad will end the career of the ex-revolutionary who became a papal count, an obscure, rustic pettifogger who made himself a multimillionaire and the statesman thrice premier of the republic, who, gambling on a German victory, won only infamy as the country's arch traitor.

To Seek New Hearing.

When news of the verdict was conveyed to Laval last night under the Palais de Justice, he declared he was not surprised and would not stoop to plead for mercy. Laval's attorney announced today, however, that he would seek a new hearing and had requested an interview with Gen. Charles de Gaulle.

No one would have been astonished if the Council of Ministers sitting yesterday under the presidency of Gen. de Gaulle had declared the case a mistrial and ordered a new hearing, but they declined to intervene. Only De Gaulle can now save Laval from death.

It is regarded as almost unthinkable that the provisional head of the government should interfere, as he did in the case of Marshal Henri Philippe Petain, on behalf of "the most hated man in France."

Nevertheless, Frenchmen will not soon forget the moving spectacle of Laval's lofty courage before the bar—the brilliance, wit and even gayety with which he fought for the life which he must have known was already forfeit.

Press Attacks Court.

Americans might well be startled by the leading part played in the trial by the French press. Paris reporters are not content with giving mere news accounts, but intersperse freely editorial comment. Apparently contempt of court is unknown in French journalism. For five days the newspapers rang with a battery of disrespectful denunciations of the conduct of the high court.

The magistrates were enfiladed from two sides. Organs of the extreme left, with the Communist L'Humanite in the lead, howled daily for Laval's blood and reproached the magistrates with "feebleness" for permitting the defendant to be heard at all.

Whatever the justice of this attitude, the instinct was sound. Laval consistently treated the judges as petty underlings and, what is more, succeeded by dint of sheer personal dominance in compelling them to accept that humiliating role.

On the other hand, the conservative press, led by the most influential organ of the right, Figaro, upbraided the court in the strongest language for want of dignity, for maladroit, foolish procedures, for presenting charges incompletely and precipitately prepared and for failing to protect "the sacred rights" of the accused.

Justice 'Degraded.'

In the view of the whole world, Figaro declared, French justice was degraded when the Laval process was put beside the eminently fair trial of Vidkun Quisling by the Norwegians and the scrupulous prosecution of the torturers and assassins of Belsen at Lueneberg by the British.

This newspaper did not hesitate to affirm that the nervousness and outbreaks on the part of the judges must be attributed perforce to a "bad conscience." The reference was to the fact, with which Laval constantly taunted the judges, that all five, including shrill, jittery Paul Mongibeaux, had taken the oath of allegiance to Vichy and to this extent were accomplices in the crime for which they were about to send him to his death.

Jurors Criticized.

French law, which regards the accused as guilty until he is proved innocent, is accustomed to magistrates who step from the role of impartial jurists into that of prosecutor and to jurymen taking an active part in the proceedings. But Paris was revolted by the behavior of certain jurors, who in passing Laval's table Saturday afternoon assailed the defendant to his face with such ejaculations as "scoundrel," "the halter," and "you'll get your 12 bullets."

Such circumstances enabled Laval to refuse to attend the hearings Monday and yesterday on the plausible ground that the trial was a "judicial crime" in which he declined to act further as a participant.

"Thus," Figaro concluded in a powerful two-column editorial, "the affaire Laval has arrived at the following lamentable result:

"That the most deserved judgment ever has taken on the aspects of a parody of justice."

Laval, in Defense Written in Cell, Admits That 'De Gaulle Was Right'

Condemned Vichyite Explains Why He Himself Opposed Flight to Africa, in Document He Scorned to Use.

By MEL MOST

PARIS, Oct. 10 (AP)—Pierre Laval's written account of the defense he scorned to make to the court which condemned him to death yesterday was made public today by his counsel, who permitted access to a manuscript which painstakingly documents the replies to all the original counts in the treason indictment against him.

The document was written by Laval with his papers spread before him on the floor of his dungeon cell.

In the manuscript, to which only two American reporters had access, Laval acknowledged that Gen. Charles de Gaulle was right in his decision to move to London to continue France's fight against the Germans.

Gives Account of Diplomacy.

The manuscript unfolded a grim history of prewar diplomacy and wartime German terror. Evidently it was prepared for use in any future trial. Laval has been confident such a trial will be held, even, perhaps, after he has been executed.

The former Vichy chief of government, who was 14 times a minister and thrice a premier of France, took up the charges against him one by one. These were some of his replies:

To the charge that he sought to negotiate a peace during the "phony war" before the German 1940 blitz on France:

That Benito Mussolini furnished the initiative in this through an emissary. Laval said he offered to undertake a mission which Premier Edouard Daladier could later disavow if it failed, but Daladier rejected the idea. A second secret emissary arrived from Mussolini the day before Italy attacked France, but never reached the government, Laval wrote.

On Armistice Decision.

To charges (withdrawn in court) that he participated in deciding on the armistice with Germany and the government's failure to move to North Africa:

Laval said he was not in the government at the time. He said he believed moving to Africa merely would invite the German blitzkrieg there, causing the British to lose Suez and the Americans to lose a landing platform for a later invasion. On the other hand, he wrote: "Events have proved De Gaulle was right" in moving to London.

Concerning the charge that he organized the Montoire meeting between Adolf Hitler and Marshal Henri Philippe Petain and arranged subsequent collaboration, Laval replied that the armistice itself rather than anything he did brought about collaboration, and said:

"If the armistice had lasted several weeks—nay, several months—we would not have had to suffer so many exactions and harshnesses from the occupiers. But it lasted four years and we had no power whatever, no means other than negotiation — now termed intelligence with the enemy—to try to dam German rapacity and cruelty."

"A Shield for France."

To the charge that the Germans wanted him in power when he was restored to office March 1, 1942, Laval said Reichsmarshal Hermann Goering wanted the contrary. He said he first refused to return and then accepted, because he felt he would be a shield for France.

He said he never ordered the scuttling of the fleet at Toulon, and that its disposition was not in his province, but that when he was told it was going to take place, the German official who brought word stood guard outside his door until after the seizure.

To the charge that he urged resistance to the British-American landings in North Africa, he replied with the texts of several telegrams he said he received from the Germans, asking France to declare war on the United States. He said Hitler was in a rage when he told him France would not do so.

Other Points.

Among the other points in the document:

That Laval thwarted a plan to assassinate former Premiers Leon Blum and Paul Reynaud in 1944.

That he (Laval) was grilled until he fainted from exhaustion when Julius Sauckel, Nazi minister for recruitment of foreign labor, attempted to get more French workers into the Reich.

That Britain had asked for and obtained a promise from France of immediate support in military operations against Italy in 1935, in the event of hostilities over Ethiopian sanctions.

That Poland had agreed before the war to a German superhighway across the Polish corridor and that negotiations were broken off only over an argument over who was to bear the costs.

Laval devoted much of his defense to the matter of persecution of Jews, Freemasons and Communists, saying he had, far from participating in it, attempted to protect them.

2 HURT IN GOODWILL INDUSTRIES BLAZE

$27,000 Fire Sweeps 4-Story Salvage Building, Damaged Once Before.

Two firemen were hurt fighting a fire of undetermined origin which caused $27,000 damage to the salvage building of Goodwill Industries of Missouri at 715 Howard street early today.

Capt. Clarence Vogeler of Engine Company No. 32 suffered lacerations of the fingers on his right hand from flying glass and Capt. Charles Evans of Hook and Ladder Company No. 7 suffered lacerations of the right forearm. Both men were treated at City Hospital and returned to duty.

The blaze started in the shoe repair shop on the third floor of the four-story brick building and spread to each of the other floors through the elevator shaft. Fireman fought for an hour and a half to bring the flames under control after they had reached the first and second floors, where waste paper is shredded and baled.

Four alarms were turned in and 23 pieces of fire equipment were summoned to prevent the blaze from spreading to two adjoining buildings occupied by Goodwill Industries, a War Chest organization. Robert Adair, 2223 Brown road, Overland, superintendent, said the loss was covered by insurance.

Today's fire was the third which has occurred at the Goodwill organization buildings on Howard street in the last five years. On March 20, 1943, former Fire Chief Joseph W. Morgan was killed and nine other firemen were injured when a Goodwill building at 713 Howard collapsed as they were fighting the flames. The same building which caught fire today suffered $10,300 damage May 27, 1940. Adair said the organization plans to move to 4140 Forest Park avenue Jan. 1.

REPORTS THEFT OF $2260 FROM AUTO AT HIS HOME

Theft of $2260 from the glove compartment of his parked automobile last Sunday was reported to police yesterday by Louis Weaver, operator of a tavern at 1801 South Jefferson avenue.

Weaver said he parked the machine outside his home at 3507A Vista avenue about 3 a.m. Later he found a rear door forced open and the money gone. He said $1200 represented savings. The rest, he said, he kept for cashing checks.

His explanation of the two-day delay in reporting the theft was that he had been attempting to track down the thieves himself. He gave police the names of several persons he suspected.

U. S. SUES TO DESTROY DAIRIES' ORANGE SYRUP

Action Against 8 Firms Here —Acid in Product Said to Be Dangerous.

Libel suits seekiny a court order to permit federal authorities to seize and destroy 389 gallons of impure orange syrup manufactured by a Chicago firm were filed against eight small St. Louis dairies in United States District Court today by United States District Attorney Harry C. Blanton.

R. C. Pruitt head of the St. Louis office of the federal Food and Drug Bureau, said the syrup, manufactured by Harrison's Orange Corporation, contained monochloracetic acid, which was used as a preservative. The acid, Pruitt said, is poisonous and if taken internally in large quantities might be fatal.

Blanton said the syrup which was shipped to the dairies here between July 2 and Sept. 24 is now in the possession of United States Marshal William H. Fahey and will be destroyed as soon as a court order is granted.

The dairies named inthe suits were Raskas Dairy Co., 1313 North Newstead avenue; Ammann-McGregor Co., 2217 Olive street; Horack Dairy, 3112 North Jefferson avenue; Meramec Dairy Co., 4014 Minnesota avenue; Clover Leaf Dairy Co., 2651 Iowa avenue; Valley Farms Dairy Co., 3147 Iowa avenue; Biermann Dairy Co., 3240 Oregon avenue; and Bailey Farm Dairy Co., 4701 Keokuk street.

DAILY ST. LOUIS-INDIANAPOLIS ROUND TRIP PROPOSED BY TWA

Daily round trip air service between St. Louis, Terre Haute, Ind., and Indianapolis has been proposed by Transcontinental and Western Air, Inc., in plans for expanded airline operations presented today to the Civil Aeronautics Board.

The same airplane used on the prepared route, would provide commuter service between Indianapolis and South Bend, it was explained by E. O. Cocke of Kansas City, TWA vice-president of traffic.

Other plans, all contingent on availability of equipment, would provide for increased schedules between major cities, express flights and feeder routes.

EXPRESS BUS PLAN TO BE CONSIDERED BY MAYOR'S GROUP

Kaufmann Asks for 'Careful Study' by 4 on Special Transportation Committee.

Four members of the city's special postwar mass transportation committee will consider the proposals of the St. Louis Public Service Co. to establish 10-cent express bus service on five lines, and to substitute regular busses for eight present streetcar lines.

Mayor Aloys P. Kaufmann today referred the company's proposals to the special committee, requesting "careful study." He said that, in this inquiry, he would necessarily exclude five members of the nine-man committee, because of their corporate or official positions. The four remaining are Carl Giessow, traffic director of the Chamber of Commerce; I. N. Long, vice president of the Mercantile-Commerce Bank & Trust Co.; E. J. Russell, chairman of the City Plan Commission, and Alderman Charles E. Albanese, chairman of the aldermanic Public Utilities Committee.

Approved by Aldermen.

The aldermanic committee notified the Board of Public Service yesterday that it had considered the proposals Monday, and approved them. This notification reached the board at the same time as the company's application.

Members of the city's special committee who were excluded from the discussions of the proposals were John L. Wilson, president of the Public Service Co.; R. E. Duffy, chief engineer of the Missouri State Public Service Commission; and three members of the Board of Public Service, Milton M. Kinsey, president; Arthur C. Meyers, Director of Streets and Sewers; and Harry C. Brockhoff, Director of Public Utilities. The state commission, as well as the city board, is to pass on the company's plans.

The Mayor and Kinsey declined today to comment on the proposals, but there has been no indication of opposition to them at City Hall.

Higher Fare Bill Pending.

Aldermanic action is not required on either of the proposals, but the Public Utilities Committee has had pending before it since last May a bill to authorize a higher fare, at a maximum of 15 cents, for express bus service. This has been held up because of opposition.

The company had intended, in connection with that plan, to put express busses on four of the lines at a fare premium of 5 cents over any other type of fare. Its intention still is to adopt that fare proposal if the bill should be passed. Under the application filed yesterday, the only forms of fare acceptable on the express busses would be 10 cents cash or a contemplated new and additional type of weekly pass costing $1.50.

The board has set a hearing for Oct. 23 on the express bus plan. It will not take up the other application, for new bus routes replacing car lines, until the Public Service Commission acts in the request for permission to abandon the car lines. The board will conduct a hearing next Tuesday on the company's application to enlarge its bus garage at Iron street and Grand boulevard, which has aroused neighborhood opposition.

INTERNATIONAL SHOE TO CLOSE HARTFORD (ILL.) TANNERIES

The Woodriver tanneries of the International Shoe Co., at Hartford Ill., will be closed the company announced yesterday. The stoppage of production will be gradual, but the total output will be reduced to 40 per cent of the prewar level by Jan. 1, 1946.

In a statement, the company said, "A combination of circumstances beyond its control has convinced the company that it is impractical to produce leather satisfactorily and competitively at its Woodriver tanneries." Byron A. Gray, company president, declined to discuss the circumstances which brought about the decision.

About 500 of the 1300 persons employed at the tanneries will be dismissed by the first part of 1946, Gray said. The tanneries have been in operation for 30 years. About 1100 employes are members of the United Leather Workers' Union, AFL, and some of the remainder of the employes belong to the AFL Machinists' Union.

ST. LOUIS TO WORK WITH KANSAS CITY ON HOUSING BILLS

Decision at Anti-Slum Meeting at Mayor's Office—Senate Hearing Next Wednesday.

St. Louis will agree with Kansas City on selection of a measure to support for amendment of the State Urban Redevelopment Corporation Act, it was decided at a meeting of the St. Louis Anti-Slum Commission with a group of advisers in the Mayor's office at City Hall yesterday. The conference was called to plan the city's presentation of facts at the public hearing on housing bills to be conducted by the Senate Municipal Corporations Committee at Jefferson City next Wednesday.

St. Louis will yield to Kansas City's preference for Senate Bill No. 185 rather than No. 128, revising the 1943 redevelopment act. No. 185 is a shortened form, leaving most of the regulation of the rehabilitation corporations to local authority, rather than the state law. An important feature of both bills is a provision for large-scale tax abatement for 25 years to make financially possible the operation of the proposed limited-dividend corporations, which would provide homes for the middle-income class.

It was stated at the conference also that St. Louis and Kansas City are in agreement in support of the group of mass public housing measures backed by St. Louis—Senate bills Nos. 171, 172 and 173. This group has as an outstanding feature the restoration of tax exemption for public housing projects.

Representatives of Springfield, St. Joseph and probably other cities will take part in the hearing. The only known opposition to the housing bills has come from organized real estate interests objecting to the tax exemption and other features of the public housing group.

Participants in yesterday's conference were Chairman James L. Ford Jr. of the Anti-Slum Commission; E. J. Russell, a member of the commission; Mayor Aloys P. Kaufmann, City Counselor George J. Stemmler, Associate Counselor Aubrey B. Hamilton, Paul J. Kaveney, attorney for the St. Louis Housing Authority, and Missouri representative of public housing interests; Preston Estup, formerly attorney for the State Insurance Department and now with the casualty insurance subsidiary of the Public Service Co.; Allen May, president of the Mutual Savings Life Insurance Co., and Powell B. McHaney, general counsel of the General American Life Insurance Co.

The Anti-Slum Commission contemplates advocacy of changes in state law to make possible the financing of extensive housing for middle-income groups by the life insurance companies, some of which are interested in obtaining this field of large investment.

YOUTHS ACQUITTED IN HANGING ORDERED TO STATE HOSPITALS

Otis Smith and James Richard Lee, 14-year-old inmates of the St. Louis Training School, who were acquitted of murder in the first degree by reason of insanity last Tuesday by a jury in Circuit Court at Clayton, were ordered committed to institutions for the insane yesterday by Circuit Judge John A. Witthaus at Clayton.

Smith and Lee were charged with murdering James Driskill, a 7-year-old inmate, by hanging him to a pear tree on the grounds of the training school last Aug. 13. The jury deliberated only 30 minutes, after hearing medical testimony and statements from the boys' parents that they were believed to be insane.

Judge Witthaus ordered Smith committed to the State Hospital for the Insane at Fulton, and Lee to the State Hospital for the Insane at Farmington.

Red Delphinium for This Climate Task Before Shaw's Garden Expert

—By a Post-Dispatch Staff Photographer

DR. GUSTAV A. L. MEHLQUIST pollinating begonias in the experimental greenhouse at Shaw's Garden.

The production of a perennial red delphinium that can be grown in this climate by amateur and professional gardeners is the aim and virtual obsession of Dr. Gustav A. L. Mehlquist, newly appointed horticulturist and plant geneticist at Missouri Botanical Garden. Dr. Mehlquist assumed his new duties Oct. 1.

While the blue variety of delphinium is found throughout this area, the pure red type can be grown only in certain localities of California. Because of precise climatological factors that cannot be reproduced here even in greenhouses, the production of the red variety in a perennial has been limited to the Pacific coast state but Dr. Mehlquist is confident that an eight-year series of experiments which he is continuing here will eliminate the geographical limitation on the California native.

Tried Landscape Gardening.

The 39-year-old Swedish-born geneticist arrived at his present post here by a circuitous route. A gardener in the town of Eskilstuna with a desire to see the world and become a horticulturist, Dr. Mehlquist came to this country in the years following World War I. He obtained work doing landscape gardening but with the depression of the 1930s he found that landscape gardeners were among the earliest casualties.

"I was told the depression would last only a few months," he said. "On the advice of friends, I borrowed money and went to college to study botany. The depression continued and in 1939 I found myself with the degree of doctor of philosophy in plant genetics at the University of California."

It was in the University of California at Los Angeles that Dr. Mehlquist began his experiments on the red delphinium and on another project to control the color selection of carnations for better adaptation to commercial production.

Dr. Mehlquist's task is to hybridize the red variety with the blue garden type of perennial delphinium to obtain the color from the former and the growth characteristics of the latter. Some idea of the difficulties involved can be had from the fact that of 1500 plants covering three generations, he has succeeded in obtaining only two red plants whose seeds he is now planting for further seeds.

Even if he succeeds in producing a good strain of red or pink blooms, several more years must elapse before the climatological factors of the blue type can be bred into the finished product. "Next May I hope to have something to show you," he said. "If they grow as well as the California type I have produced, they ought to be three to six feet tall at full growth."

ARGENTINA RULED BY ARMY; PERON'S REMOVAL FAILS TO SATISFY NAVY

It Demands Entire Government Quit — Gen. Avalos Giving President Farrell Orders—Cabinet to Meet.

By LAURANCE F. STUNTZ

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 10 (AP)—The army ruled Argentina today after forcing the resignation of the strong-man Vice President, Col. Juan Domingo Peron, but the navy was reported demanding that the entire government quit and turn the nation over to the Supreme Court.

The situation in stormy Argentina was confused, but this much was clear: Gen. Edelmiro Farrell, head of the military government, still is president, but he takes his orders from Gen. Eduardo Avalos, commander of the big Campo de Mayo garrison in suburban Buenos Aires, whose personal quarrel with Peron resulted in the military's demand for the resignation of the vice president.

A high navy officer told the Associated Press that Peron's resignation alone was insufficient, since it left unsettled the essential problem—the existence of the military government. But there was reason to believe the army and navy could come to terms.

Cabinet Meeting Called.

Juan Cooke, Farrell's Foreign Minister, announced the Cabinet would meet today.

The nation still was puzzled over the meaning of the swift change in political fortunes. Some believed it might be the beginning of a return to constitutional government, holding that the Supreme Court must take the reins. Others held that so long as the army retained an iron grip, nothing was changed essentially.

Demonstrations were touched off in many places as news of the resignation of Peron spread swiftly. There were some clashes between celebrating crowds and the police, who have been the spearhead of repressive measures recently instituted by the government. Sao Paulo law students joined by medical students and medical faculty members paraded through main streets proclaiming solidarity with Argentine professors and students.

Behind Scenes Struggle.

Frowning, 53-year-old Avalos, whom Peron himself had elevated from Colonel to Brigadier General and placed in charge of the Campo de Mayo garrison, actually took Peron's place, turning the tables on his erstwhile crony in a behind the scenes struggle for power.

First indication of things to come may be found in what type of men will be named to the three posts vacated by Peron—Vice President, War Minister and Labor Minister. Still another indication may be in whether the radical decree Peron had prepared for Oct. 15 is carried out. Stock exchange sources said Peron, possibly in a last-minute bid for workers' support, would have ordered a flat 20 per cent increase in all salaries and would have decreed that 25 per cent of profits of all businesses be returned to employes.

Peron once told an interviewer he had 100,000 soldiers and 4,000,000 workers ready if his opponents chose civil war. He found no support among the workers, however, when the army deserted him.

Foreign Minister Cooke contended the resignation was a compliance with Peron's promise not to run for the presidency while holding office. It was his candidacy which had been a major cause of the growing opposition to him.

Farrell's ministers, meeting yesterday, decided that the national elections would be held April 1, 1946, to choose a president.

There was no particular display of military force connected with the overthrow of Peron yesterday. Last night he was in his home with several other generals. Heavy guard had been thrown around the building.

Resigning along with Peron was the Buenos Aires chief of police, Filomeno J. Velazco, whose hard-handed handling of disorders growing out of last week's nationwide strike of unicersity students stirred vigorous resentment.

Truman Says U. S. Must Develop Its Great Valleys

garded as a major policy speech, the President said:

"Nine years ago the first dam of the Tennessee Valley Authority—the Norris dam on the Clinch river—was dedicated by my illustrious predecessor, Franklin D. Roosevelt. At the very start of his presidency, he had the great vision and foresight to recommend and encourage the comprehensive development of this entire great valley.

"It is now a matter of great pride to me to dedicate the sixteenth great structure built by the TVA—the Kentucky dam. The system of dams across the Tennessee now puts under the control of man a whole vast river—and harnesses it to do his work. This has not yet happened on any other river. The completion of this dam marks a new high point in modern pioneering in America.

"Nine years ago TVA was a highly controversial subject. Today it is no longer an experiment, but a demonstration. By all except a small minority it is now regarded as a great American accomplishment, of which all of us are proud.

"Here in this great valley American enterprise and courage and skill have come through again with a genuine achievement. The TVA does not belong to the people of the Tennessee valley alone. It belongs to all the United States. And indeed, it has inspired regional resource development all over the world. Distinguished observers from more than fifty countries have come to this historic American valley. They came here to study what has been done. They went away to try to adapt to their own regions the lessons that have been learned here from actual experience.

"As a Senator I was always a strong supporter of the TVA. And I can say to you that I have never had occasion to regret my support of the TVA and of the idea it represents. Its record has fully justified the hopes and the confidence of its old friends.

"But it is more than dams and locks and chemical plants and power lines. It is an important experiment in democracy. In it, administrative methods have been devised which bring the people and their Federal government closer together—not in Washington, but right where the people live. Here in this valley there has been firmly established the basic principle of development of resources on an autonomous regional basis.

"Why has TVA succeeded so well? Why does it have the esteem of the people of this valley, and attract the attention of other regions of America, and of the entire world? To me the answer is clear—TVA is just plain common sense. It is common sense hitched up to modern science and good management. And that's about all there is to it.

"Instead of going at the river piecemeal with a dam here and a dam there, the river was treated as a whole. The dams were all designed so that they would fit together as a unit and in that way get the most service out of the river for mankind.

"Consider Kentucky dam itself. This dam will hold back 4,000,000 acre-feet of flood water from the lower Ohio and Mississippi rivers. The people behind the levees on those rivers know how much that will mean to them in protection from disaster. When the danger of flood is past, those flood waters are not to be wasted. They will be put through the water wheels here at the dam to produce great quantities of electricity. That electricity will rush to serve the people of the valley, their homes and farms and industries.

Navigable Channel.

"Kentucky dam also provides a deep-water, navigable channel 183 miles long. The other TVA dams carry that reliable deep water channel all the way to Knoxville in east Tennessee, 650 miles away. As a result, the south and the middle west of this nation are now connected by water transportation. The benefits of this dam go not only to the Tennessee valley; they go to St. Paul and Minneapolis, to New Orleans and Memphis, to St. Louis and Kansas City, to Omaha and Sioux City—to all the communities in the great Mississippi valley that are served by our inland waterways.

"In addition to power and flood control and navigation, there is recreation. TVA has joined with the various states and local communities in the development of great lakes here in the south. Here we have boating, fishing and hunting where thousands upon thousands of people in the Tennessee valley and the Middle West may enjoy themselves.

"As President Roosevelt said when he first recommended the creation of the Tennessee Valley Authority in April of 1933: "'. . . the usefulness of the entire Tennessee river . . . transcends mere power development; it enters the wide field of flood control, soil erosion, forestation, elimination from agricultural use of marginal lands, and distribution and diversification of industry.'

"His prophecy has been fulfilled, for in the TVA the Congress has provided for a tying together of all the things that go to make up a well-rounded economic development.

"It is easy to see that most of these common sense principles can be applied to other valleys, and I have already recommended to the Congress that a start be made in that direction. Careful planning and common sense development can convert the idle and wasting resources of other valleys into jobs and better living.

"No two valleys are exactly alike, of course. For that reason, the details of just how this region or that region should be developed are matters that require study and judgment in each particular case. The procedure in each valley may have to be a little different. The details of administration and control may have to be different. But the underlying common sense principles of this development here in the Tennessee valley can provide guidance and counsel to the people in other regions who likewise aspire to put their resources to the greatest use.

"Let me emphasize that in the last analysis such development is a matter for the people themselves to decide. Here in this valley, state and local agencies, public and private, have joined with TVA in a two-way partnership. This was a natural result of the policy of regional decentralization. That same policy ought to be followed in the other river valleys as regional agencies are created by the Congress and set to work.

"We must continue all over the United States to wage war against flood and drouth. Our vast store of natural resources can be made to serve us in peace with the same efficiency as they did in war. We should exercise our common sense, go ahead, and continue to get the job done.

12 Years' Progress.

"Much has already been done in the past 12 years on river development in other parts of the country—on the Columbia, and Colorado, on the Missouri, on the rivers of the central valley of California. They are all designed to make the rivers and their generous bounty serve instead of injuring mankind.

"Waters are now being harnessed and changed into electricity which has helped supply the weapons of victory in war—electricity which can be used to improve the standards of living and comfort and efficiency in the farms and homes of thousands of American families. Waters are now making crops grow on land where recently there was only desert dust.

"The valleys of America await their full development. The time has come—now that materials and manpower are more plentiful—to press forward. The days of the pioneer are not dead. The development of our natural resources calls for men of courage, of vision, of endurance, just as in the pioneering days of old.

"The nation, I am sure, is determined to march forward. We will not listen to the whispers of the timid, that dreams like those of the Tennessee valley are impossible to accomplish. In the great valleys of America there is a challenge to all that is best in our tradition. Ahead of us lies a great adventure in building even stronger the foundations of our beloved country. America will not hesitate to meet that challenge."

ship for India and second an agreement that the agency should meet in Tokyo when desirable.

Several times, Byrnes emphasized MacArthur would remain as supreme commander. He said he knew of no compaints against MacArthur's handling of operations there.

Byrnes also said there had to be a supreme commander because in surrendering, the Japanese contracted with the Allies that the Emperor should take orders from a supreme commander. In his opinion, the secretary said these orders could not be given by any sort of control commission.

(The White House said several weeks ago that Allied relations with Japan do not rest on a "contractual basis." Questioned on this, Byrnes laughed and said there probably were different ideas on what constitutes a contract, but that he thinks the Japanese can contract to surrender unconditionally with that provision about the Emperor.)

No Reply to Red Plan.

The United States has not yet replied to the control council idea put forward by Russian Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov. Byrnes said he could not say finally what this government's response would be.

His idea of wise procedure, Byrnes said, is to let the advisory commission meet and work out recommendations for long range control of Japan after the period of military occupation comes to an end.

The advisory commission, he said, specifically cannot make recommendations on military operations or on disposition of territory.

Byrnes said that in case of disagreement among the allied governments on Japanese policy, the United States policy would prevail.

Byrnes termed the resignation of Col. Juan Peron, "strong man" of the Argentine government, very significant and very important, but he said he did not want to assess the Argentine situation until all the facts are known.

POINTS FOR RELEASE OF NAVY DOCTORS CUT FROM 60 TO 53

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10 (AP)—The Navy has reduced the discharge point score for medical officers from 60 to 53.

It estimates this will make 4000 Navy Reserve doctors eligible for return to civilian life by Jan. 1, or 2300 more than would have been eligible under the old score.

PORTER SENTENCED IN $7456 THEFT FROM CHIPPEWA TRUST

Harry C. Hansbrough, Negro porter at the Chippewa Trust Co., was sentenced today to five years in the Federal penitentiary by United States District Judge Richard M. Duncan following his conviction by a jury yesterday of stealing $7456 from the bank last spring.

Hansbrough was arrested in Chicago when he was found to be carrying a paper bag containing almost $7000 in $5 bills. He told Chicago police he had won the money in a crap game, but investigation revealed a shortage in the bank here of that sum, all of it in $5 bills issued by the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis.

Hansbrough was sentenced on two counts of transporting stolen property across state lines and embezzlement. His attorney, Robert Spel[illegible]ink, contended the money never was identified as having been stolen from the bank. He said he would appeal from a ruling denying his motion for a new trial.

FINE FOR OBSCENE VALENTINES

Miss Norene Bernard, a teacher at Marquette School, 4015 McPherson avenue, was fined $500 and placed on probation for one year by United States District Judge Richard M. Duncan yesterday when she pleaded guilty of sending obscene matter through the mails.

The complaint was based on two valentines designed by Miss Bernard and sent by her to a woman friend. Judge Duncan gave the defendant a year in which to pay the fine.

ADVERSE REPORT BY SENATE GROUP ON MURRAY BILL

Overton Subcommittee Recommends That MVA Be Scrapped—New Hearings Planned.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10 (AP)—A Senate Irrigation Subcommittee today recommended the scrapping of a bill by Senator Murray, (Dem.), Montana for a Missouri Valley authority.

Chairman Overton (Dem.), Louisiana, said the four Senators who attended the closed session—Gurney (Rep.), South Dakota; O'Mahoney (Dem.), Wyoming; Butler (Rep.), Nebraska, and himself—voted against it. The fifth member, Senator Hatch (Dem.), New Mexico, was not present.

Overton said he did not know how soon the full committee would meet to pass on the proposed legislation.

The Senate Agriculture Committee will consider the bill after the Irrigation Committee makes its report. The Commerce Committee made an adverse report on the measure last spring.

The bill would set up a three-man board to control water programs in the Missouri river basin, including those already authorized by Congress.

cause they are a part of management.

Lewis stood pat. He said his own text is "all we have to offer" and the miners "will not be stipulated out of our bargaining rights by weasel words added to the proposal."

Lewis already has all the 472,000 soft coal production workers as members of his union. But Charles O'Neill, spokesman for the operators, noted that their contract with Lewis specifically exempts the 28,000 to 50,000 mine foremen from union eligibility.

O'Neill told reporters the reservation sought by the operators and objected to by Lewis was "almost word for word" the oral interpretation Schwellenbach had placed on the Lewis proposal.

WAGE RISE ENDS TEXTILE STRIKE

By the Associated Press.

The nationwide total of persons away from work because of labor troubles was reduced by 42,000 today with the settlement of a three-state strike of textile workers. The reduction left the number off the job in various industries at 418,000.

The textile strike in 284 shops in New Jersey, New York and Pennsylvania ended with a CIO-management agreement for a 10 cents an hour wage increase for men and five cents for women. The wage question cannot be reopened until Nov. 1, 1946. The union scaled downward its wage increase demand from 15 cents.

Additional steel workers were forced to quit work because of coal shortages, and production in many mills was cut by the closing of blast furnaces and open hearths. Miners off their jobs as a result of the strikes included 75,600 in West Virginia; 58,467 in Pennsylvania; 27,200 in Kentucky; 8000 in Tennessee; 8000 in Ohio and 5000 in Indiana. With no coal to move, 50 trains and 300 employes of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad in Kentucky were idle.

JOB PLACEMENTS IN WEEK DECLINE FROM 1122 TO 983

'Probable Worsening' of Employment Situation Indicated, Bureau Survey Says.

The St. Louis office of the United States Employment Service placed only 983 persons in jobs in the past week as compared with 1122 in the week ended Sept. 29, a survey made by the research bureau of the Social Planning Council disclosed today.

This decline together with a drop in the number of referrals for employment from 5170 in the week ended Sept. 29 to 5014 last week indicate "a probable worsening of the general employment situation," the survey said.

The number of initial claims filed with the Unemployment Compensation Commission office in the city rose from 1124 in the week ended Sept. 29 to 1782 last week. The rise, the council said, indicates increasing unemployment. Initial claims are those which have not yet been processed to determine whether the claimant is entitled to payments.

In the two-week period ended Oct. 6 there was a decline in the number of compensable claims filed with the Unemployment Compensation Commission's St. Louis office of from 14,409 to 13,486.

The number of persons who sought help from health, family, public assistance and other agencies registered with the Social Service Exchange dropped from 676 in the last week in September to 662 in the past week. The number of interviews given applicants for social security in the same period decreased from 278 to 237.

LIVING COSTS UP FOR AUGUST

Costs of food and clothing for wage earners in St. Louis declined one-tenth of 1 per cent between last July and August, the National Industrial Conference Board reported today. Otherwise living costs were unchanged.

Compared with August of last year, living costs generally were 1.7 per cent higher. Food was up 2.6 per cent over a year ago; sundries 1.3 per cent, clothing 1.9 per cent and fuel and light 1.8 per cent. House furnishings declined three-tenths of 1 per cent.

CONGRESS STILL DOUBTS NEED FOR PEACETIME DRAFT

Most Members for Test of New Recruiting Plan Despite Warning in Marshall Report.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10 (AP)—Congress put a "wait and see" sign today on Gen. Marshall's recommendation for compulsory military training in peacetime.

Most Congressmen made it apparent they wanted first to test the possibility that a standing army of volunteers could be built up to the size the chief of staff said was necessary for this country's security.

If it cannot, then some are willing to try conscription.

Senator Edwin C. Johnson (Dem.), Colorado, acting chairman of the Senate Military Committee, told a reporter: "I don't believe in conscription in time of peace."

Senator Austin (Rep.), Vermont, who does, said he thought it was too bad that Marshall's recommendation—made in his biennial report—had to hit the country flat. It should be made clear, Austin said, that a year's Army training would be so arranged as to make it possible for young men to continue their education.

Senator Gurney (Rep.), South Dakota, supported the General's claim that universal training would bolster the State Department in the conduct of foreign affairs.

Significantly, Chairman May (Dem.), Kentucky, said the House Military Committee had made no arrangements for hearings on a training bill. Other members said privately the measure had "no chance" until the recently-enacted recruiting plan had time to operate. It offers new inducements to volunteers.

WIFE TESTIFIES KRAMER WORRIED ABOUT PRISONERS

Says 'Beast of Belsen' Naturally Knew It Was 'Very Wrong' to Gas Captives.

LUENEBURG, Germany, Oct. 10 (AP)—Frau Josef Kramer testified under cross examination today that her husband naturally realized that the gassing of concentration camp internees was "very wrong."

Kramer and 44 guards and attendants are on trial before a British military court for mass killings at Belsen. A defense attempt to inject discussion of the atomic bomb into the hearing was balked by the court, which ruled it had nothing to do with the questions at issue.

Frau Kramer took an oath on the Bible, smiled at Kramer, told of their marriage Oct. 16, 1937, and said she had been with him at all times at the camps in which he was an officer.

Tells of His Concern.

She said her husband told her at Oswiecim that "of those responsible for destroying so many persons in the gas chamber, I don't think they can be sleeping easily."

"Did you ever hear of your husband beating anyone?" asked Defense Attorney Thomas Winwood.

"No," Frau Kramer replied softly. "He told me many times his duty was to care for internees at Belsen day and night. He worried because so many had to sleep on bare floors in huts."

Prosecutor T. M. Backhouse then took over.

"You say your husband told you those responsible for deaths in the gas chamber could not have an easy conscience?" he asked.

"Yes."

"He realized it was very wrong, didn't he?"

"Yes, naturally."

S. S. Doctor on Stand.

Fritz Klein, 57-year-old S.S. doctor, testified that selections for the gas chamber were made by physicians "on orders from Hoess" (commandant of the Oswiecim camp).

Recalling Kramer to the stand for re-examination on his protestations yesterday that he had no hand in the murder of prisoners, Winwood asked the former Belsen commandant:

"You were questioned yesterday as to whether you would rather carry out mass murder than be put in prison yourself. Have you heard of the atomic bomb?"

"Lately, from the papers," Kramer replied.

Line of Questioning Barred.

Judge Advocate C. L. Stirling halted further questioning along this line by demanding sharply:

"What have we to do with the atomic bomb?"

Kramer declared the responsibility for deaths and horrors at the camps rested not on him, but on his superior officers.

"Did you protest against the killing of thousands at Birkenau compound (which Kramer commanded) at Oswiecim?" Prosecutor Backhouse asked.

"No," said Kramer, "if I had protested I would have been arrested myself and put behind barbed wire."

Kramer shouted "no," when Backhouse demanded "do you realize now it was mass murder?"

Backhouse began his cross-examination with:

"Do you believe in God?"

Kramer stiffened in his chair, knotted his brow, and then said:

"Yes."

Before Kramer left the stand he asked for permission to make a statement. When it was granted, the defendant took a deep breath and said:

"I would like to take this opportunity to thank all the defending officers for their work for me and the others and I'm certain the court can give a fair judgment."

COURT ORDERS ALL VIEN'S FINANCIAL DEALS SCRUTINIZED

Scrutiny of all financial transactions of Alex S. Vien Jr., indicted East St. Louis real estate dealer, was ordered yesterday by United States District Judge Fred L. Wham in an involuntary bankruptcy suit pending against Vien.

The court instructed former Circuit Judge Maurice V. Joyce, receiver of Vien's estate for creditors, to take possession of any money or documents involved. The bankruptcy suit alleges that Vien's debts total $100,000.

Vien was charged in 21 indictments returned by a St. Clair county grand jury with embezzlement, forgery and operating a confidence game. He was released on $21,000 bond.

POLICEMAN TELLS OF DEFENDANT'S STORY OF KILLING

Says Raymond Foster, on Trial, Told Him He Hit Wrong Man in Cafe Shooting.

Raymond A. Foster, on trial for second-degree murder in the shooting of Samuel Hershal Jennings Jr., last Dec. 22, told police he had intended to shoot Jennings's companion, Irwin W. Lorts Jr., Patrolman David Redman testified before a jury in Circuit Judge William B. Flynn's court today.

Redman said he and Patrolman Melvin Horstmeier of the Newstead Avenue station arrested Foster in a restaurant at 4954 Delmar boulevard, where the shooting occurred. As he was being driven to the police station, Redman said, Foster told him he was sorry he had shot Jennings and that he had meant to shoot Lorts.

On cross-examination he admitted that this statement was not included in a police report but he said he had forgotten to write it down. The report quoted Foster as saying he intended to frighten Lorts.

After the Shooting.

Horstmeier testified Foster ordered and drank a cup of coffee while his victim lay bleeding and unconscious on the floor awaiting the arrival of an ambulance.

Lorts, who lives at 2808 Brentwood boulevard, preceded the officers on the witness stand and said Foster attempted to pick a quarrel with him and Jennings when they entered the restaurant about midnight.

He approached their table, Lorts said, and became insulting, but promised to behave when they led him back to the counter. Lorts said as he and Jennings returned to their table he heard a woman scream, "He's got a gun."

Description of Killing.

Lorts spun around, he said, and saw Foster lowering his arm as if taking aim. There was a shot, and Jennings dropped. Lorts said he threw the table at Foster, knocking him down, and then jumped on him.

Jennings, 28 years old, died at City Hospital an hour later. William R. Watkins, operator of the restaurant at the time; Mrs. Mildred Ketchum, a waitress, and Miss Elaine Gallina, 7025 West Park avenue, testified in substantiation of Lorts's account.

Morris A. Shenker, defense lawyer, told the jury he intended to show that Foster shot Jennings accidentally in a scuffle. Foster, 53 years old, has his florist shop at 4955 Delmar, across the street from the scene of the shooting.

99 PCT. OF HOMES IN ST. LOUIS AREA FOUND OCCUPIED

Ninety-nine per cent of the privately owned dwelling units in St. Louis and its western suburbs, and 99.1 per cent of those in East St. Louis and surrounding communities, were found to be occupied, in a survey made in May and June for the National Housing Agency.

For the combined St. Louis and East Side district, comprising the Greater St. Louis area, the rate of occupancy was 99 per cent, and the rate of vacancy 1 per cent. This was a slight increase in vacancies over August, 1944, when the vacancy rate was .9 of 1 per cent for the entire area.

The survey, made for the Housing Agency by the Bureau of Labor Statistics, showed a smaller percentage of vacancies in Negro neighborhoods in St. Louis and suburbs, than in white neighborhoods, the vacancy rate for the Negro neighborhoods being .4 of 1 per cent. In East St. Louis and surrounding communities, the vacancy rate was the same, .9 of 1 per cent, for white and Negro neighborhoods. The East Side territory surveyed included Belleville, Alton, Edwardsville and the Tri Cities.

"Some 37,000 married women" were found by the survey to be living with other families, in the absence of their husbands, most of whom were in the armed forces. "This fact, plus the extremely low vacancy rate," the Housing Agency says, "indicates the very real need of additional housing for returning veterans."

NIMITZ OPPOSED TO UNIFICATION OF ARMY, NAVY

Calls Japan Occupation Measures Adequate—Missed Guess on War's End 6 Months.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10 (AP)—Adm. Chester W. Nimitz said last night the occupation of Japan was progressing smoothly and "without incidents or obstacles."

Nimitz told a press conference following a tumultuous reception by thousands of New Yorkers that the untroubled nature of the occupation "leads me to believe the steps being taken are adequate."

Within a short time, he said, "the people here will be satisfied that Japan will not be an aggressor nation for a long time to come."

Discussing the atomic bomb, Nimitz described it as another weapon adding to the worries and responsibilities of battle commanders. In the future, he said, "a strong Navy would be needed to keep the seas open to get the bomb where it can be used with accuracy."

Atomic bombs "still are expensive," he said, "and must be taken within bomber range of targets."

Asked for his opinion of a single national department of defense, Nimitz replied that he strongly advocated unity of command, but "I do not favor merging departments into a single deparment of defense," adding:

"My continued experience during the war leads me to believe in separate War and Navy departments."

Nimitz stated that he would like to see a postwar Navy of approximately 500,000 men, and that he did not favor universal military training as a source of naval personnel.

Nimitz disclosed he had missed guessing the end of the war by about six months. "My estimate," he said, "was that the war would end Dec. 31, 1945."

Nimitz was in Washington today and was to go to Annapolis, Md., to take part in the United States Naval Academy's centennial observance.

FIVE CHARGED WITH STEALING CHECKS FROM LETTER BOXES

Warrants were issued today charging three Negro men and two Negro women with the theft of about 25 government checks valued at $500 from home letter boxes in St. Louis. Two of the men were also charged with violation of the Dyer Act for interstate transportation of a stolen automobile. The warrants were issued by the United States Attorney's office.

Those named were Woodrow Johnson, 27 years old, a laborer, 2220 Franklin avenue; Andrew Lidge, 26, a laborer, 2728 Delmar boulevard; Mrs. Opal Sanders, 19, 2716 Stoddard street; Alexander Hall, 24, laborer, 1430 North Grand boulevard, and Mrs. Cleo Slayder, 20, 3148 Evans avenue.

The thefts were revealed after the arrest of two of the men Oct. 1 in a stolen automobile. In the investigation by St. Louis police, the three others were arrested. All are being held at City Jail.

SUIT SEEKS TO BAR NEGROES FROM MOVING INTO HOUSE

Suit to enjoin Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Shelley, Negroes, from owning or occupying a house which they bought at 4600 Labadie avenue was filed in Circuit Court yesterday by Mr. and Mrs. Louis W. Kraemer, 4532 Labadie. Circuit Judge William K. Koerner issued a temporary restraining order to prevent the Shelleys from moving into the house before tomorrow when there will be a hearing.

The Kraemers alleged that transfer of title to the house to the Shelleys was in violation of a property owners' agreement. Another injunction suit asking that sale of property at 4276 Labadie to Miss Ermine Bush, Negro, be set aside was filed in Circuit Court Monday by Paul N. Bieven who alleged violation of property restrictions. Miss Bush lives at 4200W Page boulevard. The Shelleys live at 1121A North Ninth street.

WILLIAM BRUEMMER HEADS COUNTY PLAN COMMISSION

William Bruemmer was elected chairman of the St. Louis County Planning Commission last night, succeeding Con Loesch, who resigned Monday in protest against lack of funds for engineering work.

Bruemmer, a real estate dealer, previously was secretary of the commission. James H. O'Brien was re-elected vice chairman and Norman J. Risch was elected secretary. The annual election was held by the commission in its offices at 7927 Forsythe boulevard, Clayton.

Commission members serve without salary. The body acts in an advisory capacity on development plans under appointment of the St. Louis County Court.

10,000 GERMANS GASSED, HADAMAR DEFENDANT SAYS

By LYNN HEINZERLING

WIESBADEN, Germany, Oct. 10 (AP)—Alfons Klein, former supervisor of the Hadamar "murder factory," told the American military court trying him and six other Germans today that some 10,000 Germans with mental ailments were gassed to death there in 1941.

Klein said the extermination of mentally unfit was ordered by Adolf Hitler's office in Berlin. Late in 1941 protests halted the executions, he said, and, after they were resumed in August, 1942, 3000 to 3500 more persons, including Russians and Poles, were "helped along to death" by injections of chemicals.

Klein and six others are specifically accused of the murder of at least 400 Poles and Russians at Hadamar, the court having ruled that they are not on trial for the killing of Germans.

The first defense witness after the prosecution closed its case today, Klein indicated that the accused would contend they were only carrying out orders from higher up.

Hadamar was one of four institutions operating to rid the third Reich of "unfit persons," he testified. He said he protested against the killings, but desisted when threatened with internment in a concentration camp.

An earlier statement by Klein presented by the prosecution, which told of 75 Russians and Poles arriving at Hadamar and being killed by injections the same day, started violent wrangling among the defendants. That statement said Dr. Adolf Wahlmann met his staff daily to decide who would die.

He named other defendants who participated in the Hadamar murders and asserted: "If anyone says he was forced to live there and was not able to quit, it is a lie."

A short recess followed and four or five of the defendants turned on Klein and belabored him with heated arguments.

tors and representatives from the larger cities, there was no question at any time about the passage of the bill. Rural members, who predominate in both houses, were strongly organized for it. Only 20 rural members voted against it.

Having passed the Senate several months ago, it was called up in the House yesterday. In the extensive debate the advocates of the bill left no doubt that they had the votes to pass it, regardless of the opposition of Representative W. N. McDonald of Joplin, chairman of the House Committee on Roads and Highways, and several other rural members.

Amendments Voted Down.

Realizing the strength of the proponents, Representatives J. S. N. Farquhar of Cape Girardeau and Emmett L. Bartram of Maryville sought to lessen its evils by amendments, which would have created a six-man commission with representation given both St. Louis and Kansas City, but with four rural members. These amendments were speedily voted down, the Bartram proposal by voice vote and the Farquhar proposal by a standing vote of 35 to 83.

Representative Milton F. Duvall of Clarksville joined in the opposition to the bill, pointing out that in the first four years of postwar road construction the Federal Government proposed an allotment of more than $40,000,000 to Missouri, which the state would be compelled to match if it received the federal money. The federal requirement, he said, included allocation of a portion of this money to urban districts.

In its program for the first year of postwar construction, the highway commission last May allotted $6,302,316 of combined state and federal funds, for construction in urban areas. Of this $2,281,876 was allotted for use in St. Louis.

Supporting the bill on the floor were Representatives A. V. McRoberts of Monticello, John J. Endres of Perryville, Melvin E. Fish of Pollock, Walter S. Clark of Milan, C. P. Turley of Van Buren, R. S. Walton of Armstrong and Marvin E. Wright of Salisbury.

The substance of their arguments was that a commission of 10, appointed by districts, would result in greater consideration for the road needs of rural areas and that not as great consideration would be given to expenditures on the through state routes.

The final vote was 84 for the bill and 34 against, 32 members being absent. All St. Louis, St. Louis County and Kansas City members who were present voted against it. The fact that 10 St. Louis members and two St. Louis County members were not present had no effect on the result, absentees really counting as no votes under the constitutional requirement that 76 yes votes are required for passage of a bill.

Governor's Attitude.

If Gov. Donnelly vetoes the bill there is little likelihood that it can be passed over the veto, a two-thirds vote in each house being required.

While the Governor has never publicly expressed his opinion of the bill, he is definitely on record as to the emergency clause provision. In vetoing the state park bill he quoted decisions of the Missouri Supreme Court to the effect that to place a bill in immediate effect by an emergency clause it must be for the "immediate preservation of public peace, health and safety."

As in the case of the park board bill emergency clause, the clause on the Quinn bill does not state an emergency in the required language. It attempts merely a legislative declaration that it is necessary to reorganize the highway department.

The Governor in his veto of the park bill pointed out that the so-called emergency clause did not state that the act was necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health and safety, adding that if it had it "would be false on its face."

"Certainly," he said, "the turning over of the duties of one board to another does not create an emergency which would affect the peace, health and safety of the people of this state."

The Quinn bill merely turns over the duties of the present board to the proposed board.

Even if the Legislature should override a veto it is unlikely that the bill would ever go into effect, as it certainly would be contested in the courts and the Supreme Court has ruled on the exact question which would be involved.

REDS MAKE NO COMMENT ON U. S. ATOM BOMB POLICY

MOSCOW, Oct. 10 (AP)—Soviet newspapers printed without comment today a Tass dispatch quoting President Truman as saying that the United States did not intend to share the secret of the atomic bomb.

too, under another name, and added:

"There are isolationists in Europe, and I am sure that the Soviet Union also has them. But I am also certain that isolationists of any breed today are in fact no more than vestigal remains of the pre-atomic age."

Repeating that the United States was in the league "for keeps," Stettinius said:

"Our interests are involved in the peace and well-being of Europe, and of Asia, and we shall support our interests on both continents, not in any sense for domination, but in the spirit of the United Nations charter, and as active partners in the cause of peace and security."

ORDER TO EXECUTE G.I.S GIVEN HIGHER UP, GENERAL SAYS

Dostler on Stand Contradicts Superior, Tells of Blanket Directive by Hitler.

By GEORGE BRIA

ROME, Oct. 10 (AP)—Gen. Anton Dostler, on trial for his life as a war criminal, testified today that the order to execute 15 captured Americans near La Spezia last year came from higher German headquarters.

Standing stiffly erect, he directly contradicted earlier testimony by his superior, Gen. Gustav von Zangen, commander of a German army group. The prosecution had rested.

Dostler said the men, captured behind German lines were "commando troops — English-speaking Italians" and that Adolf Hitler had issued a blanket order to execute immediately all commandos. Dostler said he referred his preliminary order for execution to the Von Zangen army group headquarters, and that it confirmed the order.

Dostler, in charge of the German forces near La Spezia is acman forces near La Spezia, is accused of the murders. Von Zangen who was Dostler's superior, told the five-man United States military court he never heard of the executions until war crimes investigators questioned him in June.

Dostler asserted he "had heard that Von Zangen's headquarters had referred the matter to Field Marshal Albert Kesselring's supreme headquarters for final decision."

German witnesses testified yesterday that the 15 Americans were shot without trial and buried in a mass grave.

A witness to the executions, German Pvt. Wilhelm Kuell, said the captives were shot in two groups by a firing squad of 25 Germans. Kuell testified a German officer gave each body an additional "security shot" in the neck.

Depositions from officers who participated in the exhumation of the bodies last May said the arms of the men were wired behind their backs.

The prosecution read a German report on the capture of the soldiers which stated that the men put up a fight before being taken, and that one, Lt. Vincent Russo, of Montclair, N. J., was wounded.

JAPAN'S POLITICAL PRISONERS FREED, GREETED BY REDS

"The imperial system is the root of all evils," he asserted. Tokuda spent 18 years in prison for voicing such thoughts.

Three other prisons, Kosuge, Toyotama and Tokyo Kochisao, also opened under MacArthur's order setting today as the deadline. Many of their political prisoners had been held without charge for 10 to 20 years, for advocating Communism or speaking against the ruling Japanese government.

Some Questioned by U. S.

Some of the prisoners were taken directly to the First Cavalry Division command post for questioning, as United States officers sought to trace possible additional prisons housing jailed liberals.

The anti-Communist resolution of the Federation of Toilers, a new organization known in Japan as "Zenkoku Kinrosha Domei," emphasized the viewpoint that "our faithful execution of provisions of the Potsdam declaration promises preservation of our imperial institution."

Domei news agency reported that a group of Diet members who have returned to Parliament "not more than three times" has organized to bring about:

Dissolution of the Diet; then reformation "based on the people's will with a view to building up a new Japan from the stern realities of present defeat."

The emergence of a political party "comprising men of ability in all branches of national life."

SHOE REPAIR CEILINGS SET TO 'HOLD LINE' ON PRICES

Flat price ceilings are established on shoe repairs under an order of the Office of Price Administration which became effective yesterday. OPA officers here said the new ceilings would not reduce prices, but that the action was a "hold the line" order.

Heretofore, no flat ceiling prices had been set on shoe repairs, the repairmen being restricted only by the general order limiting prices for their work to those charged in March, 1942.

Under the new order, the ceiling prices for having shoes half-soled are: Men and boys' shoes, leather, $1.25 to $1.75; composition, $1.15 to $1.55, and leather heels, 65 cents; women and girls' shoes, leather, $1 to $1.50, composition, 90 cents to $1.30; leather heels, 30 to 50 cents; children's shoes, leather, 95 cents to $1.50, composition, 75 cents to $1.30, heels, 35 cents to 50 cents.

TROOPS MAY LOAD QUEEN ELIZABETH IN DOCK STRIKE

New York Longshoremen Reject Appeal for Workers — 17 Ships to Sail Empty to Europe.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10 (AP)—As 35,000 to 60,000 longshoremen continued their 10-day-old strike which has tied up more than 350 ships in New York harbor, Army spokesmen said today soldiers presumably would be used to load the Queen Elizabeth, scheduled to sail Friday for England.

Members of local 824 of the AFL International Longshoremen's Association rejected an appeal this morning for workers to help load the Queen Elizabeth.

About 125 Negro soldiers unloaded mail and baggage from the liner yesterday after union members quit work in a dispute over the size of "sling loads" being lowered to the dock.

The walkout did not affect debarkation of some 15,000 soldiers returned from Europe.

More than 60 locals are involved in the strike against the New York Shipping Association. A new contract is sought embodying provisions for a standardized weight load for cargo nets, overtime pay for lunch hours worked, two instead of three daily hiring periods, and a relief man for each group of longshoremen. The present contract expired Sept. 20.

Capt. Hewlett R. Bishop, Atlantic coast War Shipping Administration director, said the strike was delaying the return of "thousands of troops." He said 17 Liberty ships had been ordered to sail empty, leaving behind 85,000 tons of cargo.

Bishop estimated more than 110,000 tons of relief cargo and Army supplies for foreign ports had piled up. 8000 tons of perishable meat for the Army was included.

UNIONISTS PICKET CAPITOL, AROUSE SENATORS' WRATH

No Action Taken on Proposal to Arrest 3 Opposing Use of Non-Union Labor, However.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 10—Presence of three umbrella-carrying pickets in front of the State Capitol called forth bitter denunciatory speeches from State Senators H. B. Hart (Rep.), of Versailles and H. R. Williams (Rep.), of Cassville yesterday. Williams suffered a slight heart attack after his speech, and was taken to a physician's office, from which he was able to walk to his hotel room.

The pickets were protesting against use of non-union labor in repairing a sidewalk on the state's property. Hart offered a resolution calling for the arrest of the pickets, and their arraignment before the Senate, under a section of the Constitution empowering the Senate to punish non-members guilty of contemptuous behavior toward the Legislature. Hart said he would be willing to make the arrests himself if he had assistance, and introduced visiting officials of the American Legion.

No action was taken on the resolution. Senator C. R. Hawkins (Rep.) of Brumley, said the pickets were within their constitutional rights, and that the Capitol premises belonged to the people, not the Legislature. He said, however, that he thought it "poor business" for a returned soldier to be prevented by an organization from accepting employment.

Williams said one of the men employed on the sidewalk job was a soldier just returned from the Pacific. He quoted the young man as saying to him, "If someone doesn't do something about this, 13 million of us will." Discussing the national strike situation, Williams said:

"Now the President of the United States is off somewhere around the country when he ought to be in the White House on bended knees trying to solve a problem which will only lead to bloodshed if it continues." (President Truman visited the Caruthersville Fair in Southeast Missouri over the weekend and then went to Tiptonville, Tenn., for rest and fishing at Reelfoot lake.)

FRISCO TO SPEND $7,321,394

The application of Frank A. Thompson, trustee of the St. Louis-San Francisco Railway Co., for permission to spend $7,321,394 on postwar equipment was granted yesterday by United States District Judge George H. Moore.

Equipment to be built will include three diesel-powered streamline trains and other rolling stock for handling freight.

TWO ARRESTED AT PARK PLAZA HOTEL ON BETTING CHARGE

An automobile dealer and a Park Plaza Hotel waiter were arrested at the hotel yesterday by detectives who found betting slips in their possession.

Detectives arrested Joseph Lennemann, operator of an automobile agency at 5841 Delmar boulevard, after they had watched him write a bet on a horse race at a table in the Stag room of the hotel. Checking over other betting tabs which Lennemann had with him, police found the name "Van" repeated several times.

They learned that it referred to Van Nasta Ghnouly, a waiter at the hotel. Ghnouly was arrested when the detectives found a number of betting tabs in his locker.

Both men were booked as suspected of gambling and released on bond.

32 OF 89 DIVISIONS INACTIVATED BY ARMY

21 Infantry, 2 Airborne and 9 Armored Groups Reported as Those Disbanded.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10 (AP)—The Army has ordered inactivation of 32 of the 89 divisions it had at peak strength during the war.

The 32, it was learned today, include 21 infantry, two airborne and nine armored divisions. They are:

Infantry—Twenty-sixth, Twenty-ninth, Thirty-fourth, Thirty-sixth, Forty-third, Sixty-third, Sixty-fifth, Sixty-sixth, Sixty-ninth, Seventieth, Seventy-fifth, Seventy-sixth, Seventy-ninth, Eighty-fifth, Eighty-seventh, Eighty-ninth, Ninety-second, Ninety-fifth, Ninety-ninth, 103rd and 106th.

Airborne – Seventeenth and Eighty-second.

Armored—Fifth, Sixth, Seventh, Ninth, Tenth, Eleventh, Twelfth, Fourteenth and Sixteenth.

The list is subject to last-minute change. However, three infantry units—the Sixty-third, Eighty-fifth and Eighty-seventh already have been brought home and inacticvated.

The Fifth and Seventh Armored and the Seventieth Infantry left Le Havre, France, early this month and some of their units are now arriving at eastern ports. The Forty-third Infantry is the only unit on the list from the Pacific and detachments from it are due in this country soon.

Five of the infantry divisions are National Guard units. The Twenty-sixth is from Massachusetts; the Twenty-ninth from Maryland, Virginia and the District of Columbia; the Thirty-fourth from North Dakota, South Dakota, Iowa and Minnesota; the Thirty-sixth from Texas; the Forty-third from Maine, Connecticut and Rhode Island.

Men of the disbanded divisions who have sufficient point scores are being discharged. The remainder are shifted to other units or to other assignments.

Sports Writer Dies.

BOSTON, Oct. 10 (AP)—Ed Earle, 55, Boston Herald sports writer known to thousands of yachtsmen as "Skipper," was found dead yesterday of a heart attack suffered during the night. He died unaware that several hundred yachtsmen had planned a surprise testimonal dinner for him next Monday. A native of Worcester, he had covered all the America Cup races of the past decade.

WRAY'S COLUMN

All Quiet on the Big League Front.

ALL is quiet on the major league front today, which sees the windup of the most thrilling world series in recent years. . . . The magnates have no idea of paying off and parting with their new commissioner Senator A. B. "Happy" Chandler.

The Senator says he will soon resign from the upper house of our national legislature. . . . And the new czar of baseball, whose nickname seemed about to be altered to "Unhappy," now is all set for a $350,000 seven-year term as successor to the late Kenesaw M. Landis.

Evidence of friction and dislike of the selection of Chandler for the commissioner post developed from the beginning. . . . He was the surprise choice from a list of some sixty names suggested by the committee appointed to look over the available candidates for the office. . . . Some of the magnates, it seemed, were stunned when Chandler got the post. . . . Nor were they too pleased with several things, namely:

His long delay in resigning his post as Senator.

His ouster of Leslie O'Connor as assistant to the commissioner and substitution of a non-baseball man as his secretary.

His suggestion to increase world series umpires' pay to $4000 each, when the rules provide for $2500.

THERE were other matters which grated on the magnates sensory systems. . . . But yesterday at Chicago peace, or at least a truce, has finally been agreed on. . . . Happy will come into real existence as commissioner about Nov. 1, when he will begin to draw that $50,000 honorarium.

You can say one thing for Happy—he hasn't drawn his baseball pay while serving Uncle Sam as senator. . . . And that's in spite of the fact that there seems to be no law which says he could not have done so, had he desired.

So that there is now reason to believe that for the next seven years Happy will fulfill the duties of baseball commissioner as satisfactorily as he sings "My Old Kentucky Home." . . . By the way, have you ever heard Happy sing?

In Good, Now

A. B. "HAPPY" CHANDLER, baseball commissioner, who has smoothed ruffled major league brows and will resign from his job as senator around Nov. 1, he says.

Two Three-Game Aces In the Same Series.

WHILE HANK BOROWY was failing to gain a third world series victory in the forty-second and current world series, inspection of the records in search of previous three-game winners develops the fact that in the first world series under the National Agreement there were two pitchers each of whom hurled three winning games!

Of course that would be unlikely to happen now, because seven games make up a championship series. . . . But back in 1903 when the Boston Red Sox played the Pittsburgh Pirates it did occur. . . . They played the best five out of nine games, then, and Deacon Phillipe and Big Bill Dinneen each gained three victories.

And, speaking of thrillers, that first modern world series was jam-packed with goose-pimply features. . . . To begin with Deacon Phillipe not only won three games, but he pitched the full route in five of the eight games played! . . . Sam Leever pitched two and a combination of Kennedy and Thompson lost the other, the only contest of the eight to see a pitcher relieved. All that would be deemed incredible in modern times. . . . The records show that Phillipe pitched in three of the first four games of the series, winning all three. . . . His appearances were on Oct. 1, 3 and 6. . . . On Oct. 10 and Oct. 13, he appeared again but was beaten by Cy Young and Bill Dinneen respectively.

Cy Young and Bill Dinneen performed almost equally well. . . . Each one of them appeared in four games and each pitched throughout all four, with Young winning two and Bill the needed three. Contrast that pitching record with that of the 1945 series.

A COMPARISON between this first series and that of 1945 presents other contrasts quite as astonishing. . . . For instance the attendance and financial figures of the 1945 series broke all previous records. . . . But the 1903 series was, naturally, a low for this century. . . . Here are the details of that 1903 championship:

Attendance—100,429.
Receipts—$55,500.
Winning player's share—$1182.
Losing share—$1316.25.

That's meager, compared to the totals for the 1945 series, but not the least astonishing may seem to be the fact that the losing player's share was larger than a winner's portion. . . . That was due to the fact that Owner Barney Dreyfuss of the Pirates turned over the club's share of the receipts to swell his team's share of the pool.

Mrs. Brown Scores a Hole in One in Golf Tourney Victory

FORT SMITH, Ark., Oct. 10 (10)—Semifinalist positions in the first annual Hardscrabble women's invitation golf tourney here went to golfers from three states yesterday as first round play was completed.

Miss Ed Dell Wortz, Fort Smith, defeated Mrs. "Tackey" Sicard, also of Fort Smith, 2 and 1 in the championship flight; Miss Jo Henson, San Antonio, Tex., defeated Mrs. Dane Harris, Hot Springs, one up on the nineteenth hole; Margaret Gunther, Memphis, Tenn., defeated Mrs. Carle Robbins, 2 and 1; and Mrs. Sarah Benedum, San Antonio, defeated Miss Bea Smith, Charleston, W. Va., 2 and 1.

Mrs. Russell Brown of Little Rock, shot a hole in one on the fifteenth hole, as she defeated Mrs. John Garrett of Muskogee, Ok., 4 and 3.

$6445 for Each Of the Winning Detroit Tigers

CHICAGO, Oct. 10 (AP)—The Chicago Cubs have voted 33⅓ full shares of their "cut" of the world series players' pool and the Detroit Tigers will split their portion into 31 shares, it was announced just before the final game got under way today.

The announcement said that in addition to the $445,714.50 players' share in the gate receipts, the pool would also include approximately $30,000 from the $100,000 radio rights, making the total of approximately $475,714.50 the greatest "pie" the players have ever sliced up for a series.

Of this, the two series clubs get 70 per cent or $333,000.15 to split. The series winner gets 60 per cent of this sum, or $199,800.09, and the loser 40 per cent or $133,200.06.

Thus, each Tiger receiving a full share will get approximately $6445, some $100 less than the record individual player share received by the Cincinnati Reds in the 1940 series.

Barnstormers Escape Injury In Train Wreck

GREAT FALLS, Mont., Oct. 10 (AP)—Two persons were killed and a number of American League baseball players on a barnstorming tour escaped injury when a southbound Great Northern passenger train was derailed 10 miles north of Great Falls yesterday.

The dead were Engineer Arthur F. Killilea, 63, and Fireman Rodger V. Leroy, 59, both of Great Falls.

None of the 80 passengers aboard the train was injured. The American League players continued to Great Falls and played a scheduled exhibition with an all-star team last night.

The players included Bobo Newsom, Dave Keefe, Frank Hays, Sam Chapman and Buddy Rosar of the Athletics, Al Evans and Burt Shepard of the Washington Senators, Jim Bucher of the Boston Red Sox, Jeff Heath, Steve Gromek and Allie Reynolds of the Cleveland Indians.

Superintendent Henry Shapleigh of the Great Northern said the derailment was caused when the engine struck a piece of steel road drag which had become lodged in the tracks while a farmer was trying to pull it across.

Lollar Named as "Most Valuable" in International League

Sherman Lollar, 21-year-old slugging catcher of the Baltimore Orioles who was purchased by the Cleveland Indians for $10,000 under a working agreement between the two clubs, was named yesterday as the most valuable player in the International League by the Sporting News, national baseball weekly.

Lollar, whose home is in Fayetteville, Ark., won the award by batting .390 last July and August with the Orioles.

Colonels Win Again; Newark Final Tonight

NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 10 (AP)—Frank Hiller will be Manager Bill Meyer's selection to stop the rampaging Louisville Colonels tonight as the Newark Bears go into their final home game of the little world series, trailing two games to none.

Nemo Liebold, after two brilliant mound performances by George Diehl and Rex Cecil, will use either Dick Callahan or the veteran Yank Terry against the international league Bears.

After tonight's game there will be a one day recess in the best of seven series while the clubs travel to the American Association city for the remaining games.

Cecil allowed only one single through 10 innings last night, but Newark registered three runs and the teams were tied going into the eleventh when Cecil was lifted for a pinch hitter and the Colonels triumphed, 5-3, on two straight walks by Karl Drews with the bases loaded.

Drews had kept pace with Cecil until the fatal eleventh. Two errors and a hit batsman loaded the sacks. The big right-hander then went completely out of line, throwing eight successive wide pitches to force in the two winning runs.

Hal Douglas' two-run homer in the first was the only safety off Cecil who actually had a no-hit stretch of 9 2-3 innings. Reliefer Harry Kimberlin yielded the second hit, a single, in the eleventh.

Six infield errors, three by Shortstop Frank Shofner, marred Louisville's victory and led indirectly to all Newark's runs.

The crowd of 5646 paid boosted total cash receipts to $17,267.31 of which $10,360.37 went into the players pool.

NEWHOUSER FANS 10 IN GAINING SECOND VICTORY; BOROWY ROUTED

By J. Roy Stockton
Of the Post-Dispatch Sports Staff.

CHICAGO, Oct. 10—The Detroit Tigers are the new champions of baseball.

Steve O'Neill's American Leaguers gained their necessary fourth victory this afternoon, defeating the Chicago Cubs of the National League, 9 to 3, in the seventh and final game of the world series, a rather drab affair compared to the exciting thriller of Monday in which the Cubs evened the competition at three victories each.

Detroit won the deciding game with a five-run splurge in the first inning, knocking Hank Borowy out of the box on three straight hits before a man was retired and continuing the attack against Paul Derringer, who was wild, forcing two runs over the plate on walks during his 1 2-3 innings on the hill.

Charley Grimm's National Leaguers out-hit the Tigers, 10 to 9, but were never in the contest after the first inning. Grimm played out the string, using six pitchers, Hy Vandenberg, Paul Erickson, Claude Passeau and Henry Wyse also taking turns on the hill, after Borowy, making his fourth appearance of the series and his third in four days, showed that his arm needed more rest.

Southpaw Hal Newhouser, who was batted out of the box in the opening game, but came back to win Sunday's contest, 8-4, was the Detroit pitcher.

The paid attendance was announced 41,590 and the receipts $204,177, making the total attendance for the seven games 332,457 and the total gross receipts $1,492,454.

The umpires were Passarella, American, behind the plate; Conlan, National, first base; Summers, American, second, and Jorda, National League at third.

Borowy pitched two balls to Webb, leading off for the Tigers in the first, then two called strikes, a third ball and Webb singled to right on the three and two pitch. Mayo swung at the first pitch and bounced a single to right, just out of Cavarretta's reach, sending Webb to third. Paul Derringer began to warm up in the Cub bullpen. Cramer followed with a pop single to right, out of Hughes' reach and Webb scored, Mayo stopping at second. Manager Grimm went to the mound and quickly called Derringer to take over the pitching assignment.

Greenberg, first to face Derringer, bunted toward first for a sacrifice. Cavarretta fielded the ball and tagged Greenberg, as Mayo moved to third and Cramer to second. An intentional pass to Cullenbine filled the bases. Derringer curved a called strike over the outside corner on his first offering to York. The next was a curve, far outside for ball one, and Paul then grooved a low strike.

Run Forced Across.

A ball high and inside made it two and two and the next one just missed the outside corner. With the count three and two York hit a long fly that fell inches outside the right field line. And a rumple of relief swept through the stands. York fouled off two more and then sent up a high pop fly that Hack caught. Derringer walked Outlaw on four pitches and Mayo was forced home with the second run of the inning. Derringer, in his younger days, was wont to lift his left foot high up in front of him with each delivery. Apparently the leg has grown heavy with age. He doesn't lift it any more. Richards looked at a ball, fouled off two, and then lashed a double to left, clearing the bases, Cramer, Cullenbine and Outlaw racing home to make the score 5 to 0. Johnson threw out Newhouser to end the inning.

Johnson Doubles and Scores.

Newhouser whipped over a called third strike on Hack to fan him on three pitches as Stan led off in the Cub first. Johnson doubled to center and despite Newhouser's five-run cushion, Benton began to warm up in Detroit bull-pen. Lowrey followed with a bunt to Newhouser, but the pitcher fumbled the ball and Lowrey reached first. It was not a sacrifice, as Johnson held second. Cavaretta delivered a single to right, scoring Johnson and sending Lowrey to third. That was all, as Pafko hit into a double play, Webb to Mayo to York.

Webb flied deep to Pafko for the first out of the Tiger second and Andy didn't have to move to catch Mayo's fly. Cramer, with a three and two count, singled to right. Greenberg walked, Derringer complaining as a couple of outside curves were not called strikes. Cullenbine also walked, filling the bases, and York, also working the string to three and two, drew the third straight pass, forcing Cramer over the plate. Grimm made another trip from the dugout and Vandenberg replaced Derringer on the mound. Outlaw hit sharply back to the mound and Vandenberg, stopping it with his leg, threw out Outlaw to end the inning.

Newhouser made quick work of the Cubs in their second. Nicholson fouled to Richards, Outlaw threw out Livingston and Hughes took a jug-handle curve for a called third strike.

No Runners in Third.

Vandenberg was effective in the third and the Tigers went down in order. Richards took a called third strike, Newhouser grounded to Johnson and Hughes threw out Webb.

Vandenberg flied to Cullenbine to open the Cub third, Hack grounded to Outlaw and Webb ran over to second for Johnson's grounder and threw him out.

Mayo, first up for the Tigers in the fourth, was called out on strikes. Cramer popped to Hughes. Greenberg walked again, without taking his bat off his shoulder. Cullenbine fanned and was thrown out by Livingston, who dropped the third strike.

Triple for Pafko.

Lowrey flied to Cullenbine to open the Cub fourth and then the stands, silent for two innings, broke into a roar as Cavarretta singled to center. Pafko followed with a long fly to center. Cramer was back far enough, but apparently lost the ball as he turned to look at the wall and the drive fell safe, several feet from him, good for a triple, scoring Cavarretta.

World Series Sidelights

CHICAGO, Oct. 10 (AP)—Claude (Mr. Chips) Passeau, who did his share of Tiger taming in the world series, still has his pitching elbow loaded with bone splinters despite an early season operation. But the square-jawed veteran will keep rattling those chips next season. Surgery will leave him with a stiff arm, doctors tell Passeau.

The switch-board operator at Wrigley Field doesn't have to see the proceedings on the playing field to get a big chuckle. During the rip-roaring sixth game Monday she received a call for Manager Charlie Grimm. Told that Grimm was busy—very busy—at the moment, the caller imparted this message, "I am listening to the game on the radio and I've got a hot hunch. Tell Mr. Grimm to pitch Lon Warneke and the Cubs will beat the Tigers." The call came from Birmingham, Ala., and it wasn't collect.

At a Quarterback luncheon which Happy Chandler squeezed into his series routine, the commissioner gave a big send-off to Leslie M. O'Connor, secretary to the late Commissioner Kenesaw Mountain Landis for 24 years, who will become general manager of the Chicago White Sox. "He was the judge's trusted aid and I'm sorry to see him leave," Chandler said of O'Connor, who was his special assistant for several months.

Hack Says He's Through.

Stan Hack, whose tricky twelfth inning belt squared the series, says the series will end his baseball career. The 35-year-old Cub third sacker said he returned to the club this year only as a favor to Manager Charlie Grimm. "If Grimm hadn't returned, I wouldn't have either," candidly asserted the cigar-smoking infielder who has been a Cub for 14 years.

The biggest Tiger IF in the riotus sixth game rested on Shortstop Joe Hoover. If he hadn't tried to steal second in the twelfth, Cub Shortstop Len Merullo wouldn't have been spiked. If Merullo hadn't been spiked, Pinch-Hitter Frank Secory wouldn't have appeared in the Cub twelfth. And if Secory hadn't appeared, his single wouldn't have put the winning run on first.

The 1946 major league season will open on April 16 and the final games will be played on Sept. 29. . . . Hank Greenberg, the Tigers' slugging left fielder, has a bruised right wrist. He said he suffered the injury in Monday's game but he couldn't recall how or when.

Lesnevich Gets His Honorable Discharge

NEW YORK, Oct. 10 (AP)—Light heavyweight champion Gus Lesnevich yesterday received his honorable discharge from the Coast Guard after 44 months of service and said he would like to get a bout with either heavyweight king Joe Louis or Billy Conn.

The Cliffside (N. J.) battler, who has a 1-C carpenter's mate rating although he served as an athletic instructor most of the time, had 48 points to his credit when he left the Philippines a month and a half ago.

"I never made much money with the title," the 29-year-old Lesnevich said, "and I'm going to defend it as the Boxing Commission wants me to do in the next six months.

"After that I want the big fellows."

First Three Detroit Batters Hit, Borowy Is Taken Out of the Box

Five-Run Inning for Americans

Nicholson tapped to Newhouser, who threw out the runner, Pafko holding third, and Hal also threw out Livingston.

After York, leading off in the Detroit fifth, grounded to Hack, Outlaw made the first hit off Vandenberg, a single to left. Richards beefed at a called strike and swung and missed the next, on which Outlaw stole second. Outlaw held second while Hack threw out Richards. Newhouser flied to Lowrey to end the frame.

Hughes complained as he was being called out on strikes to start the Cub fifth and the stands took up his cause, yelling "strike" at a couple of bad pitches to Eddie Sauer, who went in to bat for Vandenberg. There were a few boohs at the move by Grim, Vandenberg having done an excellent job. It didn't help when Sauer struck out. Webb threw out Hack on a close play to end the inning.

Erickson was the Chicago pitcher as the Tigers batted in the sixth. Webb sent a short fly to Nicholson and Lowrey then went back and toward center for Mayo's drive. Cramer followed with a single to center, his eleventh of the series, putting him, along with Hack, only one short of the seven-game world series record, held by Sam Rice, Washington, 1925, and Pepper Martin, Cardinals, 1931. With Greenberg at bat, Cramer stole second, aided when Livingston fumbled an outside pitch. Greenberg fanned for the third out.

Two More Strikeouts.

Cullenbine drew his third pass of the game as he led off for the Tigers in the seventh. York took a called third strike, Outlaw flied to Pafko but Richards lined to right center and the ball skipped out of Pafko's reach for a double, Cullenbine scoring from first. Newhouser ended the inning with a line drive to Pafko.

Nicholson led off in the Chicago seventh with a grounder to York, Newhouser taking the throw at first. Livingston lined a single over Webb's head and, with Hughes at bat, a wild pitch moved Mickey to second. Hughes walked and Secory batted for Erickson and was called out on strikes. Hack grounded to Outlaw, who stepped on third, forcing Livingston for the third out.

Passeau on Hill in 8th.

Passeau pitched for the Cubs as Detroit batted in the eighth. Webb, first up for the fourth time in the game, drew a pass. Mayo worked his string to three and two and then doubled over the leaping Hack's head, the ball rolling under the bench in the Cub bullpen. Meantime Webb raced home. Johnson fumbled Cramer's grounder, but threw him out, Mayo moving to third. Greenberg, with a three and two count, flied to Lowrey and Mayo beat the throw to the plate with the Tigers' ninth run. Cullenbine ended the inning with a pop fly to Johnson.

Johnson, first up in the Chicago eighth, grounded to Webb. Lowrey dropped a single in front of Greenberg and Cavaretta made his eleventh hit of the series, a single through the box out to center field, sending Lowrey to third. Pafko struck out, No. 20 for Newhouser, equaling the World Series pitching record for most strikeouts in a seven-game series.

A foul off Nicholson's bat fractured the little finger on Richards' right hand and Swift went behind the plate for the Tigers. With the count two and two, Nicholson doubled to left-center, scoring Lowrey and sending Cavaretta to third. Livingston fanned for the third out, No. 21 for Newhouser, a new record for a seven-game series. George Mullin, Walter Johnson and George Earnshaw had previously been credited with 20 strikeouts.

Henry Wyse went to the mound for the Cubs as the Tigers batted in the ninth. York flied to Nicholson, Outlaw flied to Pafko and Hack threw out Swift.

Mierkowicz replaced Greenberg in left field for the Tigers as the Cubs took their final turn at bat. Hughest singled to cented. McCullough batted for Wyse and thruck out. Hack flied to Cramer. Johnson forced Hughes, Webb to Mayo, to end the game and the series.

'Dig, Dig, Dig'—but Bills' Coach Didn't Mean Figuratively

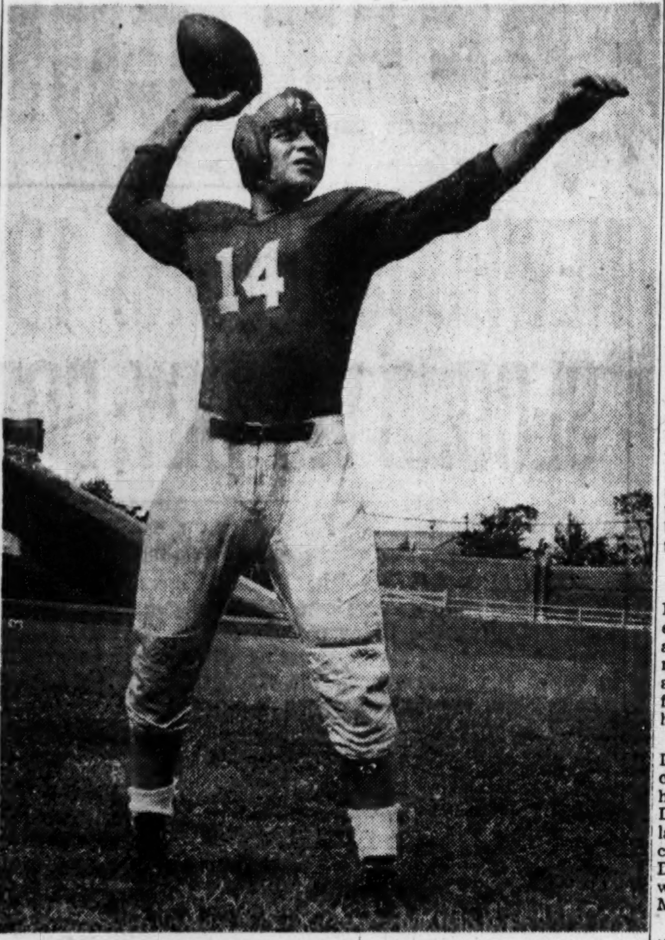
Texans always seem to have the answer—or AN answer, anyway—and not only when they're expounding on the wonders of the Lone Star State.

Late yesterday as St. Louis University's football players drilled on the practice field just east of Walsh Stadium, Line Coach Carol Mundt exhorted squad members to hit hard when they blocked a dummy braced by a player.

"Dig, dig, keep going," urged Mundt as Francis Hopkins, sophomore halfback from Amarillo plunged a shoulder into the dummy, braced his cleats and moved both the sawdust-stuffed canvas and the player holding it about six feet.

"Yeah, 'dig, dig,' I know," drawled the Texan, adding with a grin: "But look, Coach, after I moved him that far, he ain't going to make the tackle nohow!"

Handicapped



DANNY DEMMAS, Billiken quarterback, who will enter the game against Miami University Friday, handicapped by a sore hip. Don Lukatich, who shares quarterback duties with Demmas, is also ailing but both departed today for Miami with the Billiken squad and will see service against the Florida eleven.

Chandler to Quit Senate Nov. 1; Denies Rift With Club Owners

CHICAGO, Oct. 10 (AP)—Senator A. B. (Happy) Chandler told a joint meeting of the two major leagues here yesterday that he would resign "soon" from the Senate to devote his entire time to his $50,000-a-year job as baseball commissioner, and it was learned reliably that the date set was Nov. 1.

Chandler himself refused to confirm Nov. 1 as the exact date, saying he would send his resignation by mail to Gov. Simeon S. Willis, and that it would be announced from Frankfort, Ky., the capital.

Asked about the reported misunderstanding between him and the club owners over his (Chandler's) desire to get a pay hike for umpires working in the world series, the Senator said after the meeting: "I don't know of any misunderstanding. It was a fine meeting and I am getting 100 per cent co-operation from all the clubs."

Sticks to Cincinnati.

Chandler said he would establish his baseball headquarters at Cincinnati as soon as accommodations he had selected there were available.

Jack Zeller, who represented the Detroit club at the meeting, announced that he was resigning as general manager of the Tigers as soon as the series was over. He said he simply was tired, and that he intended to go to Fort Worth, Tex., and rusticate.

The league draft meeting will be held in Chicago Nov. 1.

Chandler said he had completed the work he wanted to do as a Senator and that he now felt he could resign his Senate position to take over the duties of baseball commissioner.

"I have voted on the San Francisco charter and other important legislation the way I feel my Kentucky constituents would have wanted me to vote," he said.

"Now, with the war over, I feel that I can step down from the Senate to become baseball commissioner, a position in which I feel I can help the cause of the national game."

Chandler said the club owners, after electing him last April to the job of commissioner, had left up to him the date he would assume responsibility of the commissioner's office. He added:

"I waited until after this important legislation was on the books before informing Gov. Willis of my resignation as Senator. Now, I have given him a date. I don't want to announce it here, but I am telling it to the Governor first in a letter."

Chandler said he had not taken any of his salary as commissioner while he was still in the Senate, and because of that had lost about $25,000 in salary.

"There is no law that would have prevented me from holding both the senatorship and the commissionership at the same time," Chandler asserted. "But I didn't feel I could accept my commissioner's salary while attempting to do the work of a Senator from Kentucky."

Blewett Wins Public High Tennis Title

Blewett today possessed the Public High School League tennis championship, even though one round of the annual tournament remains.

Blewett clinched the title yesterday by sweeping five matches from Southwest.

In other matches Soldan gained a sweep over Cleveland; Beaumont defeated Roosevelt, four matches to one, and Central and McKinley split four matches, with a fifth—halted by darkness—to be played at a later date.

Billikens Leave With Demmas, Luketich Ailing

By Bob Broeg

Thirty young men, happy at the holiday from Homer and Hippocrates and the other academic and scientific masters, were led south on a morning train today by an older man whose frown was as deep as their smiles were broad.

For St. Louis University's Billikens, the long train trip they began at 8:15 o'clock meant a vacation from classroom, and a view of scenic Florida and warm sunshine to replace the chill that nipped at their heels in their last workout. For Coach Dukes Duford, the man with the frown, the ride meant 30 hours more in which to moan about Friday night's big battle with Miami—and the condition of his quarterbacks.

Demmas Has Bad Hip.

Both Danny Demmas and Don Luketich, No. 1 and 2 signal-callers and ball-handlers off the T, are below par physically. Demmas has a scraped hip, painful and tender, while Luketich suffers from torn tissue in the arch of his right foot.

Trainer Bob Bauman considers Demmas the worse casualty because of the tenderness of the hip, a severe handicap in blocking. Duford, who phoned frantically late yesterday before he could locate a special protective pad for Demmas, said neither quarterback would be at his best against Miami.

"Sure, I know what you're thinking," said Duford, who must practice mindreading on the side. "You're thinking I'm establishing a convenient alibi in advance—ready if we lose. My only answer is that you probably noticed how the Chicago Bears screamed when they lost Sid Luckman temporarily. That's how important the ball-handler under center is on the T. Lose your quarterback and you're like a machine without a sparkplug."

Two Replacements Drilled.

In yesterday's long practice, which ended under the lights of Walsh Stadium amid general teeth-chattering, Duford hurriedly put Right Halfbacks Neill Scully and Dick Weilmuenster off to the side, practicing palming off the ball from the quarterback's position, though both Demmas and Luketich participated in dummy scrimmage.

Part of that drill, last before the game except for a light workout upon arrival tomorrow afternoon in Miami, was spent on the defense against the Hurricanes' formations. And the Billikens—especially the ends and linebackers—were cautioned particularly against Miami's potent naked reverse, similar to the "Sally Rand" with which Jimmy Conzelman's Washington University teams always were dangerous.

But the Billikens have a thing or two up their sleeves, too. Hush-hush stuff, you know, to hoodwink the Hurricane—they hope.

Billiken-Tiger "B" Game Off.

A game tentatively scheduled for Saturday afternoon at Walsh Stadium between the St. Louis University and Missouri "B" teams has been postponed to an indefinite date, though Dukes Duford said last night he hoped the contest could be played.

Pittsburgh Steelers Buy Three Players

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Oct. 10 (AP)—The Pittsburgh Steelers yesterday announced the purchase of three players to bolster their team for the game with the Washington Redskins here Sunday.

Binks and Myatt Are Given Bonuses by Senators' Owner.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10 (AP)—Every-day hustle during the 1945 season has paid off in tidy bonuses for Outfielder George Binks and Infielder George Myatt of Washington's Senators.

Binks, one of the year's best rookies, received an extra $1000. Club officials did not disclose the amount given Myatt.

The Senators' front office said that the unpredictable Binks played "fine ball in his first year in the big leagues, driving in more runs than any other man on the team, 82." Binks batted .284.

When Binks received his bonus, he was told that "We're not holding it against you for failing to field that fly ball in Philadelphia, but we expect you to be more consistent next season."

That reference was to a ball which Binks lost in the sun, leading to Philadelphia's winning run in an extra-inning game on Washington's last day of the season. That defeat virtually eliminated the Senators in the hot pennant race with Detroit.

Myatt's reward came for being the "hardest worker on the team . . . the kind of player that clubowners, managers and fans all admire."

The tireless secondsacker batted .294 and stole 31 bases, only one less than George Stirnweiss, New York Yankees, who led the league.

He paid $9.90 and earned $7575 for Mrs. William Helis. Apache trailed by six lengths. Fighting Don was third.

STANLEY (BUCKY) HARRIS said in Washington that he would like to become general manager of the Detroit Tigers, but that no one has discussed such a possibility with him. According to a recent report from Detroit, General Manager Jack Zeller of the Tigers wants to resign for his health—and Harris was said to be in line for the job. . . . Plans for organization of 48 statewide umpires' associations to conduct a nationwide series of baseball instruction schools in 1946 for an estimated 500,000 youngsters were disclosed in Minneapolis by RAY DUMONT, president of the National Baseball Congress. Wolff Entry Wins Last Pigeon Race

A bird owned by Al Wolff finished first in the Mount Pleasant Racing Pigeon Club's last regular young bird event of the season, a 300-mile race from Vinita, Okla., to St. Louis last Sunday.

Sixty birds from 16 lofts competed. Wolff's entry averaged 1208.60 yards per minute in gaining the victory.

Chase Reports To Tiger Squad

COLUMBIA, Mo., Oct. 10 (AP) — Coach Chauncey Simpson had both good news and bad on the personnel front yesterday as the University of Missouri football squad moved ahead with preparations for Saturday's game with Iowa State at Ames.

Bob Eigelberger, guard, injured in the Southern Methodist University game last week, still was in the hospital, and Ray Cliffe, moved from end, took his place.

Others among the injured, including Bob Hopkins and Bill Dellastatious, left halfbacks, and Joervin Henderson, center, looked more hopeful. There has been no word since last Thursday from Ed Quirk, fullback, called home by his father's illness.

Bob Chase of Hannibal, a Navy veteran who won a track letter here in 1943, reported to the squad.

AMES, Ia., Oct. 10 (AP)—Extra weight was added to the light Iowa State College football squad yesterday when 200-pound Arlen Rollinger, discharged veteran, reported for practice. Rollinger, who played for the Cyclones for a short time in 1942, is a right end, but specializes in place kicking and may take over the kickoff duties.

Bainbridge Ace Out With Leg Fracture

BAINBRIDGE, Md., Oct. 10 (AP)—Jimmy Dyer, the Bainbridge naval training center's promising halfback from the University of Florida, suffered a leg fracture in the opening game against Atlantic City Navy airmen and will be out of the lineup for at least a month.

Bainbridge athletic officials said Dyer had his right tibia broken during the first period but continued to play. The injury was not discovered until after the game.

Jackson Upset On Fight Card

Willie Jackson had a right to wonder today just what happened last night in the Amateur Boxing Coaches' Association lengthy program at Kiel Auditorium, a card that qualified St. Louis representatives for the Kiwanis Midwest tournament.

A Jackson-Wesbury Bascom fight was heralded as the feature event of the program. But it never materialized — and yet Jackson, Golden Gloves' and Ozark middleweight champion, went home defeated.

Bascom withdrew from the program, and Vashon's Jackson met Gamble Center's Louis Gray, who had taken a decision from William Montgomery, unattached, in an earlier event. And Gray took a unanimous decision from his more highly regarded 160-pound opponent, to the delight of 1500 spectators eager to see the underdog win.

Aside from upset victor Gray, two other boxers earned the right to represent St. Louis in the Kiwanis tournament. Willie Browning, Ozark and Golden Gloves' heavyweight champion, gained a two-round technical knockout over Vernon Phelan, unattached, and Ray Unsell of the North Side Kiwanis Club won a three-round decision from Praether Brown of Typo A.C. in the 118-pound open final.

In four other divisions boxers gained the Midwest tournament without competition, but in the 147-pound class two remained after the 17-bout program was concluded — South Broadway A.C.'s Ray Mastilovich and Richard Frazier, unattached.

Mastilovich and Frazier will meet before Oct. 26, date of the Midwest meet, to decide the representative.

Unopposed and automatically qualified were Walter Frazier, Dick's brother, 112-pound class; Fred Latson, 126 pounds; and John Gulley, 160 pounds.

The results:

Arthur Tyler, Tandy Center, stopped Excell Blanchard, Blackwell Chapel, TKO third round, 80 pounds, sub-novice.

Joe Hicks Jr., Carr Square, defeated Rudy Fabic, St. Paul Social Center, 135-pound novice.

Pennington Brown, Typo A. C., defeated John Dawson, unattached, 118-pound novice.

Ray Unsell, North Side Kiwanis, defeated Praether Brown, Typo A. C., 118-pound open final.

BYRNES NAMES MARK ETHRIDGE TO EXAMINE BALKAN POLITICS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10 (AP)—Secretary of State Byrnes announced today that he had selected Mark Ethridge, publisher of the Louisville (Ky) Courier-Journal and Times, to investigate political conditions in the Balkans.

This is part of United States procedure under the Potsdam Big Three agreement to determine what should be done about recognizing the governments of such nations as Romania and Bulgaria.

Byrnes noted that the United States has already recognized the government of Finland and has proposed to recognize the government of Hungary under certain conditions of increased democratic representation there.

95 PCT. OF RECORD CENTER EMPLOYES NOT YET RECRUITED

More than 95 per cent of the personnel to be employed at the Army Records Administration Center at the former St. Louis Ordnance Plant are still to be recruited, Lt. Col. F. A. Rickly, executive officer of the administration center, said yesterday.

Speaking before a luncheon meeting of the Advertising Club at Hotel Statler, Col. Rickly said that 400 to 500 persons now engaged by the Army in its records department had elected to come to St. Louis from other places. A total of about 10,000 persons are to be employed.

Those coming to St. Louis include 265 men with families, Lt. Col. Rickly said, asking that members of the Advertising Club assist in finding living quarters for the new residents.

Ambassador Shows 'State Fair' Today

"STATE FAIR," starring Dana Andrews, Jeanne Crain, Dick Haymes, Vivian Blaine, Charles Winniger, Fay Bainter, Donald Meek, and Frank McHugh, opens today at the Ambassador Theater. The picture, dealing with "fun at a fair," is in Technicolor, and has music by Richard Rodgers and Oscar Hammerstein II. A Walt Disney Cartoon Revue completes the program.

Two comedies open tomorrow at the Orpheum. They are "Bedside Manner," with John Carroll, Ruth Hussey, Charles Ruggles, and Ann Rutherford, and "Delightfully Dangerous," with Jane Powell, Ralph Bellamy, and Constance Moore. The latter picture also has Morton Gould, the composer and conductor, playing a part and introducing musical numbers.

Warship to Bring Yanks Home.

Dr. Compton Says Atomic Energy Will Be Used Most in Peaceful Way, Producing Useful Heat and Power

Atom-Driven Autos or Planes of Usual Size Are Impossible Since Units of Less Than 50 Tons Are Unlikely—Real Danger Is Injury from Radiation.

THE second part of Chancellor Arthur H. Compton's address on "Atomic Power in Peace and War," is printed herewith. It was delivered yesterday before the Chicago Association of Commerce, at the Stevens Hotel in that city, and Monday night at a dinner of the Washington University Association at McMillan Hall. The first part of the address, dealing with the military significance of atomic energy, was published yesterday. The second part relates to the industrial meaning of atomic energy.

By ARTHUR H. COMPTON
Chancellor of Washington University and Nobel Prize Winner.

IN the long run it can hardly be questioned that the peaceful applications of atomic energy will be those that will most profoundly affect our lives.

What these important applications will be is, however, as difficult to predict as it would have been a century ago, just after Faraday had laid the scientific basis for electrical engineering, to tell the future meaning of electricity. At this moment the obviously great field open to atomic energy is that of production of useful heat and power. We also see important though limited medical and industrial applications of radioactive materials, artificially produced by atomic chain reactions. Perhaps more significant than either are the new vistas that will be opened up by scientific experiments that make use of the by-products of atomic fission.

Tremendous Advances With X-Rays Cited.

Such has indeed been the case with such discoveries as X-rays. Fifty years ago it was obvious that X-rays were useful for "seeing" through objects opaque to ordinary light as the human body. It could not be predicted that X-rays would become a powerful weapon in the fight against cancer, or that researches made possible by X-rays would reveal the electron and with it give us the radio and a host of electronic devices. Such unforseen developments are the result of every great discovery of science. Now, however, you want to know what we can clearly see before us.

At present, controlled atomic power in the form of heat is in continuous production in large quantities at several plants especially those at Oak Ridge, Tenn., and at Hanford, Wash. The heat from these plants is a by-product and is carried away in the one case by air and in the other by a stream of water. The useful product is neutrons, which are used in the plants as a means of transmuting certain chemical elements to others of specially useful characteristics. Of these transmutation processes the most important one is that of uranium into plutonium. Previous to the fission chain reaction, the most abundant source of neutrons was the cyclotron which operates on electric power. Per kilowatt of energy used, the fission chain reaction gives some 10,000 times as many neutrons as a cyclotron, and it is not difficult to make a fission chain reaction plant that delivers 100 times as much power as is used by a cyclotron. This means that right now we are using large amounts of atomic power many times more efficiently for the particular process of producing neutrons than the best electrical machine that we have been able to devise.

We have not yet built an atomic power plant that is generating electrical power. This is merely because we have been engaged in winning a war, and there has been no serious shortage of electric power. If there were sufficient reason for a demonstration, a reasonably efficient plant using superheated steam for driving a turbine could be put in operation within a year. Before, however, such plants can be made economical, competitors with existing practice, a number of years' development will be required.

Power-Producing Method From Atomic Fission.

While there are several other possibilities, the most obvious method of producing power from atomic fission is to heat a cooling agent such as air or steam or liquid metal in the chain reactor unit, and pass this heated coolant through a heat exchanger which heats the steam for driving a turbine. Beyond the heat exchanger of such a plant everything would be done according to standard practice. Up to the heat exchanger all the design requires new features, among them protection against the extreme radioactivity of everything, including the coolant, that has been exposed to the neutrons.

The chain reacting unit itself can assume many forms. The one essential is that it shall contain uranium, either in its natural state, or if a small unit is desired, enriched with additional U-235 or plutonium. H. D. Smyth, in his official report, has described in some detail how this active material can be combined with a moderator such as carbon or beryllium or heavy water so as to bring about the chain reaction.

The large atomic power plants now used for producing plutonium have in them many tons of natural uranium and graphite. By using uranium containing more than the usual fraction of U-235, chain reacting units have been built that are of much smaller size.

There is, however, a lower limit to the size and weight of an atomic power plant that is imposed by the massive shield needed to prevent the neutrons and other dangerous radiations from getting out. Next to cosmic rays, these radiations are the most penetrating that we know, and for a plant designed to deliver for example no more than 100 horsepower, are enormously more intense than the rays from a large supply of radium or an X-ray tube. To stop them, a shield equivalent in weight to at least two or three feet of solid steel is needed. There are basic laws of physics that make it appear very unlikely that a lighter shield can be devised. This means that there is no reason to hope that atomic power units for normal uses can be built that will weigh less than perhaps 50 tons. Driving motor cars or airplanes of ordinary size by atomic power must thus be counted out.

Fuel Cost Low, Control Of Developing Rate Easy.

Prominent among the advantages of atomic power are the extraordinarily low rate of fuel consumption and consequent low cost of fuel, and the wide flexibility and easy control of the rate at which power is developed, and the complete absence at the power plant of smoke or noxious fumes. With regard to fuel consumption, when completely consumed, the fission energy available from a pound of uranium is equivalent to over a thousand tons of coal. With the prewar price of uranium oxide at roughly $3 per pound and of coal at $3 per ton, this would mean the economical use of uranium as fuel if only one part in a thousand of its available energy is used. Actually, we should expect the first plants built to deliver atomic power to be considerably more efficient than this in their use of the fission energy, which would mean a substantial cost advantage in favor of uranium. One must consider also, however, the need to purify and fabricate the uranium into the desired form. For certain types of power plants under consideration, a considerable amount of separated U-235 is required. Attempting to consider all such factors, it appears that the fuel cost of the atomic power plant of the future will be small as compared with the corresponding fuel cost of a coal-burning plant.

In considering the economic aspects there are, however, many other factors. It is not really possible for these to be explored until we have actual experience with atomic power plants. First is the capital cost. Clearly if one must charge against this cost what is spent in research and development, this capital cost is very high indeed. If, however, one looks down the line to a billion-dollar-a-year national industry based on atomic power, the nation can afford a considerable investment in the research and development required to bring this industry into being. When this development is done, it appears not unlikely that the cost of building and maintaining a large-scale atomic power plant may compare favorably with that of a coal consuming plant of the same capacity.

Much remains to be learned, however, regarding the metallurgical and other technical problems involved in constructing a successful plant to transform fission energy efficiently into high temperature heat. The materials to be used may be expensive. The designs are, however, essentially simple. An inherent advantage of the atomic power unit is that the heat sources, i. e., the uranium blocks, can readily be maintained at any desired temperature regardless of how rapidly the heat is being removed. This means that a relatively small-size heater unit will be needed, and that corrosion due to excessive heating is controllable.

One notable limitation to the use of atomic power is the need for careful protection against harmful rays. Explosions such as destroyed Hiroshima cannot occur accidentally. Such explosions must be planned for. The dangers of explosions of the "boiler" type with an atomic power plant are about the same as with a steam plant, which is to say they are practically negligible if the plants are designed and handled by competent engineers. There is, however, real possibility of damage to the operating personnel from ionizating rays emitted by the plant itself and by all materials that are taken out of the plant. It is the problem of the radium and X-ray workers on a grand scale. That the problem can be solved is shown by the fact that in all of the operations of the half-dozen or more such plants, some of which have now been working for years, not a single serious exposure has occurred. This, however, is due to thorough instruction and vigilant care by Dr. Robert Stone's health staff. In some of the experimental work we have not been so fortunate. This means that until we become much more

GEN. WAINWRIGHT'S OWN STORY

Japanese Throw Heaviest Bombs On Clark Field as the War Begins

This is the fourth of General Jonathan M. Wainwright's articles on the fall of the Philippines and his own captivity. In today's installment the hero of Bataan and Corregidor tells of the all-but-uncontested Jap bombing raid on Clark Field, near his post at Fort Stotsenburg, and he sees the first of the copious blood his unprepared and doomed North Luzon force was destined to shed.

By GENERAL JONATHAN M. WAINWRIGHT

During his years of captivity, Gen. Wainwright longed for a good cigar. Here he smokes one as he works on his story.

THERE were many things to do on the morning that hell broke loose. If I had ached before that, for better trained men and the proper tools, now the want was beyond ache.

I had planned to see MacArthur within the next day or two to be sure that he realized just how unprepared we were in North Luzon, how low we were in everything that goes to make up a man's army.

But now that the word of Pearl Harbor had come from Manila, I knew I would soon be moving north, not south to see MacArthur. So I told Johnny Pugh that I would make a list of the things I needed from MacArthur, and send him to Manila to try to get them.

I sat in my room writing that list, during the pre-dawn of the first day of war. The phone rang twice while I scribbled. Each call brought progressively worse information. The 4:50 a.m. call from Pete Irwin told me that the battleship line at Pearl Habor, and our big Hickam Field air base, had been heavily bombed. A little after 5 o'clock Pete called again to say that Admiral Hart had received another message from Admiral Kimmel advising Hart not only that a state of war with Japan existed but instructing him to "govern yourself accordingly."

The latter phrase, I think, referred to a plan the Navy must have had to withdraw its larger surface craft from Manila Bay at the start of the war.

For on that first day of war all major surface ships started south.

As soon as I learned that Hickam had been bombed, I called Clark Field, but they had been informed. Johnny Pugh came over to my quarters about dawn. I gave him the list of desperately needed ammunition and equipment and told him to rush it to Manila.

"And while you're down there find Tom Dooley and send him back at once," I ordered. Tom was in Manila saying goodbye to a pretty English girl who was sailing for Australia.

Shortly before 9 a.m. MacArthur's headquarters informed me that Baguio, the Philippine Summer capital, 95 miles above Stotsenburg, had been attacked by Jap bombers—my first real knowledge that the Jap is no respecter of non-military targets. MacArthur's headquarters warned me to take every precaution against a possible Jap paratroop landing at Clark Field.

I immediately deployed Col. Clinton Pierce's Twenty-sixth Cavalry to the east of the field. I had no infantry available so I put my little battery of pack artillery at the west end of the big parade ground at Stotsenburg, and instructed the gunners to set their fuses to zero and load with shrapnel, so that they would be able to rake the parade ground if necessary.

After using the public phone system to issue the necessary orders to my field commanders, I left my headquarters and went over to my house to direct the boxing and storing of some personal effects and to start packing my field equipment. By 12:30 I was ready. I walked out on my porch, headed for my headquarters.

Suddenly the thunder of a flight of approaching planes hit my ears. I ran down on the lawn just as they roared over the back-drop of the Zambales mountains. There were about 80 of them, bombers mainly, but also dive bombers and fighters. They swept over Stotsenburg, shaking the ground, and let their bombs go on Clark Field—most of whose bombers were on the ground.

The Japs came to Clark Field with their biggest bombs. The very air of Stotsenburg rattled with concussion. In the midst of the almost uncontested raid my Filipino boy, Felemon San Pedro, ran startled from the house, his eyes like big black marbles. In his frenzy he had put on my steel helmet.

"Mother of God, General, what shall I do?" he shouted.

"Go get me a bottle of beer," I yelled. It seemed to help him. I know the beer helped me.

I drained it, handed him the bottle and walked over to my headquarters. The No. 1 gun of the battery protecting the parade grounds stood quite close to my headquarters. I went over and stood near it, watching the black bursts of our modest anti-aircraft fire trying to follow the Jap bombers.

And I was standing there when I heard the moist impact of metal against flesh and bone. I turned and saw one of No. 1's gunners falling near me. His face was a bloody blob. A bomb splinter had streaked all the way over from Clark Field, whose edge was 1200 yards from us, and hit him in the lower forehead, just below his helmet.

Capt. Fitch, the battery commander, and I leaned over the boy. His face was a sight.

"Get this man to the doctor," I ordered.

Fitch and someone else put their hands under the lad, but the boy then stirred, opened his eyes and wiped a dirty hand across his face.

"No," the boy said, sharply. "Stay by my gun . . . stay by my gun."

While this was happening, Tom Dooley drove up with a screeching of brakes and jumped out of his car. I saw from the direction in which he came that he must have driven right past Clark Field.

"Tom, you damned fool, you didn't drive past Clark during this bombing, did you?" I shouted at him angrily.

"Sure, sir," he said. "You sent me orders to report to you as fast as I could, and I was worse afraid of you than I was of those bombs."

I stalked inside my headquarters, with Tom at my heels, and quickly wrote out the order which gave him, and the young gunner, Silver Stars. I guess they were the first decorations of the Pacific war.

We were in a war for which we were no more prepared than a child is prepared to fight a cruel and seasoned professional pugilist.

LOOTING, SNIPING REPORTED IN DISTURBANCES IN JAVA

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 10 (AP)—ANETA, Dutch news agency, reported widespread disturbances in Java yesterday, with moderate Indonesian officials being seized by extremists, Dutch residences being looted and snipers firing at Dutch officers.

The agency said the troubles had forced a halt in activities for the relief of Allied personnel formerly prisoners of the Japanese everywhere except in Batavia.

Reds Charge Move to Save German Might

LONDON, Oct. 10 (AP)

THE Moscow radio accused "influential" but unnamed American and British groups today of working to preserve the "military and economic might of Germany."

The broadcast asserted some representatives of Allied Administrations in Germany were encouraging the restoration of the German war potential and were backed by big groups of politicians and industrialists in the United States and Great Britain.

"They cloak their proceedings under benevolent intentions, such as if Germany is reduced to the rank of a second-rate power industrially, then Europe as a whole will lose much of its cultural development," the broadcast said. "This is an utterly false basis.

"All the power of public opinion in Europe and America must be concentrated on seeing that the decisions of the Berlin tripartite conference on complete and genuine disarmament of Germany are put into effect."

WHETHER TO LET NAZIS VOTE HOTTEST ISSUE IN GERMANY

FRANKFURT, Germany, Oct. 10 (AP)—A spokesman for United States forces in Europe disclosed yesterday that German officials had been asked to express their opinion whether Nazi party members should vote in coming local elections.

While American officials will not be committed either way, he said, they are eager to see what the German recommendations will be.

Whether the Nazis may vote is the hottest political question now before this country. It presents a dilemma: If he Allies do not let the Nazis vote, they lay themselves open to a charge of following the Nazis' lead in depriving a large segment of the population of representation; if they do, they run the risk of having some Nazis voted into office.

RUSSIA'S FABULOUS JEWELS SAFE; SOME BACK IN MOSCOW

MOSCOW, Oct. 10 (AP) — The Soviet Union's fabulous treasure of diamonds, rubies, sapphires and other precious stones, unheard of since the war started, is safe, with the most important jewels now back in Moscow.

The Moscow publication Bolshevik made the first public mention of the closely guarded collection, which includes a 136-carat emerald, the famed blue Ceylon sapphire, the world's largest and clearest green chrysolite, the famed Kanhi ruby and the Orlov and Shah diamonds.

Giant Transports With Jet Engines In 10 Years, Flight Faster Than Sound, Plane Builder Forecasts

Few Layoffs in Lockheed's Switch to Peacetime Operation—Two-Thirds of Those Affected in Cutback From 90,000 to 32,000 Workers Quit Voluntarily.

By DONALD GRANT
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

BURBANK, Cal., Oct. 10.

TECHNICAL developments now on the way toward reality in the aircraft industry were described today by engineers and executives in the industry.

These include:

1. Passenger fares cut in half by use of a transport plane now in production.
2. Obsolescence of the present types of airplane engines and substitution of jet and gas turbine engines within 10 years.
3. Speeds in excess of the speed of sound.
4. Development of pilotless aircraft of unlimited range and atomic striking power.
5. Obsolescence of military bombing operations and large bombers such as were used in the war just concluded.

Correspondents who are making a study of reconversion problems throughout the nation, under arrangements made by the National Association of Manufacturers, visited the Lockheed Aircraft Corp. plant and the Menasco Manufacturing Co. plant at Burbank yesterday. They were not given all of the details of development still on the drawing boards or in the laboratory-testing stage, but enough was shown them to indicate some revolutionary developments ahead.

In terms of employment in the Los Angeles area, Robert E. Gross, president of Lockheed, predicted that the wartime development of the aviation industry would be followed by a peacetime growth, not only in the field of primary producers, but also in the production of basic materials, including aluminum, and of component parts. He declared that this "integration in California of the aircraft industry has only begun and will grow into a big business."

Lockheed has 32,000 workers which it expects to keep. Unlike some other war producers of planes in California, Lockheed has not laid off great numbers of employes in cutting back from a wartime peak labor force of 90,000, Gross said. Enough workers have quit voluntarily since the peak to account for two-thirds of the reduction in force.

Talk of Big Merger.

The 32,000 employes still at Lockheed represent a phenomenal growth from the prewar employment figure of 3500. It is reported here that conversations are still going on concerning a possible merger of Lockheed and Curtiss-Wright. Gross did not discuss the possible implications of this move.

Menasco, a much smaller concern, produces a diversified line of products including airplane parts. It began the war with 352 employes, reached a peak of 2200 and expects to have a permanent peacetime force, after reconversion is completed, of about 1500.

In terms of scientific and engineering developments, these two concerns both are pioneering in new types of engines and in pilotless planes. In the war Menasco built engines for small pilotless planes, with a wingspread of 12 feet, which were flown by remote radio control and used for anti-aircraft gun practice.

Ferris Smith, chief engineer of the Radioplane Corporation, which built the planes themselves, said that on the basis of his wartime experience with the planes he was convinced that "the next war will be a push-button war." "These pilotless planes can be built to fly by radio control for unlimited ranges," he asserted.

Gross of Lockheed, indicated his engineers already were experimenting with the application of jet propulsion to pilotless planes which would carry an atomic bomb to the target "as far as is necessary" to get there. Gross, and his chief engineer, Hall Hibbard, spoke also of destruction of the conventional fleet of bombers by use of the pilotless plane which would fly into the middle of the bomber fleet and there explode.

"The Germans, when the end of the war came, were ready to shell New York, and to destroy any fleets of bombers we might send over against them. Their scientists knew what to do, it was only a question of doing it in time," Gross said.

He asserted the strongest defense policy for America was one of "vigorous research" in military aircraft developments, rather than building large air fleets based on present designs. He said the Government should do the basic, pure research, allowing industry to do the applied research under contracts based on costs rather than on competitive bids.

THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles; that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare; never be satisfied with merely printing news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Intellectuals for World Union

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

The first atomic bomb destroyed more than the city of Hiroshima. It also exploded our inherited, outdated political ideas.

A few days before the force of Nature was tried out for the first time in history, the San Francisco Charter was ratified in Washington. The dream of a League of Nations, after 26 years, was accepted by the Senate.

How long will the United Nations Charter endure? With luck, a generation? A century? There is no one who does not hope at least that much luck—for the Charter, for himself, for his work and for his children's children.

But is it enough to have peace by luck? Peace by law is what the peoples of the world, beginning with ourselves, can have if they want it. And now is the time to get it.

Everyone knows that the Charter is only a beginning. It does not guarantee peace. Yet the hopeful and passionate words of Dumbarton Oaks and San Francisco created one very real danger: that millions of Americans will relax and believe that by ratification a machinery has been set up to prevent another war.

We think it our duty to warn the American people that this is not so. The Charter is a tragic illusion unless we are ready to take the further steps necessary to organize peace.

Coming east from San Francisco, President Truman said in Kansas City: "It will be just as easy for nations to get along in a republic of the world as it is for you to get along in the Republic of the United States. Now when Kansas and Colorado have a quarrel over the water in the Arkansas River, they don't call out the National Guard in each state and go to war over it. They bring a suit in the Supreme Court of the United States and abide by the decision. There isn't a reason in the world why we cannot do that internationally."

These were historic words, pointing our road to a future far beyond San Francisco.

For thousands of years, men have learned that wherever there is government by law there can be peace, and where there is no law and no government, human conflicts have been sure. The San Francisco Charter, by maintaining the absolute sovereignties of the rival nation-states, thus preventing the creation of superior law in world relations, resembles the Articles of Confederation of the 13 original American republics. We know that this confederation did not work.

No league system ever attempted in human history could prevent conflict between its members. We must aim at a federal constitution of the world, a working world-wide legal order, if we hope to prevent an atomic world war.

For Drafting at 18

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Donald Dates proposes in a letter to you that the 18-year-olds should not be drafted, so they can go to college. When referring "to disrupting the plans of many young Americans," he has forgotten that millions of young Americans have had their plans disrupted to win this war.

To stop drafting boys now means that other boys in service will have to stay for a much longer period.

Keep drafting 18-year-olds, but keep them only one year. They won't mind a year of military service if they can resume their studies at the end of that time. They will have had valuable training, and yet without the great sacrifice that the lads before them had to make.

Herrin, Ill. FLOYD P. BRACY.

The Inertia of Congress

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Possibly we need a national initiative and referendum to overcome that ingrained inertia and the formidable obstacles which our elected servants in the Senate and House of Representatives put in the way of modernization. Modernization might take away some of the prerogatives they have earned in some cases by getting themselves elected time after time until their accumulated points put them in position to control the strings.

I would be in favor of making quite a few changes in our Congress. Why not have one house of technicians to check up on the incompetent laws the other house passes, a question hour similar to the English Parliament and a Premier whom we could kick out when he is not representative of the people any longer?

WILLIAM HENRY GRUEN.

Truman's Atomic Blunder

The United States' policy for the atomic bomb was announced by Mr. Truman Monday night from a vacation cottage on Reelfoot Lake in a manner that can only be described as startlingly offhand. To make it completely disconcerting, the announced policy is, out of the several possibilities, one of those that would never really have any chance of working. Mr. Truman says the United States Government will not share its secret knowledge, consisting of engineering and industrial techniques, with any other nation.

Yet the secrets cannot long be kept, probably at the longest five or 10 years. We have been told so by the Oak Ridge scientists who developed the techniques for producing Uranium 235, by Dr. Arthur H. Compton, Chancellor of Washington University, who was responsible for perfecting the chain reaction which produced the magnitude of the explosion; by Dr. Harlow Shapley, director of the Harvard College Observatory; Dr. Irving Langmuir, associate director of the General Electric Research Laboratories, and now by Gen. George C. Marshall, Chief of Staff of the United States Army.

We have been told, too, of the fallacy of trying to keep the secrets. Said the Oak Ridge scientists: "Those who advocate that the secret of the atomic bomb be kept mislead our own people rather than other countries. . . . A very dangerous consequence of a policy of secrecy is that while spurring other nations to develop atomic bombs, by withholding detailed information from the majority of our own scientists we will artificially channel and sterilize the further development of nuclear physics and chemistry in our own country."

Senator Hill of Alabama said: "How in the name of common sense could we make any peacetime use of it and keep it a secret anyway? And does anyone believe that the American people would stand for the locking up of a positive source of wealth and comfort beyond the dreams of man? Obviously, then, when people say 'Let the United States keep it,' they are unrealistic and talking utter nonsense to boot."

Walter Lippmann wrote: "If we try to keep the secret, we shall not only instigate others to act in secret, but we shall also make it much easier for them to act in secret. For instead of alerting the scientific world so that it can alert governments and people, we should be closing the eyes and ears of the very men who can most quickly detect any hidden mischief that is being concocted in the dark. To those who contend that we must guard this secret we must, I believe, reply that, on the contrary, the safest course is to guard against its being a secret anywhere."

The United States does not have a choice between keeping it secret and allowing it to become known. We only have a choice whether the secret becomes known under circumstances which permit us to influence the manner of its use, or whether it is discovered by other nations under circumstances which leave them completely free agents to use it as aggressively and irresponsibly as the worst of them may choose. Our time of choice is fleeting.

If we persist in the course which President Truman has announced as the national policy, we shall simply be casting aside our opportunity to lead the way to a responsible world policy for control of nuclear power. We shall be opening the door to the outlaws. Five years from now, or 10, and a policy of isolationism—for that is what Mr. Truman has in fact enunciated—will have led us to a position of impotence toward control of the atomic bomb.

What we must have is a national policy that will make the secrets of the atomic bomb available under regulations that will permit—and compel—regular scientific inspection on an international basis of every mine source of radioactive ore, every laboratory in which research into nuclear fission might be carried on and every plant in which any component of an atomic bomb might be produced. We need a policy that will make it too much against self-interest for any nation to hold out and develop an atomic bomb outside the controls.

These specifications the President's announced policy does not begin to fill. We earnestly hope that he will realize its lack of realism and will give the world the leadership it is desperately waiting for. Only so can we make the atomic bomb a controlled agent of peace instead of allowing it to become, as it could in criminal hands, a Black Death more awful than all the pestilences of the ages.

Ho Hum

James Kirby of London, by his own testimony a man who eats hearty and sleeps hearty, and who, after a good dinner of lamb, refused to rouse from the sleep of the just and the well-fed to meet a Dowager Queen Mary and a Duke of Windsor come calling at his home, couldn't very well be described without some extensions onto the superlatives of the language.

Here, it can be said, is a man whose nonchalance rises at least 200 feet above the height of indifference, a man who is by a conservative estimate 25 per cent more independent than a hog on ice, a man who couldn't be bothered to consider whether he cares whether school keeps or not.

A Threat to Missouri Schools

Education in Missouri is sure to suffer if the Legislature persists in its opposition to a school tax bill designed to implement the progressive provisions of the new State Constitution. Not only will education suffer, but the people will be refused the right of voting to tax themselves adequately for the support of good schools.

The constitutional provision was designed to remove a ceiling on school taxes which many districts for years past had found too low for the need of modern education. Some districts, such as University City and other St. Louis County areas, resorted to a subterfuge to raise the necessary funds, and their procedure was knocked out by the courts. The only remedy to keep the schools from being hopelessly hampered was to raise or eliminate the ceilings.

The Constitution framers provided a sensible formula. They raised the old ceilings, and provided that higher taxes could be levied in any amount approved by a two-thirds majority in a school district.

Certainly the people in each district should be the best judges of what their schools need, and what taxes they are willing to pay. The two-thirds requirement is a good safeguard against excessive levies.

Obstructive measures in both houses ought to be withdrawn, to obey the mandate of the voters in approving the new Constitution, to let each district decide its own tax policy and to leave no barrier in the way of good education for the younger generation of Missourians.

Westward Ho for Steel

From the first rails of the Union Pacific down to the girders in the buildings of modern Los Angeles, the Far West has had to import nearly all its steel from the East and Middle West. In phrases like "Pittsburgh plus" or "Birmingham plus," the real meaning has been "minus" for the West—less steel at prices increased by the cost of the long cross-country haul.

The strategic needs of war, however, could not wait on delays of transportation. Great new industries, such as shipbuilding, sprang up in the West. They needed steel. The Government spent nearly a third of a billion dollars to see that they had it, and had it on the spot.

Two great steel plants were built, one near Los Angeles by Henry J. Kaiser with money borrowed from the RFC; the other near Salt Lake City by the Defense Plant Corporation, to be operated by a United States Steel subsidiary. For the first time in its history, the West was making in quantity for itself the steel which is the essential supporting structure of an industrial economy.

One thing is now certain. Having tasted independence, the West will not go back to its old status of "crown colony" to the East as a steel importer. Reconversion arrangements for the operation of the new plants in private hands are reported well advanced. The West has surplus labor from its war-accelerated industries. It has the market. A great industrial development may come out of cheaper steel, local steel.

As healthy for the national economy as this new decentralization of the industry is the indication that Kaiser, a new entrant into the field, will continue operation of his plant. Perhaps less encouraging to competition and the prospect for cheaper Western steel is the report that United States Steel will be permitted to bid for the plant it has been operating.

This seems to be a reversal by the Anti-Trust Division of the Department of Justice, which before the replacement of Francis Biddle by Tom Clark as Attorney General had been reported opposed to "Big Steel" as a bidder for the property.

It would be interesting to know what reason, if any, has removed the objection to pouring the bright new metal of the West into so old a mold as the United States Steel Corporation.

Where Shidehara Stands

How far apart were the so-called Japanese "moderates" and the military extremists? Not very far apart, according to the candid words of Premier Shidehara, whose chief asset is a reputation as a moderate.

Reporters asked the new Premier to give his views on Japan's aggression against China. An Associated Press dispatch reports: "Shidehara said he himself believed the ends sought by Japan through war could have been achieved through diplomacy." Since the ends sought were conquest and domination, Shidehara is saying in effect that he favored these, and disapproved only the use of force in achieving them. So, like other "moderates," he was moderate only in preferring conquest of a neighbor by intrigue and pressure to conquest by military invasion.

Since Shidehara seemingly still thinks Japan is entitled to dominate China, and since he is closely allied to the big industrialists who were a powerful influence in Jap aggression, it's clear that he can't be trusted as an aid in the Allies' big job of leading the defeated country into ways of permanent peace.

End of School Board Secrecy

The St. Louis Board of Education has at last heard and heeded the voice of public opinion, and last night adopted without dissent a rule abolishing secret committee sessions. This is a real victory for the public-spirited citizens who had long and vigorously assailed the transacting of public school business behind closed doors.

There may be special occasions, of course, when executive sessions are in order, and the new rule provides for them if voted by committee members, not on motion of the chairman, as in the past. Public concern in school affairs, which brought about reversal of the secrecy rule, should continue alert to prevent abuse of the new measure.

Is This 1893 or 1945?

Not since 1893 has the machinery of Congress been overhauled.

National expenditures then were 3/10 of 1 per cent of what they are today.

Burdens upon individual Congressmen are staggering.

Relations between Congress and the executive branch are bad.

Relations between Congress and the people are bad.

These are only some of the many ways in which an 1893 setup creaks and groans under the demands of 1945.

Reckless Action on Tideland Oil

The Mirror of Public Opinion

House vote to yield submerged lands to states is called an action "to legalize a plunder of the national domain"; rich petroleum source, vital to nation's defense, is now being exploited by private firms; bill was rushed through without hearing Government spokesmen.

From the Washington Post

The House of Representatives has acted to legalize a plunder of the national domain unequaled since Teapot Dome.

With but a fraction of its members present, far less than a quorum—and with a wholly understandable absence of ostentation—the House passed H. Res. 344, declaring that "the United States of America hereby renounces and disclaims any right, title, interest or claim in and to all lands beneath tidewaters and navigable waters within the boundaries of each of the respective states."

It happens that beneath the tidewaters referred to in this interesting resolution lies the richest potential source of petroleum yet undeveloped within the jurisdiction of the United States Government.

Gift of National Wealth

No one knows just how much oil these tidelands contain. Yet the House is in a great hurry to give it all away—to give it in perpetuity to the states so that they may continue to lease it to private companies for exploitation.

The House passed H. Res. 344 despite—or perhaps we should say because of—the fact that a suit is now pending in a Federal court to test the states' claim to the tidelands. This suit was filed at the behest of Interior Secretary Ickes by Francis Biddle as one of the last acts of his Attorney Generalship.

Immediately a lobby of 46 state Attorneys General sought congressional action to make the suit moot by confirming the state titles. So swiftly and slickly did they move that the House Judiciary Committee approved the bill and the House passed it by a vote of 108 to 11—without even hearing a representative from the Department of the Interior or the Department of Justice or from the Army or the Navy. Then, having scarcely had time to read the resolution, the Senate Judiciary Committee blessed it and rushed it along for Senate action.

Three Queries for Congress

There are three questions which the public is entitled to have answered by the 108 members of Congress who supported this legislation:

1. Why were they unwilling to have title to the submerged lands tested in the courts?

2. Why did they not insist upon a thorough study of the value of this part of the public domain before giving it away for private exploitation?

3. Why did they reject an amendment proposed by Representative Hobbs of Alabama to assert the right of the United States to the mineral resources of the tidelands?

A great deal of piety was expressed in the course of the House debate over the municipal rights of the states—that is, their right to control harbor and shore-line developments. Apparently, however, this was mere camouflage.

For Judge Hobbs, who does not doubt the validity of the state titles for municipal purposes, offered an amendment which would have left these altogether intact and would simply have asserted and recognized as among the paramount powers of the Federal Government "the right to conserve and appropriate for any constitutional purpose any mineral deposit, including petroleum, in any submerged land within the territorial waters of the United States of America."

But opponents said this "would absolutely scuttle this bill." And indeed, it would have scuttled their real purposes. The Hobbs amendment was voted down, 105 to 17.

Judge Hobbs, it seems to us, went to the very heart of the problem as he has done so many times before on constitutional issues.

"Although the title in the submerged lands that we are talking about in this bill belongs to the states," he said, "it is subordinate to the paramount right, not title, of the United States for the four constitutional powers—including the power to build and maintain armies and navies—to utilize so much of the contents of those lands as may be necessary in the execution of those constitutional powers."

This paramount right of the United States lies dormant—solely because the Congress of the United States has failed to assert it.

Oil Shortage Is Feared

The assertion of it at the present time is vital to the national interest. The war has seriously depleted our reserves of oil. Geologists warn that the known oil deposits within this country will meet our national needs for no longer than 14 years. And oil is a fundamental factor in national security.

At the present time, the oil beneath our tidewaters is being pumped out by private companies and profligately exploited for private profit. It should be conserved as a national asset by and for the people of the United States, for the purpose of promoting their national defense.

There can be no doubt that the Government of the United States, acting through Congress, has the power to conserve the oil for this vital public purpose.

WINGS CALL FOR HUMBLENESS

Paul Gallico in Esquire.

Two ghastly air tragedies were recorded in July, both of which might well have been avoided had the pilots involved acknowledged the need for a necessary humbleness in the presence of the elements of the air. One was the collision of the Mitchell bomber with the Empire State Building. The other did not collect as much space in the papers, but seemed to me even more needlessly tragic.

A hot-shot fighter pilot back from abroad took out his girl, hired a kite from a neighboring airfield and flew her over the home of her parents, buzzing the ground. He caught his wingtip in a tree, and the two of them died in the flaming crash before the eyes of their relatives.

The country is going to be full of returned aces and hot-shot pilots who have flown their war planes through every kind of weather and danger to survive. It's a hell of a thing to crack up here at home and take people with you for want of a little of the humbleness that keeps aviators alive. Maybe these lines, written by an old ex-flyer and QB, will reach some of these and give them pause, in which case they will have been worthwhile.

A Close-up of Africa's People By an American Negro Woman

Eslanda Robeson (Mrs. Paul Robeson) has revised the diary of her African journey of 1936 and published it in book form. Let not the casual reader be misled. The book is far more than a modern "African trek"—it is first of all a very sincere appraisal and interpretation of the problems of the native African.

Mrs. Robeson went to Africa to do field work toward her degree in anthropology. She went also to prove to herself that her instructors at London University didn't know what they were talking about when they generalized about the "primitive" African mind. Certain that the Negro mind was the same everywhere, and that the English, like the whites of our own South, had assuaged their consciences with salve about the Negro's alleged ignorance and indolence, Mrs. Robeson had her own reason for going to her "home country."

Consequently, Eslanda Robeson's report is weighted to prove her point. And since Mrs. Robeson, by reason of her color, had opportunity to discuss candidly the native problem with the natives themselves, her report should not go unheeded. She would remonstrate with all unbelievers that "Africans are people," although what she saw of colonial administration proved to her that many peoples thought otherwise.

She saw the miserable segregated living quarters or "locations" of the natives, which had to be far outside the cities in order not to offend the Europeans and South Africans; noted their unjust tax burden, their shameful lack of adequate schools and hospitals; was shocked at the native "sharecropper," a veritable slave, who was liable by law for six months' unpaid service to his landlord; was equally shocked by the Johannesburg miners who drew about $14.50 a month wages.

Everywhere she went, there was the same universal interest in the status of the minorities—the Negro, the Asiatic, even the American Indian. The Africans have not missed the import of Russia's success in solving its own racial problem, and that has made their contempt for the swaggering colonial even greater. Mrs. Robeson warns that those who make the peace must not overlook a seething, brooding Africa.

There is some duplication of his first book, but its many admirers will find the new volume of high interest.

DOROTHY THOMPSON

Atomic Peace

IN an interview before leaving London, John Foster Dulles said that the atomic bomb hung over the heads of the delegates the whole time. The other day a leading industrialist said that no other country could speedily get the atomic bomb, because none possessed the financial and industrial means. On Monday, C. L. Sulzberger reported from Moscow that one of the things that was irritating the Russians was the withholding of the atomic secret from all the victors.

The London conference ended in futility, technically over differing interpretations of the wording of the Potsdam agreement, actually over Russian antipathy to interference in her so-called "security zone," and her concept that peace can be preserved only through a grand alliance of the Big Three, with the smaller nations disfranchised, even in matters profoundly affecting their interests and security.

Fear Is at the Root.

If we assume that the Soviet Union wants peace, and not illimitable expansion by direct or indirect aggrandizement, we may also assume that what is at the root of the dismaying divisions is fear. But if that be true, the Potsdam agreement, even if interpreted entirely according to Russian wishes, will do nothing to allay those fears.

One might remark, incidentally, on apparent Russian misapprehension regarding the powers of an American (or British) head of state. Stalin seems to regard the Potsdam agreement as a hard-and-fast treaty. From his side, it may be so, because Stalin is a head of state in a sense none of the others is.

The Potsdam agreement will stand only as long as American and British public opinion support it. Treaties, here, must be ratified by the Senate before they are valid. Stalin cannot fall from office; in Britain any Prime Minister can be ousted from one day to another by a parliamentary vote of non-confidence. Mr. Truman cannot be voted out by Congress, but he can anticipate not being re-elected if the policies he has promoted fail. He must listen to public reactions, and make readjustments of policies, domestic or foreign, if they offend in principle or work out badly in practice. This difference between the Western and Eastern systems of government makes relations between the two difficult.

An End to Civilization.

But the atomic bomb has been demonstrated since Potsdam, and makes the deliberations of London ridiculous. The problem that the great powers must face is not of a boundary here, or a "security zone" there. These security zones are nonsense today. Our leaders need to discuss how mankind can survive on this planet; how it can survive, immediately, the terrible aftermath of the most terrible of wars, bringing famine, disease, economic breakdown and every conceivable horror "short of war," and, secondly, how to prevent an atomic armament race—which, if it happens, will certainly result in war and end civilization.

As George Fielding Eliot has pointed out, defense is out. There is no defense against atomic warfare. On this atomic scientists are all agreed.

We are about to try members of the German General Staff for having planned aggressive war. It is true that for generations the German war colleges have planned to capture the advantage of the initiative. What is important for us to know is that in the future every general staff of every country will be compelled to accept the same thesis. If relations become so strained between nations that there is serious possibility of war, sheer survival will demand striking first. There will be a race to see who can become the aggressor—and no Generals will worry about being tried afterward as war criminals.

What 10 Would Do.

The facts about atomic destruction are being played down. Ten atomic bombs, of the type dropped upon Hiroshima and Nagasaki, if pin-pointed over Greater New York would destroy all human life within an area of from five to seven square miles, and as far as material destruction is concerned would finish the city entirely.

If carried by planes, the experience of this war is that despite radar, a proportion of bombers would get through. But in the future they would be carried by rockets, greatly improved, against which there is no defense yet, nor can one calculate ever on 100 per cent defense. And the bombs used over Japan are, as explosives, already outdated.

Atomic weapons are not a secret. I have talked and corresponded with many scientists who worked on ours, and I have not found one who thinks, first, that without pressure of immediate need, it requires either high industrial development or a huge amount of money to produce them. Not one doubts that Russian physicists will produce them in a short time. To hand the "secret" to the Security Council is no guaranty against an atomic armaments race. The only guaranty lies in world-wide control, by international scientific commissions in every mine and factory on earth. Whether that is possible is a political question; technically it is feasible.

Descent to Bathos.

But that is what peacemakers should be discussing—not the sovereignty of Trieste and phony "security zones." That is the proposition which should be put up to Russia. It is ridiculous that an international conference should descend to a controversy over whether Mr. Bevin is a proletarian and Mr. Molotov out of the middle classes. Like all the rest of us, they will one day be dead—let us hope from natural causes.

Seeing America as Others See It

WHEN Robert Burns wrote his immortal lines about the gift of seeing ourselves as others see us, he was writing about individual men and women in their day-to-day relationships. But if nations could be endowed with this same rare gift, it might help to avoid the kind of international ill will that leads to war.

To look at ourselves without the flattering distortion that results from national pride is perhaps impossible. We are too much a part of our time to view dispassionately our own role in that time.

An Undistorted Mirror.

The other day I lunched with a distinguished foreign journalist who is the political editor of a conservative newspaper in a democracy that remained neutral throughout the war. He knows this country well from previous trips, and so his impressions during his present visit are not those of a casual tourist.

As he talked, politely but frankly, I had the impression of looking for a moment into a mirror that did not distort the image of America at this crossroads in history. It was not a flattering image.

First, my friend was astonished at the extent of the clamor to disarm America immediately by disbanding the armies of occupation. While he was too polite to put it in so many words, I could tell that this appeared to him a new phase of America's old, backward-looking isolationism.

He had talked with several Congressmen about the demand to "bring the boys back home." What they had said was rather dismaying, and particularly one Congressman who had made this reply:

"Well, you must understand that this is a democracy. In a democracy, we have to do whatever the people want. If they want to get American boys back home—and that's what every mail shows—then we've got to do it."

An Apoplectic Senator.

That did not jibe with my friend's concept of democracy. Weren't lawmakers, he inquired, under obligation to supply some leadership? Was there not some responsibility to educate the electorate?

On the domestic side, the visiting foreigner was troubled by signs that pressure groups were bent on tearing the country apart. He found a kind of bitterness that seemed alien to the America he had known.

On both sides of the industrial gulf was an attitude of do or die, all or nothing. He asked a conservative Senator for his opinion on the 30 per cent wage demand being made by CIO unions.

"It is the beginning of the Red revolution," the Senator said with almost apoplectic violence.

So violent was the tone of the reply that my friend at first thought he must have misunderstood. When he said he did not quite understand, the reply was rapped out with a sharp edge of anger.

A Palsied Giant.

Another phenomenon disturbed this visitor, who has always held America in high regard. That is the tone of the attacks on the late President Roosevelt and the members of his family. To one who has come to regard Roosevelt as a great national figure, looming large in the history of the world, they seemed scurrilous and shocking.

"At home," my friend said, "we have always thought of the New Deal as a very mild reformism. My paper is a conservative paper, I suppose one of the most conservative papers in Europe, but we never found very much to quarrel with in Roosevelt's program."

The picture this man will take back home with him is not a pretty one. It is of a nation frittering away its power and prestige in angry bickering and savage recrimination. It is of a powerful giant succumbing to the old familiar palsy of isolation and surly suspicion.

If that is the picture the world is to get, then we should not be surprised if our voice has less and less authority in world affairs. For it will become apparent that while we have the power to destroy, we do not have the power to create.

Clarke, former St. Louis branch manager for Blair and Co., investment brokers, who died Monday at the Fitzsimmons General Hospital in Denver after an operation, will be tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Lupton undertaking establishment, followed by cremation at Oak Grove. He was 60 years old.

BUDGET CHIEF FAVORS ATOM ADMINISTRATOR

Harold D. Smith Disagrees With Scientists on Plan to Stimulate Research.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10 (AP)—Harold D. Smith, director of the Budget Bureau, came out flatly today for putting final authority over a proposed national science foundation in the hands of a single administrator.

He thus disagreed with scientists who have preceded him as witnesses at Senate hearings on plans for broad federal aid to stimulate research in the atomic age.

"I rather think they are wrong," he said of those who advocate the controlling agency be a scientific board which would select its own administrator.

Asked by Senator Magnuson (Dem.), Washington, whether he deemed scientists incompetent in administrative experience to run the show, Smith replied, "I would do my best to keep them from making a mistake."

He said a board made up in part of people connected with research institutions would not be "a proper authority to present to the President and Congress a budget for aid to research institutions."

Chairman J. C. Hunsaker of the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics said that from his agency's experience it would be better to set up a board and let it hire the director.

Russell Smith for the National Farmers' Union supported the idea of a national science board, and Lewis Hines for the American Federation of Labor testified that administration "should not be intrusted to one individual."

Among witnesses late yesterday were Dr. Vannevar Bush, head of the Office of Scientific Research and Development and Dr. James Conant, president of Harvard University.

Bush asserted that uncontrolled experimentation might have disastrous results, such as poisoning entire neighborhoods, destruction of communities or the sterilization of anyone passing by an amateur laboratory.

"Well, that's all; I call that a major hazard to health," he replied.

All Nations Contributed to Atomic Bomb, Hutchins Says.

CHICAGO, Oct. 10 (AP)—Every country, including the enemy nations, contributed to the production of the atomic bomb, Chancellor Robert Maynard Hutchins of the University of Chicago said today.

Speaking at a ceremony in which the university was awarded a War Department scroll in honor of its role in the bomb's development. Hutchins said America "never would have had the atomic bomb if the ideas and experiments of scientists of every country, including those which were our enemies in this war, had not been available to us."

GOLSCHMANN BACK; URGES GOVERNMENT AID FOR MUSIC

Governmental support of symphony orchestras was urged by Vladimir Golschmann yesterday on his return to St. Louis to begin his fifteenth year as conductor of the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra.

Pointing out that opera companies and symphony orchestras in Europe receive government subsidies, he said, "Orchestras in this country should be given financial aid by the federal, state or municipal governments. If this were done, we could then just go ahead and build up the best possible orchestra here."

Golschmann promised an especially interesting series of programs for the sixty-sixth season of the St. Louis Orchestra. Five works will be given their world premiere, and there will be no less than 15 compositions receiving their first St. Louis performance.

The opening pair of concerts, to be presented Oct. 19 and 20, will be dedicated to "Music of the Allies,"

EZEKIEL B. COLVAN

EZEKIEL B. COLVAN, STAGE DIRECTOR, DIES

With St. Louis Municipal Opera From 1934 to 1939 —65 Years Old.

The funeral of Ezekiel B. Colvan, who was stage director of the St. Louis Municipal Opera for the seasons 1934-39 inclusive, was held today in Glendale, Calif. He died Sunday of heart disease in Hollywood, aged 65.

Zeke Colvan, known as "Pop" to the hundreds of actors, singers and dancers whom he directed on the Forest Park stage, was a Broadway stage director before coming here, and had charge of musical productions at the Shubert Winter Garden, and of some of the late Florenz Ziegfeld's principal successes. Among players of stage and screen whom he trained and directed were Al Jolson, the Dolly Sisters, Ed Wynn, Eddie Cantor, Joan Crawford, Barbara Stanwyck and Jack Oakie.

Productions which he staged originally for Ziegfeld and later in Forest Park were "Three Musketeers," "Whoopee," "Bitter Sweet" and "Showboat." The last-named was his favorite. "Great tunes, great scenes, great love interest—a grand romantic show," he said.

In recent seasons he directed productions of the Los Angeles Civic Light Opera. He began his musical career as a boy soloist in a church choir in Providence, R.I., and studied music in Germany. He was associate conductor of the Montreal and Boston Opera Companies, and served in the Canadian army in World War I. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Doris Colvan.

DR. WINTERER NAMED SCHOOL BOARD HEAD

Pledges Educational System Training Children in Democratic Citizenship.

Dr. Herbert O. Winterer, 38-year-old dentist, was elected president of the St. Louis Board of Education at its regular meeting last night to succeed Mrs. Irma H. Friede, whose term expired yesterday. Dr. Winterer, serving his first term as a board member, was succeeded by Elmore M. Putney in the position of vice president.

In accepting the new office, to which he was elected unanimously, Dr. Winterer pledged himself to the building of a school system to train all children in democratic citizenship as the best hope of avoiding another catastrophic war.

A recommendation that the antipatronage rule be repealed was not acted on by the board last night. The repealer which would again permit board members to recommend persons for employment or promotion in the system was referred to a special committee for further study and final report at the board's November meeting. The committee consists of Dr. Rudolph Hofmeister, William Schumacher, Charles J. Dyer and Elmore M. Putney as chairman.

The rule revision abolishing secrecy in committee meetings was adopted without dissent. Henceforth, the press and public can be excluded from meetings of the standing committees only when two members vote for an executive session.

Putney, in reporting on an informal meeting of some members of the board with the executive officers Monday, expressed the conviction that unless new sources of revenue are found, the system cannot be maintained at its present level of efficiency and achievement. The meeting, he said, sought to project the expenses of the board for the next five years. It was found that by 1949, if spending continues at the present rate, the board would exceed its income by $2,000,000.

Many Buildings Need Repairs.

He stressed the fact that many of the buildings are old and badly in need of modernization and repairs. Joseph P. Sullivan, building commissioner, showed that of the 142 buildings occupied as schools, one is 80 years old; 17 are between 61 and 80; 37 are from 41 to 60; 50 are between 21 and 40 while only 37 were built in the last 20 years. The expense of rewiring these older buildings and providing them with modern heating systems will require approximately $3,000,000 over and above normal budget requirements.

Putney also told of a plan to reduce the average classroom load of 41 pupils to 35 or 36 in an attempt to relieve teachers and raise the level of attainment which recent tests have shown to be below the national norm in certain categories.

Superintendent of Instruction Philip J. Hickey called the board's attention to a provision of the new Constitution that all programs of adult education "may" be carried on with funds "other than ordinary school revenues."

He pointed out that the present program of that kind in the St. Louis public schools started 75 years ago as a means of educating immigrants for citizenship and now enrolls from 10,000 to 15,000 persons in many subjects. On his recommendation the board voted to address an inquiry to the state Senate subcommittee on education, now considering bills to implement the Constitution, for suggestions as to how the program might be continued.

NYLONS, IN LIMITED SUPPLY, TO APPEAR IN STORES SOON

May Have to Be Allotted Until Quantity Increases, Retailers Are Told.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10 (AP)—Reasonable quantities of nylon hosiery should begin to appear in stores about two weeks from now, Earl Constantine, president of the National Association of Hosiery Manufacturers, said yesterday. From that point on supplies should increase gradually, he told the fall conference of the National Retail Dry Goods Association merchandising division. Constantine warned that stores probably would have to allot nylons for some time to come.

Ben Bowe, manager of department store sales for General Electric Co., told the conference that electric appliance supplies should be adequate to meet demand by the second quarter of next year, and that introduction of new designs probably would begin late in the summer of 1946.

"The shortage of men's clothing will grow increasingly worse for a couple of months before the pendulum swings in the direction of larger supplies," said Jerome I. Udell of Max Udell Sons & Co., clothing manufacturers. Despite higher production next year, Udell added that men's clothing will continue to be distributed on an allotment basis for the first six months of 1946.

DR. COMPTON SAYS ATOM'S CHIEF USE WILL BE IN PEACE

familiar with nucleonics than we are at present, atomic power plants can be safely operated and serviced only with the help of health supervisors who are familiar with radiological hazards.

First Use of Power In Relatively Large Units.

All of this points toward using atomic power first in relatively large units where careful engineering and health supervision can be given. An obvious suggestion is its application to the power and heat supply of cities and large industrial plants. Within 10 years it is not unlikely that the power companies designing new plants for city service will be considering favorably the use of uranium instead of coal for purely economic reasons.

This of course does not mean that atomic power will put coal out of business. Each will have its own field. For small heating units, such as the kitchen stove, atomic power has no place. If our national economy grows as it should, coal as a chemical agent, as for example in blast furnaces and preparation of organic chemicals, will increase in importance.

From the point of view of the national economy the introduction of such a new source of power is a clear gain. If it will lessen the cost of heat and power to our cities, it will be a stimulus to every industry. If it reduces the pall of winter smoke, it will be a boon to us all. If it gives cheap power where industry and agriculture need it but cannot now get it, it will extend our econmic frontiers. These are possibilities that lie immediately before us.

about 7000 horsepower and would carry the plane "very much faster" than 550 miles an hour. The plane is designed, he said, to stand the vibration that occurs as a plane passes through the speed zone represented by the speed of sound, 763 miles an hour at sea level.

The advantages of jet and turbine engines over the conventional type now in use were pointed out by Hibbard, who said the P-80's engine developed the same horsepower as a conventional engine of twice its weight. New plane designs being developed by Lockheed include the possibility of using jet or turbine engines in the relatively near future.

Menasco, in addition, is developing a turbine engine for possible use in automobiles as well as airplanes. The principle of the turbine engine is that gases burn continuously, creating a pressure on a turbine. Conventional engines depend for power on a series of explosions.

Nathan C. Price, director of research on the project for Menasco, said he believed the commercial use of gas turbine engines in automobiles, saving weight, engine costs and fuel costs, is less than five years away.

Cutting the cost of air transportation in half can be accomplished by use of the Lockheed Constitution plane, now in production, Gross said. The first of this model will fly next spring, and will carry more than 150 passengers. The Constitution is designed to take gas turbine or jet engines. Cutting air transport costs will be possible by carrying more passengers and "getting into the field of mass transportation," Gross declared. The new plane is designed to go anywhere in the world.

The Constellation, a 64-passenger long-range transport, will be delivered to air lines by the end of October, Gross said. Transcontinental and Western Air is scheduled to get the first 12 of these.

Gross said Lockheed expects to keep on building a limited number of Army and Navy planes, and will enter the field of low-priced personal planes, thus keeping in virtually all markets. He declined to reveal plans for building a low-cost personal plane, but said that eventually he believed the helicopter provided the answer.

POLICE STOP MOVIE STUDIO PICKETING, ARREST 350

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 10 (AP)—Mass picketing at Warner Brothers Movie Studio, which had resulted since last Friday morning in injuries to more than 100 persons, suddenly collapsed today when 200 armed sheriff's deputies herded 350 to 400 unresisting pickets into the studio and arrested them on charges of unlawful assembly.

The pickets, who had met opposition with fists and clubs, submitted peaceably on orders of their leader, Herbert Sorrell, head of the AFL Conference of Studio Unions.

M'CLAIN TESTIFIES MERIT SYSTEM IS REQUIRED BY CODE

Tells House Committee State Pay Checks Involved Will Be Illegal Without One.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 10—Joseph A. McClain Jr. of St. Louis, general counsel for the Terminal Railroad Association, told a legislative committee last night that employes of penal and eleemosynary institutions could not legally be paid their salaries unless a legitimate merit system was enacted by the Legislature in compliance with the new Constitution.

A former dean of the Washington University Law School, McClain appeared before the House Judiciary Committee as chairman of the Missouri Federation for a Merit System, a body composed of civic organizations and persons interested in extension of the merit system.

McClain pointed out that unless the Legislature adopted a true merit system, the state official in charge of paying salaries possibly could not legally distribute pay checks to employes of departments designated by the new Constitution to come under the merit system after next July 1, when the new code takes full effect.

Bipartisan Plan Held Invalid.

Senate opponents of the merit system principle are sponsoring a bipartisan plan under which employes would be equally divided between the Republican and Democratic parties. Lawyers who have studied it contend that the plan is an evasion of the mandate of the Constitution and in the light of court decisions in other states is clearly unconstitutional.

McClain said his organization considered the House bill, which was presented to the committee by Randall R. Kitt of Chillicothe, Republican floor leader, to conform to approved merit system standards.

In citing reasons for adopting a merit system, McClain said, "The merit system is more democratic than the patronage system, which depends on who you know rather than on what you know."

Guy Runnion, news director of Radio Station KMOX, who represented the Optimist Club of Webster Groves, told the committee the merit system could tend to correct evils at the Missouri Training School for Boys at Boonville, "which are a sin and a shame and a disgrace to the state."

Leslie C. Deason of Hannibal, a delegate to the Constitutional Convention, who said he was appearing for the 10,000 to 12,000 patients at Missouri eleemosynary institutions, asserted that a merit system would improve a situation "where state hospitals are so full of lame and halt political appointees that it is necessary to have attendants to attend to the attendants."

The bill, which is sponsored by Kitt and the House Republican leadership, establishes a merit system to cover all employes of the penal and eleemosynary institutions except the members of boards and commissions appointed by the Governor, technical and scientific employes and persons employed in an interneship capacity. The measure also would include the Social Security Commission and the Unemployment Compensation Commission, which now are subject to jurisdiction of the Missouri Merit System Council created to comply with Federal statutes.

The committee deferred action on the bill until next week.

Measure Authorizes Aldermen to Raise Rate for Municipal Ends — Other Action.

By JAY B. WILSON
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 10—Authorization for the St. Louis Board of Aldermen to vote additional taxes of 22 cents per $100 assessed valuation above the present total rate of $1.35 for municipal purposes was contained in a measure perfected in the House yesterday.

Under the bill the authorized tax rates would be four cents per $100 assessed valuation for library purposes, two cents for the Zoo, two cents for the Art Museum, 10 cents for hospital purposes, two cents for recreation grounds and two cents for public health.

The specified amounts for library, Zoo and Art Museum purposes now are included in the $1.35 total rate. The measure would remove these taxes from the total for municipal purposes and place them in a special purpose classification along with the new taxes possible to impose for hospital purposes, recreation grounds and public health.

The bill also authorizes levy of an additional 30 cents by a vote of the people above the present maximum of $1.35, which is retained in the measure. If this 30-cent rate were voted, it would be possible for the total tax rate for St. Louis to be $2.76 per $100 assessed valuation.

In removing the art museum, library and zoo tax from the general municipal purposes rate the city would realize an increase for general municipal purposes of 8 cents.

Jobless Benefit Increase.

An increase in the maximum weekly unemployment compensation benefit and an increase in the number of weeks for receiving the benefits was included in a measure perfected by the House. The bill changes the weekly benefit from $18 to $20 and increases the number of weeks such payment can be received from 16 to 20.

A Senate bill to enable St. Louis firemen, who have served in the armed forces during the past four years, to retain their status in the firemen's retirement system on reinstatement was passed by the House. The measure now goes to the Governor.

Magistrates System.

Senators and Representatives from St. Louis were guests last night at a dinner at the Governor Hotel given by the St. Louis Joint Magistrates Court Committee to explain provisions of a Senate bill which would set up a magistrate system in St. Louis.

Eighteen of the 25 legislators from the city attended. Alroy S. Phillips, William Bartley and Milton Napier spoke on the bill. No opposition has been voiced thus far, they said, while support has come from the city counselor's and comptroller's offices, justice and comptroller's offices, justices bar association.

The bill defines the duties, power and jurisdiction of the magistrate courts; provides for the election, terms and duties of constables, and outlines fees, salaries and expenses in connection with the system.

William Happel Estate $64,961.

The estate of William Happel, a retired grocer who died Aug. 29, was valued at $64,961 in an inventory filed in probate court yesterday. His will created a trust for his widow, Mrs. Lena Happel, 6734 Neosho street, appointing her and the Mercantile-Commerce Bank & Trust Co. as co-trustees.

ST. LOUIS' BEST BUY IN RYE

STEELS, RAILS LEAD STOCK RISE INTO NEW 8-YEAR FIELD

NEW YORK, Oct. 10 (AP)—Renewed demand for rails and steels again advanced today's stock market prices to eight year highs.

Gains of fractions to around a point also spread to other sections of the list and included motors, rubbers, aircrafts, oils, specialties and some farm implements.

U. S. Steel, Bethlehem and Youngstown Sheet touched new peaks for the year or longer. Cero de Pasco was a soft spot, down more than a point on a cut in dividend.

Back of Day's Buying.

Volume reached 1,700,000 shares compared with 1,640,000 shares yesterday.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at 72.6 was at a new peak for more than eight years. The industrial and utility groups made new highs.

Of the 999 issues traded in today, 538 were higher, 249 lower and 212 unchanged. There were 190 new 1945 highs and three new lows.

Buying was based on the belief limited inflation was inevitable due to labor-management pressure for both increased wages and higher prices for products, a rush to invest idle funds and the favorable tax picture. Continuing strikes failed to stem purchases.

Higher were Chrysler, Goodrich, J. I. Case, United Aircraft, Laclede Gas, Kennecott, Air Reduction, Westinghouse, Eastman Kodak, Northern Pacific, Baltimore & Ohio, Standard Oil (N. J.), Pullman and International Telephone.

Trend on the Curb.

Higher in the curb were Ashland Oil, E. W. Bliss, United Gas and United States Foil "B."

Part of the buying was attributed directly to War Production Board Chairman J. A. Krug's final report, which optimistically predicted that industrial output would be on a definite upward trend early next year while reconversion would be completed by late 1946.

One of the most active stocks of the session was International Telephone. Some of the demand was based on the idea that refinancing stands to whittle the interest rate on the concern's funded debt with substantial savings to the company each year.

Rail shareholders noted the House Ways and Means Committee report on the tax bill under which carriers and certain other industries might get a special extension of unused excess profits credit carryback for one year beyond repeal of the excess profits tax.

Childs Co. gained spectacularly after a court ruling. The common rose 1⅛ to 8½ on the big board and the preferred soared 14½ to 130 on the curb.

News in the Market.

On the bullish side for shareholders was the magazine "Iron Age's" statement that the Office of Price Administration had "practically decided upon" price increases for the steel industry but announcement had been delayed pending a clearer view of possible higher wage costs.

Day's 15 Leaders.

SECONDARY RAILS LEADERS IN NEW YORK BOND LIST

NEW YORK, Oct. 10 (AP)—Secondary rails exhibited modest rising power in today's bond market as other groups held about steady in late dealings.

The two Childs Co. 5s firmed around a point. Others ahead included Central of New Jersey 5s, St. Paul adjustment 5s and International Hydro Electric 6s. Lower were Rio Grande Western 5s, Hudson Coal 5s and International Paper 6s.

Baltimore & Ohio stamped convertibles of 1960 held well up in front of the advancing contingents followed closely by Morris & Essex 4½s and 5s and some of the New Haven bonds. Others trailing the leaders included St. Louis-San Francisco 4s and 4½s and Seaboard 4s and 6s.

Higher priced corporates again inched ahead on investment demand coincident with the marketing of $40,000,000 Celanese Corporation 3s and a smaller loan of the Hawaiian Electric Co.

Moving ahead were Shell Union 2½s, Ward Baking 5½s, American Tobacco 3s, American & Foreign Power 5s, Armour 4½s, Cleveland Union Terminal 4½s and Deere & Co. 2¾s. U. S. Governments were quiet but steady.

Argentina bonds firmed appreciably on the latest political news from the South American nation. Buenos Aires 4⅜s, 4⅝s and 4¾s were ahead fraction to more than 2 points.

Lehigh Valley 4s and 5s joined the rising ranks in the final hour, ending ahead ¾ and ⅞, respectively, at 54⅝ and 63. Louisville & Nashville 3⅜s turned over in heavy volume in the final hour, ending up 1¼ at 109½.

WHEAT PRICE OF $1.78 IS HIGHEST IN 20 YEARS

CHICAGO, Oct. 10 (AP)—Announcement that the Government is back in the wheat market at substantially increased bids caused buying which boosted wheat futures around 2 cents a bushel at times today to new seasonal peaks.

Some of the buying apparently was hedge removals against sales of cash wheat to the Government at Minneapolis, where the Government agency was accepting offerings at $1.73@1.74½ a bushel. The agency said it would entertain offers of wheat for export here at current market prices, which are about 11½ cents a bushel above its previous bids of $1.67.

Other grains rose in sympathy with wheat and seasonal highs were chalked up in all pits.

Wheat hit the highest levels in about 20 years on the upturn, with the December delivery selling at $1.78 a bushel at one time.

Wheat closed ⅞ to 1¾ cents a bushel higher than the previous finish, Dec. $1.77¾@⅝. Corn was up ¼ to ½c, Dec. $1.18½, the ceiling. Oats were unchanged to ⅝c higher, Dec. 67⅛@¼c. Rye was unchanged to 1¼c up, Dec. $1.56@⅛. Barley was ⅛ to ⅞c higher, Dec. $1.19.

The Chicago office of the grain branch, production and marketing administration, announced this morning it would entertain offers of wheat at current prices for shipment to seaboard ports in such amounts as might be necessary for export. It reserved the right to reject offers however.

This indicated an increase in government bid prices since the previous government buying price here was about $1.67 a bushel. At the current market price, No. 2 hard wheat is about $1.78 a bushel, an advance of 11 cents.

COTTON CLOSES MIXED

NEW YORK, Oct. 10 (AP)—The cotton futures market moved in a narrow range in quiet trading today. There was some scattered outside buying along with mill covering influenced by unfavorable cotton crop conditions.

While private advices indicated that light frost in the northern part of the belt did no damage to the crop, the government weekly weather report declared that cotton picking during the past week has been seriously retarded in the western section of the belt with slow progress also made in the central section.

Traders were disappointed that the Liverpool Cotton Exchange will not be reopened and that Britain will continue to make government purchases of cotton which pointed to continued obstacles to restoration of free trading in world cotton markets.

Late afternoon values were 40 cents a bale lower to 35 cents higher, October, 23.11; December, 23.33, and March, 23.38.

Futures closed 35 cents a bale lower to 20 cents higher.

ONLY 58 FARMS LEFT IN CITY; TOTAL 10 YEARS AGO WAS 124

Where the city had 124 farms in 1935 and 83 five years ago, it now has only 58, Lawrence W. Fitzpatrick, farm census supervisor for this district, announced.

Total land farmed has decreased from 1245 acres a decade ago to 893 acres in 1935 and 858 acres this year. The average size a farm has increased from 10 acres in 1935 to 14.8 acres at present.

AMONG FIRST NAVY OFFICERS IN TOKYO

Lt. W. P. Diggs, Ex-Secretary of Police Board, Ate Cat at Imperial Hotel.

St. Louisans War Exploits

LT. WILLIAM PURNELL DIGGS, former secretary of the Board of Police Commissioners, was a member of the first party of Navy officers to enter Tokyo, he wrote his mother, Mrs. Mary Diggs, 943 Laurel street.

Lt. Diggs, intelligence officer of an air group based on the carrier Bennington, went ashore at Yokohama Sept. 14 and boarded a train for the 40-minute ride to Tokyo. The only Americans he and his party saw in Tokyo were a few military police who preceded occupation forces. They first tried to enter the imperial palace grounds, but were stopped by guards, "who bowed and scraped, but told us we would have to get a pass."

"We then went over to the Imperial Hotel," Lt. Diggs wrote. "For lunch at the hotel, I ordered some meat the waiter called rabbit, but which we found out to be cat. I have experienced no ill effects."

The streets of the capital were crowded with men in uniforms and women wearing trousers or kimonos. "They would stare at us, but gave no other evidence of their feelings toward us, Lt. Diggs wrote. He returned to his ship the same day.

Lt. Diggs resigned as police board secretary in June, 1942, to enter the service. His wife, Mrs. Eunice K. Diggs, a former Navy nurse, lives at the Laurel street address. Lt. Diggs is a graduate of John Burroughs School and the Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration.

Plunges 27,000 Feet in Plane.

Lt. Federico Gonzales, whose wife, Mrs. Anna Marie Gonzales, lives at 3939 Lexington avenue, miraculously escaped death when his Flying Fortress plunged 27,000 feet into the ground near Neuss, Germany, last Jan. 23. When he recovered consciousness after the crash, a German Stormtrooper called him "a dirty American swine," and pulled his gun to murder the dazed flier, but regular German army officers rescued him just as the Stormtrooper raised his pistol.

Lt. Gonzales, a native of San Antonio, related his dramatic escapes from death at the home of his wife, where he is spending a terminal leave. "We were hit by flak in a raid on the marshalling yards at Neuss," he said. "The wing of the ship was cut nearly in half and we went into a spin."

"I fought to keep the Fort under control, but it was impossible." We couldn't bail out, and I lost consciousness at 12,000 feet. I was the only survivor, and I can't explain how I lived through the crash," he said.

After his rescue from the Stormtrooper, Lt. Gonzales was taken to Gerresheim, Germany, in the Ruhr valley, where he was imprisoned until the middle of April. He was liberated by the Thirteenth Armored Division. During his imprisonment, the camp was shelled for three weeks by American artillery and, said Lt. Gonzales, "we were terrified." He holds the Air Medal with Oak Leaf Clusters and the Purple Heart. He plans to resume his education at the University of Texas following his terminal leave.

Meet Again—Now As Roommates.

Two former Army Air Force fliers, Gene Hirschfield and Douglas Meifert, pilot and ball gunner respectively on Liberator bombers, who met in occupied Europe after they had been forced down behind enemy lines, are roommates in the Theta Xi fraternity house on the Washington University campus.

They were being evacuated by underground partisans when they first became acquainted in northern Yugoslavia, which was at the time still occupied by the Germans. They were returned on separate ships and did not meet again until they discovered they were roommates at the university.

Hirschfield, whose home is in Monett, Mo., is a sophomore in the School of Business Administration. Meifert, a first-year pre-journalism student, formerly lived in Milwaukee.

Tested Own Mosquito Program.

Coxswain Wince Summers, Negro, who is in charge of mosquito control work for his battalion in New Guinea, inadvertently tested the efficacy of his own mosquito killing program, his unit paper reported. After finishing his day's work of leading squads in draining stagnant pools and spraying other breeding places, Summers took a nap in an area previously heavily infested with the insects. The area was then judged safe for habitation, the report said. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jessie Summers, 38 Boyd street, South Kinloch Park.

Designed Battalion Chapel.

Lt. (jg) John H. Burt, Navy chaplain and former canon of Christ Church Cathedral and rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, was the designer of a battalion chapel recently dedicated in the southern Philippines, a Navy dispatch related.

Chaplain Burt studied construction of native churches in drawing plans for the new structure. Native materials—coconut logs, palm thatching for the roof and bamboo trimming—were used exclusively in building. The chapel is surmounted by a bamboo cross. Other original ideas incorporated in the design include a bell made by a Seabee from a section of pipe and a crude "rose window."

Ilona Massey Gets---

Direct Action From A Latin Romancer

By Harold Heffernan

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 10.

IT'S a big and busy day on the MGM lot, and a prolific one for the news hunter. For one thing we run into the gorgeous Ilona Massey and hear from her one of the most fantastic travel tales of the year. Miss Massey, who has just returned to this studio after a seven-year absence, recently completed a six-month engagement in Rio, starring in a revue at the Casino Urca.

ILONA MASSEY

She was telling us in particular about a South American romancer who paid court to her in the most vigorous and persevering fashion she ever encountered.

"He sat at the same table at the Casino every night," said Ilona, "and bombarded me with notes and flowers. At my hotel I got telephone calls and baskets of orchids. When I walked through the lobby there he was, sitting. I simply couldn't get him off my trail. I made it a policy not to go out socially with anyone during my stay and so kept putting him off.

"FINALLY MY companion suggested that we would have to do something and so I decided to invite this persistent admirer to tea. He arrived at the specified time and had scarcely sat down before proposing marriage. I refused politely on the grounds that I had a husband at home."

Everything might have gone along quite all right, Ilona related, but for the fact that he spotted the 10-karat diamond ring on her finger. Then the man really went to town. He demanded a good look at it and asked her to remove it. He held it up to the light.

"It's beautiful," he said. "Who gave it to you?"

"My husband," she answered.

At that, her guest, with a flick of the wrist, tossed the ring out of the window and into the park below.

"I WAS FLABBERGASTED," said Ilona. "When I could get my breath I gasped, 'You shouldn't have done that! Don't you realize that ring cost $10,000?'"

"Very well," said her guest. He took out his check-book and wrote out an order for $10,000.

"I asked him to go," said Ilona, "and immediately called the police. We all searched the park below but never found the ring. I rushed over to his bank and presented his check. It was good."

During the remainder of her stay Ilona had no more visits from the Latin. However, he would stand on his balcony overlooking the bathing beach and toss calla lilies at her when she went in for a swim.

OVER ON THE SET of "Bad Bascomb" we had a chat with little Margaret O'Brien. She had just returned from a Wyoming location and was excited to learn that Roddy McDowall was working in a picture on the same lot.

"You mean Roddy McDowall is right over here?" she asked, round-eyed. "Why, I've just got to go over and see him. He's my very favorite movie actor."

It was between scenes, so off we started for the adjoining stage. Margaret wasn't doing much talking en route and suddenly she decided to turn back and abandon the idea. She had some excuse about being needed on the set.

We did a reverse and started back—Margaret deep in thought. Finally she could keep it to herself no longer.

"Girls really shouldn't call on boys," she said seriously. "That isn't ladylike, is it?"

P.S. Later that day Mr. McDowall called on Miss O'Brien and the precepts laid down by Emily Post were observed to the letter.

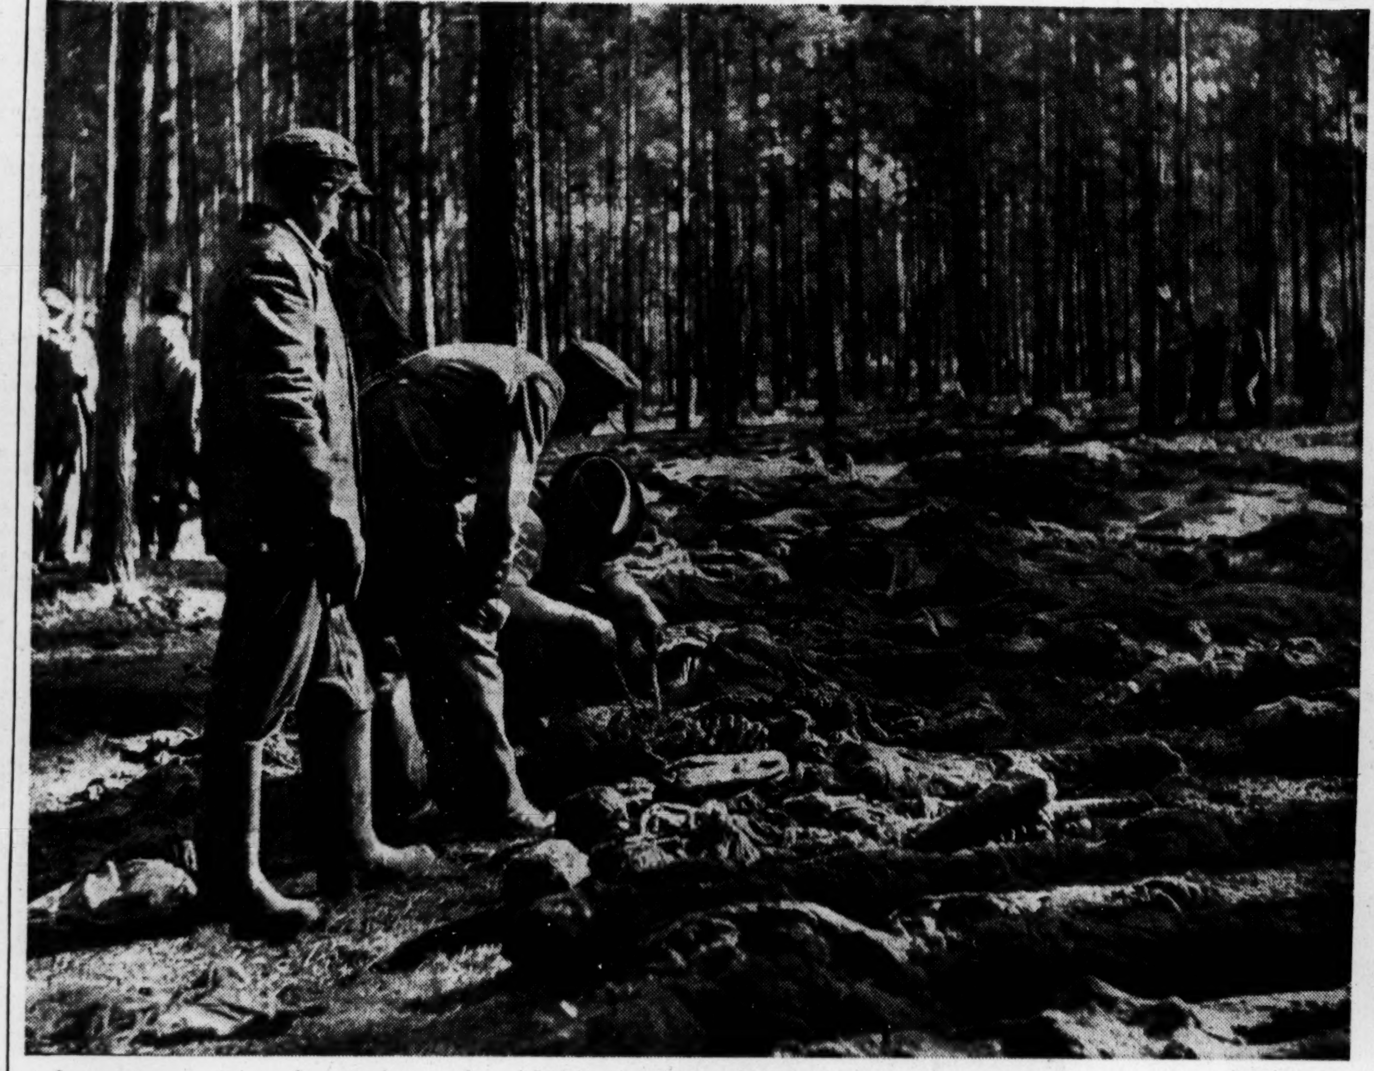
OVER IN the corner of the "Holiday in Mexico" stage is Xavier Cugat with the smallest dog we've ever seen. It isn't more than six inches long and he carries it in the handkerchief-pocket of his coat for scenes in the picture.

Cugat explains the pup was imported from Mexico City and his name is Tico Tico. This gag, dreamed up for the movie, is going to be Cugat's trademark in real life. The band man says he is having all his suits made with larger breast-pockets and is going to carry one of these miniature chihuahuas with him wherever he goes.

"THE GENTLEMAN AT THE NEXT TABLE WANTS TO KNOW IF YOU CAN SPARE ONE, SIR?"

Mass Grave Uncovered Near Lueneburg



Scene at a mass grave for 243 slave workers, killed by the Nazis, which was uncovered near Lueneburg recently, as Germans prepare to rebury the victims under allied direction. The prisoners were on their way to the Belsen concentration camp last April when Nazi guards halted the overcrowded wagons, forced the workers to dig graves for those who had perished en route and then shot the drafted diggers. The atrocity was revealed by one of the captives who escaped and who is a witness at the Nazi war crimes trial at Lueneburg.

BROADWAY

By WALTER WINCHELL

NOTES OF AN INNOCENT BYSTANDER

THE THEATER: Variety reports that despite the critics' frowns on at least two of the recent play entries, "The Ryan Girl" and "You Touched Me!" attracted healthy business in their first week. The first mentioned show playing to capacity. . . . "Deep Are the Roots," which won unanimous critical approval in its initial week, drew $14,000—3Gs under the panned "Ryan Girl." . . . George Jean Nathan's "Theater Book of the Year," due on the 18th, is a breezy biography of the 1944-45 season. But does he know that Zeuxis put the critics in their place as long ago as 400 B.C.? "Criticism," said the great painting craftsman (in a voice that can still be heard), "comes easier than craftsmanship."

THE SHOW-FOLKS: The new Lindsay and Crouse comedy, "State of the Union," due in mid-November, is about a highly successful airplane maker, who is being prepped as the Republican candidate to run against Truman. The would-be President in the play carries on an extra-marital skirmish with a woman publisher. The producer, Leland Hayward, is having difficulty finding a theater for it in Washington. . . . The controversy raging among Equity players (over some stars attending a meeting for Spanish refugees) has depressed the targets, namely Margo, Luba Malina, Sono Osato and Jean Darling. They emphasize that it was not a religious rally, as charged; that J. Bartley Crum (Willkie's campaign manager), chairman at the meeting, is a communicant of the Roman Catholic Church, and that he informed Equity officials it was not anti-religious.

QUOTATION MARKSMANSHIP: Ed Bodin: The applause of millions for FDR drowns out the hisses of hundreds. . . . An 88-year-old man on longevity: Late to bed and late to rise. . . . Robert Q. Lewis: As cuddly as a pair of newlyweds. . . . Richard Bowker: It's all right to have a train of thoughts, if you have a terminal. . . . N. Montgomery: The vices we scoff at in others laugh at us within ourselves. . . . Oscar Wilde: Woman begins by resisting a man's advances and ends up by blocking his retreat. . . . Dean Inge: A man may build himself a throne of bayonets but he cannot sit on it.

THE MOVIE MAGICIANS: "Weekend at the Waldorf" is a slick flicker. . . . "The Fall of Berlin" is a Russian documentary depicting the death of a city that deserved it. . . . "Blithe Spirit" is now in Technicolor but not as funny as the stage version. . . . "Tell It to the Stars" is a pleasantry. . . . Shirley Temple's make-beloving in Columbia's "Kiss and Tell" is something to thrill about. . . . In the FBI inspired "House on Ninety-Second Street" thriller, we caught this inaccuracy: That Nazi agent was not stricken dead as he came out of the Bowling Green subway station—he was killed in a cab crash in Times Square.

THE NETWORKS: Jack Benny resumed with his well-known big-time routines. . . . Paul Whiteman's show went over with a wink. He wisecracked: "The Radio Hall of Fame displays Bing Crosby's bust, Bob Hope's bust and Carole Landis's picture." . . . CBS banned criticism of the Argentine regime, saying it was still friendly with the U. S. The same week our State Dept. publicly spanked Argentina for its nose-thumbing at the U. S. . . . The current Hooperating puts this Sabbath-nighter in fifth place with 16.3. The only other commentator is L. Thomas in eleventh place with 13.8—brother Kaltenbore being rudely dispossessed from the "First Fifteen."

THE INTELLIGENTSIA: Walter Reade's newspaper will be named The Asbury Park Sun. . . . Erskine Caldwell, who auth'd "Tobacco Road," among other clicks, will do another play—on condition it stars Lee Tracy. . . . Bill Brooks, NBC news chief, is back from S. America. . . . Frank Gervasi, ace foreign reporter for the mags, will cover Washington from now on. . . . The Hollywood Quarterly is the name of a new mag on the movie coast. . . . Beg pod'n item: The James Montgomery Flag Lady in Oil (conspicuously shown in the film, "Stork Club") is not the ex-wife of the Daily Oklahoman publisher. Her name is Georgia MacDonald, the ex-wife of Dick Pearce, who wrote for Oklahoma City newspapers. . . . Bennett Cerf's latest giggle anthology is named "Laughing Stock." Another refreshing dip in the Cerf. . . . Mutual has a new dramatic series about a crusading radio commentator "who exposes the postwar activities of native Fascists." The program was inspired by WWhat's-his-name?

Social Problems

By Emily Post

WHETHER the following letter is sent me by a man or a girl, either elderly or young, I have no idea. The letter states only these facts: "I have a very good younger friend, most attractive, but who suffers from self-consciousness. The other evening I noticed at a dinner party that her hand shook when she drank from her water glass. Telling her to relax and act natural is good advice, but it doesn't fill the bill. She needs more than that and I can't give it to her. Will you write something helpful to someone who suffers like this?"

The answer—no matter who you are—is that your apparent habit of watching her is the best way in the world to increase her nervousness. Paying no attention to her would be the best way to help. If she asks, "Did you see any hand shake?" it is much better to say, "Did it?" In any case, take the subject as one of small importance.

DEAR MRS. POST: I worked for a number of years in a store that sold china, glassware and other items constituting the usual wedding presents. Now I'm going to be married myself and want to send announcements. I'd like to add something to the wording—if it is not out of the question—that would make everyone feel it unnecessary to send me a present. I have seen something similar on funeral notices about sending no flowers. I was wondering why this could not be imitated on the announcements, down at the lower left. Something like "No gifts please." Will you give me your suggestion?

Answer: Do not put any such message on an announcement! An announcement is merely a statement of fact that you are no longer "Miss Mary Smith" but "Mrs. John Brown." It means that and no other thing. To put "Send no wedding present please" would be assuming improperly that a wedding present might have been expected. An invitation to a wedding reception or breakfast (especially when it is a very small one) would be taken by many people as an obligation to send a wedding present—but even this isn't really so.

Economical Menus for Tomorrow

By Meta Given

THERE is a definite trend toward a more informative label on all food products. Modern homemakers want to know not only what is packed in the can and the amount but also additional ideas that would be helpful such as the size of the product, the quantity in cupfuls, number of serving units, how to prepare and serve, recipe suggestions, and the grade of product. For grades to be uniform would require that the Government do the grading. There is no difference in food value of wholesomeness in the grades. The difference lies in the size, shape, maturity, color, and net drained weight of the product. There are as many uses for the lower grades as for the upper ones but the uses are very often different and it would be helpful to know in advance what grade one was buying. Public demand will eventually bring all of these good informative features about.

Ham Loaf.

If you have a yearning for the flavor of ham and not enough points for a center slice, here is a way to satisfy that desire without the expenditure of points you would think necessary. Mix one cup crumbled cornflakes, one tablespoon brown sugar, half a cup milk, one-fourth teaspoon cloves, and one egg, and beat thoroughly. Add one pound ground smoked ham (shank end) and half a pound ground pork and work together well. Pack into a two-pound loaf pan and bake at 350 F. degrees for one hour. Additional cornflakes may be sprinkled over the top to give a crusty appearance. Six servings.

Menus for Thursday.

Breakfast: Sliced bananas on ready-to-eat cereal with sugar and top milk, buttered toast and bacon strips. Luncheon: Egg salad sandwiches, potato chips, carrot sticks, Concord grapes. Dinner: Ham loaf, baked hubbard squash, buttered peas, banana, apple, and cranberry salad, clover-leaf rolls, rice custards.

Common-Sense Medicine

PHYSICAL therapy is one of the oldest therapeutic agents in medicine. It has a wide field of usefulness and has established itself as an essential part of scientific therapeutics. It may be defined as the application of physical agencies in the management of disease and injury. In World War I it was extensively used in the late treatment of wounds of various kinds and as a result it became highly successful and popularized. World War II added further impetus to this valuable asset in the treatment of medical and surgical conditions of all kinds.

Commercial interests, also, became more aware of its benefits and many new machines for supplying thermal or electrical energy were devised. In some instances the machines were unusually complicated and over-emphasized adding discredit in some ways more than merit. Good management and technique rather than expensive equipment are of paramount importance to obtain results.

The four important agencies of physical therapy are (1) heat, (2) massage, (3) exercise and (4) light. Diathermy, electrical stimulation and hydrotherapy are specialized techniques. In the use of these major physical therapy agencies rest and the principles of good body mechanics are essential if the best results are to be obtained.

The effectiveness of heat tends to increase circulation by dilating the capillaries (small vessels). The improvement in circulation benefits the nutrition of the tissues. It also has some merit in relief of pain. Massage induces a local improvement in circulation and accelerates the absorption of swelling.

Exercise, active and passive. Active is movement performed by the patient. It improves circulation and prevents the development of adhesions contractures. Passive exercise used by the physical therapist is useful chiefly in preventing contractures (shortening or distortion). Light is also a therapeutic agent of merit with its ultra violet components. It is especially useful in bone pathology. Sunlight is the best source of irradiation although most of the ultra violet lamps are convenient and effective. To obtain the maximum results from physical therapy the orthopedic surgeon is best qualified to assist you.

DR. EDWARD WHITE ROBERTSON.

My Day -o- By Eleanor Roosevelt

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Tuesday.

ON Sunday evening I attended the annual dinner given by Freedom House, when their award for this year was presented to Gen. Eisenhower. Since he could not be there in person, he asked that it be accepted for him by a private first class of his army who held certain battle distinctions. Pfc. Harold G. Taylor, who accepted the award with great dignity, is a native of Delmar, near Albany, N. Y. He is only 20 years old, but has all the coveted decorations. I enjoyed talking with him, and kept wishing that his family and his neighbors could be there. They are all proud of him for his battle achievements; but his simplicity and poise in the face of such a large audience, and when he was carrying out such an honorable assignment, would have added to their pride. On this evening he was the symbol of all our young American soldiers, and I, too, felt proud that they had such a good representative.

I READ a report the other night made by the Salvation Army on its work in World War II. I wondered how many people realized that this organization, which functions all over the world, of course, had its first baptism of fire in the retreat to and from Dunkirk. Only two of the score of Red Shield Canteens returned from Dunkirk to England, so that the Salvation Army began to count its first casualties at that time.

Salvation Army mobile units, or "invasion canteens," have rolled down the ramps of LST's along with the jeeps and trucks and tanks. Their mobile caravans have today traveled a distance approximately equivalent to going four times around the world. These mobile canteens often were equipped with libraries, radio sets, a film projector and films, a record player and facilities for serving 4600 men.

They did not forget their religious services, but neither did they forget that mere man must be fed and warmed and sheltered before his spirits can rise to consider spiritual things.

I READ a book not long ago by an eminent divine who seems to feel that one of our major troubles is the fact that we think too much about attaining decent standards of living for our people, and too little about salvaging their souls. For me the two have always had to go hand in hand, and I think that is one reason why I have always appreciated the work of the Salvation Army. They are usually as practical as the Catholic Church: Both of them know the weaknesses and strengths of human beings.

Try and Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

DURING the early days of the war, two K.P.'s were staggering under the weight of a steaming kettle they were hauling from the kitchen in Fort Dix, N. J.

A colonel stopped them. "Get me a ladle," he commanded. One of the K.P.'s rushed for a ladle. The colonel dipped it into the kettle, swallowed a mouthful, gulped and roared, "Do you call that soup?"

"No, sir," came the meek reply. "That's the water we've been washing the dishes in!"

My OPINION

By MARTHA CARR

Dear Martha Carr:

MY boy friend was recently shipped overseas. He hasn't written me for over two weeks, though he did phone and try to talk to me the last Sunday before he left, and I wasn't home. He said a few words to my mother and told her he'd write but so far he hasn't. Then he called my girl friend. Before he left home we had a misunderstanding. I wrote him after that and he replied and said he still loved me and I thought the matter all cleared up. Since I have not heard I can't keep from wondering whether my girl friend may be writing to him and if she may be the cause of me not hearing any more. Please tell me what to do. D.L.

• Letters intended for this column must be addressed to Martha Carr at the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Mrs. Carr will answer all questions of general interest, but of course, cannot give advice on matters of a purely legal or medical nature. Those who do not care to have their letters published may enclose an addressed and stamped envelope for personal reply.

It is not at all unusual not to receive a letter for much more than two weeks, when a service man has been shipped. Just keep on writing, refrain from mentioning any quarrels you may have had, and you'll be hearing again before too long I feel quite sure. Your imagination is working overtime.

Dear Martha Carr:

WE ARE A GROUP of women belonging to a well-known and respected club. In this club is one woman who always tells jokes which are obnoxious, even indecent. She is forward in her speech and actions. We are all disgusted and would like to know how we can make her understand we do not approve of such jokes or such conduct. W.G.C.

If this member of the club is so objectionable to all the rest, I would suggest you have one of the officers of the club, or one of her very good friends—if any—speak to her as tactfully as possible. If she remains careless in speech and conduct her resignation can be requested. But don't you think you are perhaps taking her too seriously? I really believe a "We are not amused" attitude and a quick change of subject would squelch the offender sufficiently, making more drastic methods unnecessary.

IN ANSWER TO "DISGUSTED": Perhaps you can make your cousin realize that when it comes to compliments she is piling them on too thickly and the result is that she is being thought insincere. A heart-felt compliment now and then is one thing, but to continue to pile them on savors of apple-polishing. In the long run her employer and her associates are going to grow pretty weary of it all.

IN ANSWER TO "DICKEY & DOT": My "Scavenger Hunt" leaflet is just the thing and if you will send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope I'll mail it to you. If you want to make it a treasure hunt instead use the same procedure as suggested, but make the things sought of the "treasure" rather than of the trash variety.

IN ANSWER TO "ME": Yours is a problem for your beauty operator. There are certain products on the market which should help the condition you describe but I am not permitted to recommend remedies or cosmetics in this column.

IN ANSWER TO "LONESOME": Both my "Popularity Hints" and my "Sub-deb" leaflet will give you excellent pointers. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope and I'll mail them

The Record Makers

By Charles Menees

"THE GOLDEN ERA"—second in Capitol's four-album jazz history—deals with styles of the roaring 20s. Paul Whiteman's 1921 version of "Wang Wang Blues" is done surprisingly well by seven of Pop's original men, including Mike Pingatore and Ferde Grofe. Whiteman's "big band" version of "San" has Matty Melneck doing the violin solo just as he did it in the famous 1927 recording. Jack Teagarden's Chicagoans jump on "'Deed I Do," with nice jamming by Bill May, trumpet, and Joe Sullivan, piano. Big Gate, now appearing here, employs his fine trombone and relaxed singing well on "Stars Fell on Alabama." Sonny Greer and the Duke's Men provide Ellingtonia with "Mood Indigo" and "The Mooche," both with stellar soloing by Taft Jordan, trumpet, and Barney Bigard, clarinet. Loring "Red" Nichols and His Pennies (six of them) rip through "Royal Garden Blues," which has a nice trombone passage by Floyd O'Brien. On the reverse, cornetist Nichols turns in the album's finest instrumental performance, a Bix-like rendition of "I'm in the Mood for Love." Jay McShann's Kansas City Stompers conclude the book with "Come On Over to My House" and "Trouble in Mind," both with blues shouting by K.C.'s famous Julia Lee.

NEW RELEASES: COLUMBIA—Les Brown's theme, "Leap Frog," is backed by "Show Me the Way to Go Home," sung by Butch Stone and a quartet; Claude Thornhill's cold storage waxing of a good jump thing, "Buster's Last Stand," which has a nice trumpet solo by Randy Brooks, is with "I Don't Know Why." Sinatra's "Lily Belle," done with the Charioteers, is the best waxing of the tune. Reverse is "Don't Forget Tonight Tomorrow." Kate Smith sings "Some Sunday Morning" and "Dearest Darling." Columbia, incidentally, has just released Benny Goodman's famous "The Man I Love," with a Helen Forrest vocal, backed by a brand new sextet 12-inch version of "I Got Rhythm," with Mel Powell at the keyboard.

VICTOR—Dave Rose's first postwar disc pairs his "Nostalgia" and "Sweet Spirit," the latter based on the theme of "The Girl I Left Behind Me." The Murphy Sisters make a pretty sad debut with "Will the Angels Play Their Harps for Me?" and "Homesick—That's All." Cowboy Roy Rogers debuts with "Along the Navajo Trail" and "Don't Blame It All on Me." Victor's new album, "On the Moon-Beam," features Vaughn Monroe's orchestra, with strings and harp, doing "Moonlight and Roses," "Paper Moon," "Moonglow," "Moon of Monakoora," "Moon Over Miami," "Blue Moon," "Harvest Moon," "Carolina Moon," "Moon Love" and his theme, "Racing With the Moon." Vocals on each. DECCA—The Ink Spots are no better, no worse on "I'd Climb the Highest Mountain" and "Thoughtless." Jimmy Lunceford and the Delta Rhythm Boys are solid on "The Honeydripper" and "Baby, Are You Kiddin'?" SONORA: A three-record album of well-known Christmas Carols by the Sonora Choristers, 20 voices directed by Eugene Mott, assistant musical director of the Muny Opera.

Be Thorough In Your Job As Teacher

By Angelo Patri

IN teaching children of any age, we have to watch what we are doing and make certain that the child got the heart of the idea before we stop. We have to do most of our teaching by spoken words and only an experienced teacher can know what strange and wonderful meanings children give those words. They hear in spotty fashion, they remember the same way and they often gather weird notions of what we tried to tell them. Every point taught must be checked and rechecked to make certain that the thought went home and stayed there in truth, ready for use.

The teacher of primary reading must be more than careful here. Each child must be checked. The teacher must listen to him read, pronounce and sound words and syllables lest he set the wrong ones firmly in his mind, or what is equally bad, fail to set anything at all. In these days of silent reading, this becomes an imperative duty. Many non-readers are readers who lost a lesson in phonics one day and kept losing out from then on.

TEACHERS of religion have to be most conscientious in testing out the pupils' learning. First, the words must be correct to the last sound and syllable. The "cross-eyed bear" for "cross I'll bear," "Worry not, you'll get the quilt," for "Fear not, the Comforter will come" may be funny to adult, but the children who heard that way, who remembered that way, were not being taught as their teachers hoped.

No thorough teaching can be done, and no other kind is worth while, unless each step is tested, and checked, corrected, applied and checked again. There is no royal road to teaching or to learning. Progressive schools, the real ones, teach according to those principles.

THE SHORT-CUT, easy-way folk who acquired the name "progressive" because their ways were new in the tried and proved techniques of the real schools, overlooked these laws of learning and teaching and so came to grief. Traditional schools must avoid going their way. Thoroughness, and concentrated effort is essential to both teaching and learning.

Make sure each child gets the point. Reteach those who do not and ask the others to use their learning and so test it in practice. A lost point anywhere along the line is like the dropped stitch that weakens the whole fabric.

Your Stars

By Marion Drew

WHAT TO EXPECT TOMORROW.

Sun in Libra.

General Tendencies—Here we are getting a little more action into the small reflection of the great universe which we call a day. We have the sun now free from a tie with Saturn which has been preventing quick results in business, and we have a good many bright new ideas—some of them fanciful — opening up before us. I still think next week is the best time for beginning business ventures, but there are certainly possibilities shown today if you want to work hard to bring them out.

If Tomorrow Is Your Birthday.

Partnerships are the great topic of the coming year, both legal affairs in business and companionships in marriage. The general tendency of those born upon this day, in previous years, is to turn toward some older person or some one of a serious nature who seems older than his or her age. Think your choice over very carefully. Ordinarily, you like gayety and youthful associations, not the thoughtfulness which the later years require. If you think you are right, then make up your mind speedily—before the end of this year.

Tomorrow's Watchword—Your mode of expression must be without any question your own way of thinking, talking or working. I took a course once where I was supposed to copy the great writers—it is not necessary to think past over those results. I know now that a man who can handle a saw with ease and accuracy does it with just as much individuality as a writer who picks out fine words. As Oliver Wendell Holmes said, "Some surgeons 'ligate arteries'; other surgeons tie them, but it stops the bleeding just as well."

My Neighbor Says:

A dibber is a steel or cast-iron pointed instrument which you stab into the soil, give a twist and the hole is ready for the plant. It will dig holes in which bulbs are to be planted, much faster than a trowel.

Make corn-starch pudding with half the usual amount of sugar. Put a tablespoon of maple syrup in each serving dish before filling it with pudding.

When There's a Plane in Every Family

It's Going to Be a Risky Life, Mates, With Picnickers Overhead

By Henry McLemore

"I AM KEEPING MY STEEL HELMET, IN DREAD PROSPECT OF WHAT THE AIR IS GOING TO BE LIKE WHEN THE PREDICTED THOUSANDS OF PRIVATE PLANES START ROAMING THE HEAVENS."

I HAD just started to beat the steel helmet the Army let me keep as a souvenir into a combination sewing basket-flower pot, dog bowl for Aunt Deda's Christmas present, when something prompted me to glance through several aviation magazines that were around the house.

Aunt Deda isn't going to get the steel helmet. I am keeping it, in dread prospect of what the air is going to be like when the predicted thousands and thousands of private planes start roaming the heavens. Unless the aviation folk are over-optimistic, and the chances are they aren't, it won't be long before the sun will continually be in partial eclipse as Papa, Mama, Junior, Sister, Grandma and Grandpa zip overhead, bound for here, there and everywhere.

How would you like to be mowing your lawn, say, when the Jones family flies over enjoying an aerial picnic? The Jones family is the same family which, before the Age of Flight, held its picnics on the beach, or by some sylvan stream, and always left the premises littered with half-eaten peanut butter sandwiches, oranges, pop bottles, banana skins and cracked plates.

Out there mowing your lawn, you won't have a chance. There won't be any such thing as an air raid siren to warn you that picnickers are overhead and that you had better scamper for cover. You'll know about the flying Jones family when a pop bottle catches you between the shoulder blades, or a cream cheese and jelly sandwich comes zinging in at 3 o'clock and makes it itself at home on your forehead. You probably won't even see the plane. Working from cloud cover, and with Willie Jones, aged 9, acting as bombardier, the plane will be miles away, and dropping banana skins like incendiary bombs on some other front porch steps, when you stagger to your feet.

The more I consider the possible horrors of the air being filled with human locusts, the more I know that I am not only going to keep my tin hat, but am going to apply to the Surplus Property people for a flak suit. A flak suit isn't very well cut, there is no choice of color or style, and it's hot and heavy, but it would be a mighty nice thing to have hanging in the closet when the country club set starts home of a Saturday night.

I've heard tell of the goings-on at country clubs and such places, and the chances are that a lot of the pilots and pilotesses will be just as oiled as their plane motors, if not more so. When a man hears them coming over he would be wise to slip into his flak suit. It would offer good protection against flying bits of dizzy debutantes, or shrapnel from some prominent sportsman who had been having not only "one for the road," but one for each mile of the Lincoln Highway, and decided to land in your living room.

About the only solution I can see is the extensive use of radar spotters. Every family will have to have a radar set, and some member of the family will have to be manning it nearly all the time. For example, the Smith family is having a quiet little barbecue supper in the backyard. It is sister's shift on the radar. She picks up a plane coming in low, 10 miles away. Through experience—and through an intensive course of identifictaion—she is able to call out:

"To the shelters, to the shelters. A man and wife arguing about who is going to drive, coming this way. Low wing monoplane with loud talk."

Or——

"Hit the ground, hit the ground. Speeder, trying to get away from traffic cop, headed this way. Flying very low. Hedge-hopping."

No, it isn't going to be pleasant.

The Wright Brothers should have taken up banking, or law, or poultry farming.

Take My Word for It

By Frank Colby

Do You Make These Common Errors?

AVOID: "After having written the letter, I mailed it special delivery." The locution "after having" is redundant. Say: Having written the letter; or: After writing the letter.

Avoid: "I shall remain in the city for the balance of the year." The word "balance" is a bookkeeper's term. Better say: . . . for the remainder of the year.

Avoid: "They are both alike." Nonsense. Correct: They are alike.

Avoid: "He has great capacity as a speaker." Capacity is "the power to receive and retain," as the capacity of learning. Better say: He has great ability as a speaker.

Avoid: "He has no less than three decorations." We should not use "less" in qualifying that which can be numbered (counted). Correct: He has no fewer than three decorations. She has fewer (not "less") responsibilities than I.

Avoid: "It is liable to rain today," Liable expresses a liability, usually of an unpleasant nature. Improved: It is likely to rain today. If you speed, you are liable to arrest.

Never use poison sprays and dutss on vegetables and fruits which are to be eaten raw.

Contract Bridge

By Ely Culbertson

THERE were two errors in the bidding of today's deal—an error in policy by South and an error of judgment by North.

East, dealer.
North-South 60 on score.

North:

West:

♣AK109

East:

♣Q874

South:

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
Pass	1 spade	Double	Pass
1 no-trump	2 spades	3 diamonds	Double
Pass	3 hearts	Pass	Pass
Pass

Forced in clubs right from the start, South found it rough sailing in his three heart contract and went down a trick.

This was pretty bad, considering that West's three diamond bid could have been severely punished, or failing that, that South could have made four or five odd at spades.

In saying that two errors were made in the bidding I ignored the performance of both West and East, since they at least came out on the right end. Thus, we might merely observe in passing that West had his neck out when he bid three diamonds, and that East should have answered the original takeout double with two clubs, not one no trump.

But, to repeat, the real errors were contributed by South and, in a lesser degree, his partner. There was no excuse for South's veto of North's double, and the 60 score enjoyed by North-South did not mitigate South's offense an iota. North too knew the score; if, merely on the basis of South's one spade opening and not particularly strong rebid, North felt that the greatest profit was in doubling the opponents, South had no reason to disagree.

Since, however, South did elect to take out the double by bidding three hearts, it was up to North, if only from self-interest, to choose the contact that had the best chance of fulfilment. True, he had three hearts to the ace as against only two spades, but South's sequence of bids had made it clear that he greatly preferred the higher ranking suit. North should have read the 6-4 distribution South showed, and corrected the contract to three spades.
